A worn out chair may get left behind in a move, because it's not nice enough for the new house. It's worn for good reason. Somebody sat in it to read the morning paper and to watch television at night. Perhaps a child was rocked to sleep in his mother's arms while she rested in it. Kids may have jumped and crawled all over it.

Some of us might consider forsaking the revered and trusted to search for novel methods for coping and finding contentment. We don't need to – God is faithfully waiting to give our spirit rest and to hold us in His loving arms. Just like a comfortable old chair.

There's a place of comfort for you in God's house this week, why not step inside and have a seat?

Develop a Discerning Spirit

Learning to discern the good from the bad is essential for all of us on our spiritual journeys, and we are all on spiritual journeys. Part of the difficulty of discernment is that there is often very little to distinguish the good from the bad. For example, is dancing wrong? It really depends on the type of dancing, since there are dances of praise to God which are recommended in the Bible (Psalm 149:3), and there are dances that evoke lust (Mark 6:22). Is drinking wrong? Jesus converted water into wine as His first miracle (John 2:1-11), but preaches against drunkeness and gluttony (Luke 21:34). God gave us our minds as tools for life, and that includes developing a critical faculty of judgement that allows us to discern the good from the bad. Quite importantly, even the act of judging requires discernment. Jesus tells us to "Judge not, that you be not judged," (Matthew 7:1) and the context indicates that He is telling us not to make condemning judgements of others. But, in 1 Corinthians 2:15, we are told that "The spiritual man judges all things, but is himself to be judged by no one." The truly spiritual person is adept at discerning virtue and vice, but they do not sit in judgement over others. Almost anything can be good or bad, depending on how it is used. Strength, intelligence, and loyalty are certainly virtues when tied to a good will, but if used for evil purposes, these things become vicious. So, we should develop our spirit of discernment, relying on our conscience and our good judgement. However, we should not be too quick to condemn our neighbors because we don't know their hearts.

Do not quench the Spirit, do not despise prophesying, but test everything; hold fast what is good, abstain from every form of evil

Potassium and Blood Pressure Control

Potassium is a mineral that is necessary for many body functions, including muscle contraction and maintaining a regular heart beat. It is often used as a supplement when people take diuretics (fluid pills). Fluid pills tend to cause potassium loss in the urine. Individuals who are dehydrated or have recently experienced vomiting or diarrhea may also need potassium supplements. Recent high blood pressure treatment guidelines recommend increasing potassium and reducing sodium (salt) for blood pressure control.

One recent study showed that potassium may play a stronger role in controlling blood pressure and reducing heart disease than previously thought. Researchers collected urine samples over a 24 hour period from 2275 people enrolled in two other large blood pressure studies. They measured the amount of potassium and sodium in the urine. It was found that individuals with the lowest urine sodium to potassium ratio had the lowest risk for heart disease. This means that having adequate potassium intake may be as important as salt restriction as it relates to reducing the risk of heart disease.

How life b[illegible]re 'Mars' was for O'Mara

Jason O'Mara

Q: Has the act[illegible]o plays Sam on "Life on M[illegible]s" been in any othe[illegible]ws or movies? And is I[illegible]rried with children? –[illegible]t Zuber, West Allis, Wis.

A: Dubli[illegible], Irela[illegible]ative Jason O'Mara ha[illegible]eral series overseas [illegible]keley Square," "Monar[illegible] the Glen" and "High [illegible]s" among the[illegible]he acclaimed HBO [illegible]eries "Band of Brother[illegible]l to more work for hi[illegible] these shores. Prior to h[illegible]rent ABC job, his wee[illegible]hows here included "Th[illegible]ency" and "In Justice."

O'Mara also h[illegible]ppeared on "Grey's Anato[illegible] "CSI: Miami," "Crimin[illegible]nds," "Men in Trees," "Th[illegible] Closer" and "Trust Me," a[illegible]e was in the movie "Res[illegible] Evil: Extinction." On th[illegible]rsonal side, he is marrie[illegible]one of his "Agency" c[illegible]rs, Paige Turco (seen [illegible]ly on "Damages"); they h[illegible] a son.

Q: Will "Sons [illegible]narchy" be back on telev[illegible], and when? –Sylvia A[illegible]hon, San Antonio

A: The good ne[illegible]r you is that it will be b[illegible] but the less-good news is [illegible] you have a bit of a wa[illegible]X has renewed the mot[illegible]le-club drama – which in[illegible]s Ron Perlman and Kate [illegible]gal among its stars – [illegible] second season, but filmin[illegible]n't slated to begin until late A[illegible]l. The new episodes are [illegible]ected to begin running in [illegible]ll.

Q: I remember a [illegible]V movie called "Bodil[illegible] Harm" from a number o[illegible]years ago. It starred Jo[illegible]enny, Lisa Hartman B[illegible] and Kathleen Quinla[illegible]nd it had something to do with medical fraud. Do you have any information on whether this movie is out on DVD? – Norm Weggeland, Hernando, Fla.

A: The 1990 melodrama's title was "The Operation" when CBS originally aired it, and it cast Penny as a doctor sued for malpractice by a patient (played by the actress known just as Lisa Hartman then). While it hasn't been issued on DVD, it was released on VHS tape as "Bodily Harm" in 1992; copies still can be found if you shop around the Internet. (Don't mistake it for a 1995 Linda Fiorentino movie with the same title, nor the 1988 thriller "Grievous Bodily Harm," which featured Colin Friels.)

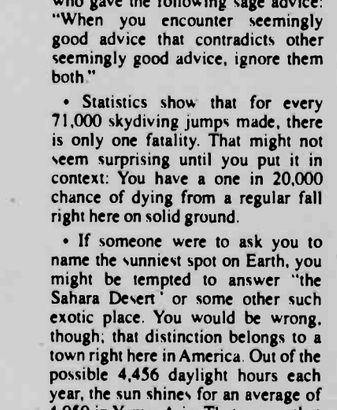
Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It was politician, liberal commentator and former comedian Al Franken who gave the following sage advice: "When you encounter seemingly good advice that contradicts other seemingly good advice, ignore them both."

• Statistics show that for every 71,000 skydiving jumps made, there is only one fatality. That might not seem surprising until you put it in context: You have a one in 20,000 chance of dying from a regular fall right here on solid ground.

• If someone were to ask you to name the sunniest spot on Earth, you might be tempted to answer "the Sahara Desert" or some other such exotic place. You would be wrong, though; that distinction belongs to a town right here in America. Out of the possible 4,456 daylight hours each year, the sun shines for an average of 4,050 in Yuma, Ariz. That means that there's cloud cover or rain for only about 10 percent of the time there.



• Floridians like myself are, unfortunately, familiar with large cockroaches, sometimes called palmetto bugs down South. While the bugs may inspire disgust, however, we should be glad we don't have to deal with their Paleozoic-era ancestors. Those who study such things say that cockroaches back then were the size of today's house cats.

• During the 19th century, first lady Lucy Hayes, wife of Rutherford B. Hayes, the 19th president of the United States, was widely known as "Lemonade Lucy." It seems she was an ardent supporter of temperance and therefore didn't allow alcohol to be served in the White House during her husband's four years in office.

• On March 15, 44 B.C., Julius Caesar, the "dictator for life" of the Roman Empire, is murdered by his own senators at a meeting in a hall next to Pompey's Theatre. The conspiracy against Caesar encompassed as many as 60 noblemen, including Caesar's own protege, Marcus Brutus.

• On March 13, 1781, English astronomer William Hershel discovers Uranus, the seventh planet from the sun. Herschel's discovery was the first to be made by use of a telescope, which allowed Herschel to distinguish Uranus as a planet, not a star, as previous astronomers believed.

• On March 12, 1933, eight days after his inauguration, President Franklin D. Roosevelt gives his first national radio address, or "fireside chat," broadcast directly from the White House. Roosevelt went on to deliver 30 more of these broadcasts between March 1933 and June 1944.

• On March 9, 1945, U.S. warplanes launch a new bombing offensive against Japan, dropping 2,000 tons of incendiary bombs on Tokyo and igniting the worst single firestorm in recorded history. Almost 16 square miles were incinerated, and between 80,000 and 130,000 Japanese civilians were killed.

• On March 14, 1950, the Federal Bureau of Investigation institutes the "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives" list in an effort to publicize particularly dangerous fugitives. The creation of the program arose out of a wire-service news story in 1949 about the "toughest guys" the FBI wanted to capture.

• On March 10, 1969, James Earl Ray pleads guilty to the assassination of civil-rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. and is sentenced to 99 years in prison. During the 1990s, King's widow and children spoke publicly in support of Ray and speculated about an assassination conspiracy involving the U.S. government and military.

• On March 11, 1997, Paul McCartney, a former member of The Beatles, is knighted by Queen Elizabeth II for his "services to music." The 54-year-old lad from Liverpool became Sir Paul in a centuries-old ceremony of pomp and solemnity at Buckingham Palace in central London.

Foreclosures Take Toll on Owners and Pets

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I have a cousin who needs help finding a good home for her three dogs. Her house is being foreclosed on, and she is struggling to find a place to live on a limited income. She has no car, her telephone will only call locally and her computer is on the blink. We contacted the no-kill shelters in our area, but none of them has ever responded. Where else can we find help? — Desperate in Desert Hot Springs, Calif.

DEAR DESPERATE: The foreclosure crisis has created another crisis in its wake: pets being abandoned by owners who are no longer able to care for them due to financial difficulties, because pets are not allowed in the residences they must rent or other factors.

Shelters are near or at capacity in the best of times, and these times are certainly not the best. However, you should continue to try and contact local no-kill shelters. If you can call beyond the local area, become your cousin's advocate and call shelters for her daily until someone responds.

Another avenue is to advertise in the local circular that the dogs are available. However, do not say that the dogs are free to a good home. There are reasons for this, which unfortunately I don't have room to list in today's column. Instead, ask for an amount that will cover veterinary and transportation costs for each dog. Insist upon meeting the potential owners. More information on giving up a pet can be found at: http://www.northbaycanine.org/lastresort2-txt.htm.

Because these solutions are iffy at best, your cousin must try and keep the dogs if at all possible. Can you or a family member take in one or more of the dogs? Can you help your cousin find affordable housing that also takes pets?

Helping a family member through this sort of crisis isn't easy, and you're a champ for stepping up. Don't give up on finding either a good home for the dogs or a place where your cousin can keep them.

Collecting

Q. I have about 20 pieces of Guardian Cookware from the 1940s. Does anyone collect items such as this? — Lois, Satsuma, Fla.

A. Aluminum Guardian cookware has become collectible in recent years. To find out about the history of Guardian and the pieces issued by the company, visit http://hcprobate.homestead.com/guardian.html. Incidentally, to clean this type of cookware, combine 2 tablespoons of cream of tartar and one quart of water and place in one of the pieces. Boil and simmer for about 10 minutes to remove many of the stubborn stains.

HOMESCHOOLERS LEARN ABOUT STEAM ENGINES – Dr. Greg Latta, professor of physics and engineering at Frostburg State University, recently presented a program about steam engines to 31 children and 10 adults at Accident Ruth Enlow Library's HomeSchooler event. Using miniature engines, most of which he built in his machine shop, Latta demonstrated the basic principles of steam engine technology. "The essence of today's presentation is heat," he began. "All steam engines start with a place that boils the water." He went on to explain the mechanics of the fly wheel, as well as the function of the cylinders and pistons. The next HomeSchooler program at Accident Library is scheduled for Thursday, March 19, from 1 to 2 p.m., with a presentation about the Discovery Center. Those seeking more information may contact Janet Otto at 301-746-8792. For all listings of Ruth Enlow Library programs and services, persons may visit the web site at www.relib.net.

The most accurate term for the entire asbestos worry is "scam." Of all the shoddy products hyped up on TV, anti-asbestos lawsuits may be the worst of all.

Gospel Sing Slated In Mtn. Lake Park

The Apostolics of Oakland, located at the corner of G Street and Rt. 135 in Mtn. Lake Park, will host a gospel sing this Sunday, March 8, at 10 a.m. A free-will offering will be collected.

The event will feature Kitty Warner of Walking by Faith Ministries, Patty Tichinel and Edie Paugh of Thankful Heart Ministries, and local assembly singers.

"DON'T SMOKE; STAY HEALTHY!" says Skylar Beckman in his winning poster. Sponsored by the Garrett County Health Department, the recent poster contest promoted "February Heart Health Month" and stressed the importance of not using tobacco. He is in Susan Friend's kindergarten class. Skyler is the son of Keith and Diane Beckman of Oakland.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

ASBESTOS COMMERCIAL

by Thomas P. Sheahen

Q. There's a commercial showing on several cable TV channels saying that asbestos causes lung cancer, and urging us to call some law firm. How serious a problem is that?

A. I wrote about the "asbestos scare" back in 2007, but it may be a good idea to go over the essential scientific issues once again. The commercial you're referring to begins with the scary words:

"If you or a loved one has been diagnosed with mesothelioma, you may be entitled to collect ..." and then goes on to dangle visions of big money in front of the viewer, winding up with "Don't hesitate to seek justice for the damages you or your loved ones have suffered!"

This is an entirely phony advertising gimmick by crooked lawyers. The whole idea is to get people to place that call, so as to build a list of customers for the law firm, and then perhaps entice people into suing somebody else for some other imagined evil. The entire purpose is to enrich the lawyers, not you.

Equally important to these lawyers is to maintain in the public mind the idea that asbestos is dangerous and unhealthy. If enough people believe that, then the likelihood that a jury will buy their arguments goes up and on average they'll obtain more money. The whole thing is a truly serious distortion of the honorable practice of law.

The key scientific fact is that there are different types of asbestos! The most common type, crysotile, is completely harmless. That's the type that gets wrapped around pipes for insulation, the type that older ceiling tiles are made of. Over 90% of all asbestos is of this type. It dissolves in water. If you breathe it in, it just goes out with your waste stream. No big deal.

The "bad" asbestos is the class known as amphiboles. mainly crocidolite. In reality, you have nearly zero chance of ever getting any crocidolite fibers into your lungs – it's used in floor tiles and brake shoes, hard as rock, and fibers of it don't float around in the air. You'd have to spend years working in a crocidolite asbestos mine or factory to be at risk.

Incidentally, in towns in Quebec where crysotile is mined, no excess cases of cancer have been observed there – a point that underlines the harmlessness of crysotile.

The trial lawyers depend very heavily on the inability of jurors to distinguish between crysotile and crocidolite. Regrettably, they've had considerable success extracting money from big companies because of that enduring confusion. The real payoff from running the mesothelioma commercial is attributable to keeping jurors misinformed.

Making matters worse, the federal EPA has likewise ignored the difference and simply dislikes all asbestos. Terribly unscientific, of course, but doing so helps keep public concern about environmental matters high.

If you ever get on a jury for an asbestos case, as soon as you get in the jury room, send a question back to the judge asking, "Was the type of asbestos involved crysotile or

Dr. Tuel To Speak At Third Annual GC Health Fair

Dr. David Tuel will be serving as a guest speaker at the third annual Garrett County Health Fair on Saturday, April 25, at Wisp resort, McHenry. He will explain treatment options available from conservative and surgical standpoints. "From broken hips to broken toes...how and why they break" is the topic to be addressed.

The talk will review fractures common in the elderly, such as a hip fracture, versus fractures more common in children such as those that occur while snowboarding and skiing; the science and biology of fracture healing; high impact/high energy fractures versus low impact/low energy fractures; open or contaminated fractures versus closed fractures; and treatment options from casts to plates, screws, and rods. The talk will also cover a broad spectrum of possible complications.

Before and after X-rays from actual cases will be used to illustrate certain fracture management avenues. Health fair visitors will be able to view actual hardware and instrumentation used in the operating room to care for these cases. A live demonstration of the application and removal of a cast will also be done and can help to alleviate the fear of this procedure, especially in young children.

Tuel is a board certified orthopedic surgeon and maintains an office on Memorial Drive, Oakland. He is a member of the surgical medical staff at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and serves as the sports team physician for Frostburg State University.

"Look Good, Feel Better®" Workshop Set

Garrett County Memorial Hospital and the American Cancer Society are sponsoring a workshop titled "Look Good...Feel Better®" designed for women undergoing treatment for cancer. The workshop will be held on Wednesday, March 18, beginning at 5:30 p.m. in the Community Services Center at the hospital.

"Cancer can rob a woman of her energy, appetite, and strength," said Lisa Schad, Wellness coordinator. "But it doesn't have to take away her self-confidence."

Look Good...Feel Better® is a free program that teaches beauty techniques to female cancer patients in active treatment to help them combat the appearance-related side effects of cancer treatment.

Volunteer cosmetologists teach women how to cope with skin changes and hair loss using cosmetics and skin care products donated by the cosmetics industry. The free cosmetic kits provided at these group sessions are available in light, medium, dark, and extra dark shades to enhance all complexion types. Women also learn ways to disguise hair loss with wigs, scarves, and other accessories.

"This program is not about medical procedures. Instead, it's about giving women the tools they need to take control of the appearance-related side effects of cancer treatment and feel better about themselves," Schad said.

Participants will receive a take-home instructional booklet and a complimentary kit of cosmetics containing a variety of products.

Any woman who has recently completed or is currently undergoing treatment is welcome to attend. The program is offered at no charge. However, preregistration is required. To register or obtain more information on the free program, persons should contact the Wellness Department at 301-533-4366.

Area Libraries To Hold Read Across America Day

Celebrating its 11th anniversary, Garrett County's local Read Across America Day will be held Saturday, March 7, at 11 a.m. at the Grantsville, Accident, and Friendsville branches of the Ruth Enlow Library. The event is the National Education Association's annual reading-promotion program. These are free events that are open to the public.

"Each year, we look forward to participating in the Read Across America Program because it provides a fun and interactive environment for area children to celebrate reading," said Charlie Ross, president/CEO of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

Dressed as the Cat in the Hat, Ross will read to children in Grantsville, local volunteer Lisa Fratz-Bonar from Annie's Kitchen will read to children in Accident, and Wally Waligorski, a local DJ from Sounds Fun Entertainment, will read to children in Friendsville.

While supplies last, children in attendance will be given a new book, provided by the chamber, the Garrett County Public Library System, and the Garrett County Education Association.

The Oakland and Kitzmiller branches held their Read Across America programs on March 2 and March 3, respectively.

Read Across America encourages every community to celebrate Dr. Seuss's birthday through reading motivation and awareness. "Sponsored by the National Education Association, Dr. Seuss Enterprises L.P., and more than 50 partner organizations on the national level, the award-winning literacy program also provides resources and activities needed to keep reading on the calendar 365 days a year," said a spokesperson.

Those seeking more information about the NEA Read Across America Program should visit www.nea.org/readacross and www.nea.org/booksacross.

PUTTING PERSONAL DATA TO WORK
One primary advantage of a digital hearing instrument is that it can be programmed in ways that optimize the wearer's listening experience. Along these lines, "data-logging" has emerged as a truly significant advancement in the way hearing specialists are able to customize their clients' experiences with their hearing instruments. With data-logging, hearing instruments actually record how wearers use their hearing devices, as well as the different listening environments in which listeners find themselves. Hearing specialists use this objective data to further customize the hearing instrument. Data-logging takes the guesswork out of programming hearing instruments and enables wearers to enjoy a fine-tuned experience. This feature helps eliminate any objections potential hearing instrument users may have to making a purchase.
Keeping pace with the fast-growing technology of today's hearing industry is an integral part of our business at AUDIBEL. Our experienced staff will use state-of-the-art diagnostic equipment to pinpoint and evaluate your hearing impairment. We then choose among a selection of hearing instruments to match the most appropriate aid with your individual needs. Our services continue with follow-up care and support.
P.S. The "self-learning" ability of some hearing instruments enables the instrument to learn and apply the wearer's volume changes and preferences for various listening situations.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Last Thursday's weather was wonderful; mild enough to go outside without a jacket. So for the first time since early fall I was able to exercise outside. It is not quite spring, but it is March, and it looks like it is coming in like a lion in the upper midwest and northeast. Personally, I would rather have the worst weather in the beginning of March than at the end when it is supposed to be spring.

And since it is the beginning of March, we have to decide if it came in like a lamb or a lion. It was not warm, but it wasn't very cold either, with no snow and little wind. In Bittinger I guess that qualifies "as a lamb."

Sunday, March 1, had the most spectacular sunset. It started with a brilliant orange below a layer of purple, and by 6 o'clock it was neon orange with a bit of fuchsia on the horizon.

Although we did get some snow during the very end of February, I have heard from lots of people who believe winter's back is broken. But I would be very surprised if we do not get some little spell of wintry weather before spring really arrives.

One positive thing this week is we turn our clocks forward one hour, so instead of darkness at 6 o'clock, next week it will stay light until at least 7 o'clock. It is a long way tor the wonderful, long summer evenings of daylight.

It was nice to have the big snow event in the metro area. In fact, my brother Barry couldn't make it in to work in Baltimore. He didn't have much luck at skiing in Bittinger last weekend; maybe he will have more luck in the Frederick area.

I can't believe the D.C. area got a foot of snow! When I was in College Park, even a few inches caused total chaos. It made the roads look like a bump-er-car arena.

President Obama presented a summary of his budget, and it is large. It's no wonder, because it includes something it never included before – funds for two wars that we are currently in, bailouts for banks, and some money for bailing out the economy. Of course, we hope there will not be a major natural disaster.

It looks like the bailout last fall was a good call, because I heard we have now – I think the figure is – 250 banks in trouble! That is before they even start to give our banks a stress test. I hate to think how many are sick.

Another piece of bad news that joins the rest of the big pile on our president's plate is the current number of Americans on unemployment, which has reached five million. One of the bad decisions of Obama was to not let the tax cut for the richest Americans expire until 2010. It is a real shame that the government will not get a chunk of those many billions of dollars in bonuses that the CEOs of failing businesses got. That piece of cash would be very helpful in dealing with our troubled economy. Those fat cats still have a chance to invest to create some jobs. Don't hold your breath.

Death Penalty Still Alive In Maryland; Debate To Continue

by Michael Frost
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – A bill to repeal the death penalty suffered a major setback on the Senate floor Tuesday despite an intense, last-minute lobbying effort by Gov. Martin O'Malley.

The passage of an amendment by Sen. James Brochin, D-Baltimore County, preventing defendants from being sentenced to death based solely on eyewitness testimony, changed the nature of the bill from one repealing the death penalty to one that would set tighter restrictions on its use.

Brochin's amendment was followed by another by Sen. Bobby Zirkin, D-Baltimore County, that would require biological or DNA evidence, videotaped voluntary confessions or video linking defendants to a crime in order for cases to become eligible for capital punishment. That amendment also passed.

The Senate will debate additional amendments Wednesday morning.

"The death penalty is still on the books," said Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr., D-Calvert, a death penalty supporter.

O'Malley, who co-sponsored the bill, remained optimistic in an evening press conference.

"That is a move forward. It might not be everything that those of us who want to repeal the death penalty would like, but it is the product of an honest and open dialogue and discussion," he said.

Tuesday morning, Miller authorized a vote in the Senate to substitute the original repeal bill for the unfavorable recommendation of the Judicial Proceedings Committee, the same tactic that led to the death penalty's reinstatement in 1978.

Procedural rules created considerable confusion during the Senate's special session Tuesday afternoon, causing Sen. E.J. Pipkin, R-Caroline, to propose sending the bill back to committee. With one member absent, a vote to do so deadlocked 23-23.

Pipkin later said the confusion over the various proposed amendments was "not a high moment" for the Senate.

Sen. Lisa Gladden, D-Baltimore, who co-sponsored the bill with O'Malley, said she was caught off guard by the amendments that effectively undid the bill.

"Nobody knew it was happening," she said. "It was so swiftly done."

The chairman of the Senate Judicial Proceedings Committee, Brian Frosh, D-Montgomery, said he wasn't surprised about the amendments undercutting the bill. Frosh wasn't optimistic about the prospects for repeal.

"There's still hope for this year," Frosh said. "But I'd say it gets dimmer after today."

Five men have been executed in Maryland since the death penalty was reinstated in 1978, and five more remain on death row. A de facto moratorium has been in place since 2006, when the Maryland Court of Appeals ruled that the state's lethal injection protocol did not comply with state law.

In December, the Maryland Commission on Capital Punishment voted 13-9 in favor of repeal.

Tuesday's showdown came after a heavy weekend of lobbying, fueled in a large part by O'Malley, who urged the public to contact senators. O'Malley's office said it sent out approximately 60,000 e-mails over the weekend.

"I am appreciative of the fact that President Miller and other members of the Senate leadership have allowed this debate to take place," O'Malley said.

Tuesday morning, Miller said he was surprised by the extent of the governor's lobbying efforts, but felt that it was an important issue that he didn't mind debating. By the end of the day, his tune had changed.

"This is not the Baltimore City Council, this is the Senate of Maryland," Miller said, referring to O'Malley's previous position as mayor of Baltimore.

"I love the governor, he's my governor, but in terms of this issue we're not going to be swayed by partisan politics, we're not going to be swayed by ginning up votes in Baltimore City and Montgomery County and elsewhere," he said.

Miller said he knew the process would be messy.

Treasurer Notes Successful Sale Of GO Bonds

Maryland State Treasurer Nancy K. Kopp announced that the Maryland Board of Public Works, which comprises Governor Martin O'Malley, Comptroller Peter Franchot, and Treasurer Kopp, completed on Wednesday the successful sale of $490,800,000 of General Obligation bonds.

For the first time in modern Maryland history, the state sold bonds totaling $291,580,000 by direct retail sale through a group of underwriters, giving first priority to Maryland residents. Bonds were available for sale in denominations of $5,000 each, beginnmg last Friday and ending on Monday. The average interest rate for these retail bonds was 3.47 percent.

Of the $291,580,000 sold in the direct retail sale, refunding bonds totaled $65,800,000. The sale of the bonds saved the state $2.9 million in debt service payments, according to Kopp.

She said that the success of this retail sale has motivated the state to consider again offering a first priority to Maryland citizens in its next sale of general obligation bonds, scheduled for early August 2009. Investors are advised to periodically check the following site: www.buymarylandbonds.com for updates.

Traditionally, large institutions had been the primary purchasers of the state's general obligation bonds sold by competitive bid. Availability of these bonds to individual investors had been limited.

At Wednesday's competitive sale, $199,220,000 of bonds sold at an interest rate of 3.39 percent, one of the lowest rates in 20 years for Maryland's general obligation bonds. The winning bidder was Merrill, Lynch. The sale occurred at 11 a.m. during the bi-weekly meeting of the Board of Public Works.

"We did extremely well in our first-ever direct retail sale," said Kopp, "allowing Maryland residents to buy our AAA-rated bonds, thus making a great investment in their state. Marylanders, like institutional investors, have made what I call a 'flight to quality.'

"Despite the difficult economic climate, our institutional sale also surpassed expectations," she continued. "We attracted a very favorable interest rate, a benefit to our taxpayers. Investors, both individual and institutional, appreciate Maryland's sound, prudent financial management."

All three bond-rating agencies – Standard & Poor's, Moody's, and Fitch Ratings – affirmed the state's AAA bond rating.

Maryland is one of only seven states to currently hold the AAA rating, the highest possible rating, from all three major bond-rating agencies. This rating enables the state to borrow money to undertake critical building projects, such as public schools, community colleges, prisons, hospitals, cultural projects, and other facilities, at lower interest rates.

In assigning its AAA long-term rating and stable outlook, Standard & Poor's cited Maryland's "well-defined financial management policies and a commitment to reserves, despite budget challenges."

Fitch Ratings, in assigning its AAA rating and stable outlook, said, "The state has taken prompt and repeated action to preserve operating balance to date, including tax increases, several rounds of spending cuts as well as a rainy day fund draw."

In explaining its Aaa rating and stable outlook, Moody's said, "Maryland has a good history of managing its finances through periods of fiscal stress... Moody's expects that, like other AAA-rated states, and in keeping with Maryland's historically conservative financial management and aggressive approach to dealing with budget shortfalls, the state will soon stabilize its finances."

Treatment Options for Gout

Gout is a painful condition in which there are attacks of inflammation that affect the joints. High levels of uric acid in the blood can lead to the accumulation of uric acid in joint fluid, causing inflammation. Uric acid is a breakdown product of chemicals called purines, which are contained in certain foods. Increased consumption of meat and fish or being overweight may increase the risk of gout. Symptoms include swelling, redness, and tenderness of the affected joints. Typically, gout attacks begin at the big toe or knee. Other body joints may also be affected.

Treatment incorporates prevention of future attacks, as well as relief of acute symptoms. Weight loss, dietary changes, and reduced alcohol consumption are lifestyle changes that are useful in the prevention of attacks. Pain relievers such as acetaminophen work to alleviate pain associated with an acute attack. Nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory medications such as indomethacin and naproxen may be taken to alleviate inflammation and pain. Colchicine is another type of anti-inflammatory medication that may be prescribed. Allopurinol works to decrease the production of uric acid. Probenecid and sulfinpyrazone increase the removal of uric acid from the body.

...pps. Now Being Accepted For Miss ...C Farm Bureau

The Garrett County Farm Bureau has announced that applications are now being accepted for Miss Garrett County Farm Bureau. The contest is slated for April 30 at 7 p.m. at the Bittinger fire hall.

The contest was established as the Farm Queen Contest and has evolved into a competition that emphasizes professionalism. The purpose is to identify young women with an agricultural background to serve as leaders to promote Maryland's agricultural industry and the Farm Bureau throughout the year and in the future.

Each contestant will be asked to present a 90-second speech that highlights her agricultural and community involvement. This is a requirement of the state to demonstrate an ability to represent the agricultural community.

The 2009 Miss Garrett County Farm Bureau is required to attend an orientation at the Maryland State Fairgrounds, Timonium, on Monday, Aug 3. This differs from previous years as it is not the first Monday of the Garrett County Agriculture Fair. She will be required to attend the 2009 Miss Maryland Agriculture Contest on Thursday and Friday, Aug 20 and 21.

The winner will be awarded a $500 cash prize at the county and will be awarded a minimum of $100 at the state level depending on placement. Miss Maryland Agriculture will be awarded approximately $13,000 in the form of a college scholarship.

Contestants must be between the ages of 16 and 19 as of April 1. She and/or her family must also be a current Farm Bureau member and be involved in the agricultural industry in Garrett County. Completed applications are due Thursday, April 9, and are available by contacting Mikal Ann Zimmerman, Farm Bureau Women's committee chair, at 301-334-0511.

Produce Markets Need Additional Products To Sell

Farmers interested in diversifying their operation to include fresh produce may find that markets are indeed looking for more products, according to Cheryl DeBerry, natural resources business specialist for Garrett County Economic Development.

"As the economy worsens and more people cook foods at home to save money, demand for locally produced products remains high," DeBerry said.

Restaurants in particular are looking for fresh local ingredients to feature in their establishments, she said. Representatives from eight restaurants and institutions recently attended a meeting with local growers to try to make connections to find fresh produce, herbs, and cut flowers.

FRESH PRODUCE IN DEMAND – Despite the downturn in the economy, the demand for locally produced products remains high, according to Cheryl DeBerry, natural resources business specialist for Garrett County Economic Development. See story.

"Our customers are asking for us to serve them the freshest products, and buying locally is the way to do it," said Brenda McDonnell of Brenda's Pizzeria. "I'm excited that we're getting together with local growers."

Countryside Produce Auction in Springs, Pa., features regionally grown fresh produce, eggs, and plants. According to Aaron Tice, owner, the auction could support a lot more fresh produce, as more restaurants, retail stores, and produce suppliers are attending to purchase locally grown foods.

A farmers' market in McHenry has been only moderately successful, partly because the lack of growers taking part.

"We feel that if we get more growers to attend the McHenry market, it could be very successful," said DeBerry.

The Mountain Fresh farmers' market in Oakland supports several fresh produce vendors, as well as those with baked goods, jams and jellies, and crafts. Though the market is often quite busy, DeBerry noted that the opportunity still exists for additional fruits, vegetables, herbs, berries, and other fresh produce.

Anyone interested in any of these markets may contact DeBerry at cdeberry@garrettcounty.org or 301-334-6968.

Preston County Farm Service Agency Reports

Eric M. McCartney, County Executive Director
Preston County FSA Office
425 E. Main St., Suite 420, Kingwood, WV 26537-1793

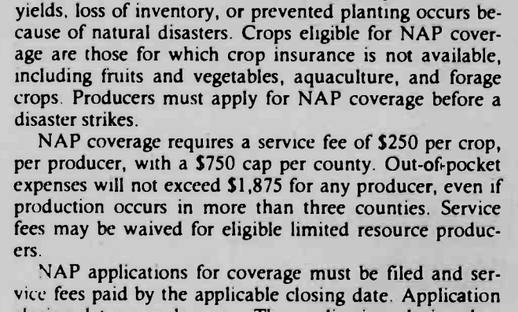
DEADLINE FOR NAP AND CROP INSURANCE IS MARCH 16

Eric McCartney, county executive director of USDA's Farm Service Agency in Preston County, reminds producers of the March 16 deadline to obtain Noninsured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) and Federal Crop Insurance for spring seeded crops.

NAP is a federally funded program that provides coverage to producers for non-insurable crops when low yields, loss of inventory, or prevented planting occurs because of natural disasters. Crops eligible for NAP coverage are those for which crop insurance is not available, including fruits and vegetables, aquaculture, and forage crops. Producers must apply for NAP coverage before a disaster strikes.



NAP coverage requires a service fee of $250 per crop, per producer, with a $750 cap per county. Out-of-pocket expenses will not exceed $1,875 for any producer, even if production occurs in more than three counties. Service fees may be waived for eligible limited resource producers.

NAP applications for coverage must be filed and service fees paid by the applicable closing date. Application closing dates vary by crop. The application closing date for 2009 annual crops, such as vegetables, is Monday, March 16.

Preston County farmers are reminded that the final date to apply for crop insurance for corn and oats is also March 16. Current policyholders also have until March 16 to make any changes to their existing contracts. Crop insurance provides protection against losses from natural perils such as drought, hail, wind, and excessive moisture.

Farmers may also want to inquire about Crop Revenue Coverage, a revenue plan that offers protection against market price declines for crops like corn. In addition, low-cost group plans such as the Group Risk Plan and Group Risk Income Protection are also available in many counties for corn.

Producers are strongly urged by McCartney to contact a local crop insurance agent as soon as possible for premium quotes and more details. For a list of crop insurance agents, persons may visit the Farm Service Agency office located in the Corner Mall of the Kingwood Plaza, or telephone 304-329-1923. Persons may also log on to the Risk Management Agency web site at http://www.rma.usda.gov/tools/agents/.

Balance of the purchase price, together with interest on the unpaid purchase money at the current rate contained in the Deed of Trust Note from the date of sale to the date funds are received by the Trustees, payable in cash within ten days of final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court. There will be no abatement of interest due from the purchaser in the event additional funds are tendered before settlement or if settlement is delayed for any reason. TIME IS OF THE ESSENCE FOR THE PURCHASER. Adjustment of current year real property taxes will be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. A STATE "THREE-PEATER" – Only a handful of high school athletes in Maryland can lay claim to having won three consecutive individual state wrestling championships, and joining that elite group this past Saturday was Southern High School's George "Brutus" Scheffel, who won the title in the 140-pound division. Scheffel is pictured above dominating Gus Mohlhenrich of Winters Mill High School in the title bout, held at the University of Maryland's Cole Field House in College Park. He recorded a 10-1 major decision over Mohlhenrich to claim the title. Scheffel, a junior, now has a shot at becoming only the fourth wrestler in Maryland history to win a fourth state championship. The individual title was one of four captured by the Rams, as Scheffel's brother Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel, Lex Ozias, and Jordan Skipper also won, leading the Rams to the 2008-09 team championship. Northern's Adam Moranduzzo also won an individual title, giving Garrett County athletes five of the 14 available in the event. The Rams, coached by Dave Taylor, were one of 70 schools represented in the tournament. The Northern Huskies tied for seventh place as a team. See sports pages for details. RAMS, HUSKIES HONORED BY BOARD – The Garrett County Board of Education, at its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, recognized members of the Southern and Northern high school wrestling teams for their outstanding achievements at last weekend's Maryland State 1A/2A Wrestling Tournament, held in College Park. After winning the state dual championship a few weeks ago, the Southern Rams also captured the regular state team title on Saturday, as well as four individual state championships. Southern, under head coach Dave Taylor, defeated 69 other 1A and 2A schools to bring home the team championship, after placing second last year. The Northern Huskies, coached by Scott Stough, finished tied for seventh place and had one individual state champion. Pictured from left are: Dustin Stough, state runner-up, 160 pounds; Coach Stough; Rodney Durst, board of education president; Adam Moranduzzo, Northern, state champion, 135-pound division; Jordan Skipper, Southern, state champion, 152 pounds; Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel, Southern, state champion, 145 pounds; Lex Ozias, Southern, state champion, 130 pounds; Coach Taylor; George "Brutus" Scheffel, Southern, state champion, 140 pounds; Josh Arnold, Southern, fifth place, 125 pounds; Ryan Bennett, Southern, state runner-up, 189 pounds; and Dr. Wendell Teets, school superintendent. Not present for the photo was Northern's Josh Duckworth, fifth place, 130 pounds. See sports pages for story and action photos.

Local Lawmakers Introduce Dormant Mineral Legislation

At the request of Garrett County residents and landowners, Sen. George Edwards and Del. Wendell Beitzel have introduced legislation in the General Assembly to add Maryland to the list of states that have passed the Dormant Mineral Act.

The purpose of SB 775/ HB 748 is to make uniform the law governing dormant mineral interests among the states.

"This is critically important legislation," Beitzel said. "We are seeking to protect the land owners and holders of mineral rights to come to some clarity on who owns what."

Though it is a statewide bill, he added, this legislation is important to Garrett County, where there is evidence that a large amount of natural gas is located in the Marcellus shale.

"When energy prices peaked in 2008, there was a lot of activity by natural gas leasing, exploration, and drilling companies to lease private properties in Garrett County," Edwards said. "We are making sure that when activity does occur, it is done in the right way."

He noted that after signing leases, many Garrett County property owners were surprised to learn that the minerals may have been reserved under their property years ago. In many instances, it was virtually impossible to find out who, if any, is still out there to claim the mineral or gas privileges.

"Despite the claims of some," Beitzel said, "this

Bird Deaths Linked To Salmonella Outbreak, Says Local Naturalist

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources began receiving reports of sporadic bird mortalities associated with bird feeders in Garrett County in late February. While only a few pine siskins were noted initially, subsequent reports of more carcasses have been received as snow melts and birds are found nearby, according to naturalist Caroline Blizzard of the Maryland Park Service.

To determine the cause of these mortalities, several carcasses were collected and shipped to the National Wildlife Health Center in Madison, Wisc.

"Gross examination results indicate a salmonella (bacterial) infection as the cause of the mortalities," Blizzard said. "Virginia, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania have also reported similar incidents."

Salmonellosis is reported in passerine birds in early spring and frequently in pine siskins and other birds commonly seen at feeders. Signs may include lethargy and ruffled feathers, and apparent tameness; however, birds often exhibiting no signs are found dead near feeders.

"Dead birds should be double bagged in plastic and disposed of in the trash," Blizzard said. "Be sure not to touch the birds, and wash your hands after disposal."

Salmonella infections are transmitted bird to bird at feeders through fecal contamination. To decrease the

Falling Revenues Lead To Forecast Of Half Billion In State Budget Cuts

by Dylan Waugh
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – Gov. Martin O'Malley said Wednesday that the state will need to cut $516 million from next year's budget and may have to reconsider recently scrapped plans to lay off state employees in light of plummeting tax revenue projections.

O'Malley said he hopes to avoid layoffs, but wouldn't rule them out as a possibility.

"We're looking at all options," O'Malley said.

Three weeks ago, O'Malley scrapped plans to lay off 700 state employees, make deep cuts to public schools, and keep community college funding level in anticipation of federal stimulus money flowing into the state.

Senate President Thomas V Mike Miller Jr., D-Calvert, and House Speaker Michael Busch, D-Anne Arundel, both stressed the need to avoid layoffs.

"We're going to do everything we can to keep people in the workforce," Busch said.

The pair mentioned more state employee furloughs and cuts to higher education as possible ways to reduce spending. Highway transportation funding, money for land conservation, and grants to counties could also be subject to cuts, Busch said.

Earlier this week, O'Malley repeated his pledge to keep tuition frozen at all state universities – a policy which may now be reversed.

Oakland Man Seriously Injured In Cycling Accident

An Oakland man was seriously injured in a motorcycle accident Saturday on Garrett Highway, near Foster Road. Garrett County sheriff's deputies responded to the scene.

Joshua Paul Sines, 26, was reportedly traveling north on Garrett Highway, when he lost control of his vehicle. Southern Rescue Squad transported Sines to Garrett County Memorial Hospital and then to Ruby Memorial Hospital, Morgantown, WVa., because of the severity of his injuries.

Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company and Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

BOE Is Presented With Tentative 2009-10 Budget

The Garrett County Board of Education recently met for its March meeting. The tentative 2009-10 budget was presented by superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets and executive director of administration Ervin L. Fink during an hour-long executive session.

The Board of County Commissioners recently directed all agencies to submit a budget equal to that of 2009, and the county finance administrator advised that appropriate budget requests be made during the month of March. The board was encouraged to begin budget development, with the exception that additional funding be requested for project increases in rates for medical insurance.

The General Assembly is still in session and state-aid will not be finalized until later in the session. The budget presentation included information about Governor Martin O'Malley's budget, as well as his announcement to restore funds for education. This still needs enabling legislation, and there are no firm figures on the federal economic stimulus funding.

The increases in rates for medical insurance will be either 15% to continue with a fully insured program or 12% to change to a self insured program. The insurance consultant, CBIZ, will meet with county commissioners on Tuesday, March 17, to discuss the pros and cons of the self-insured program. The board's proposed budget request includes figures for both scenarios.

As state funding and revenue figures are finalized, the superintendent's 2009-10 budget will be revised and resubmitted prior to its final adoption.

Garrett County Health Dept. Receives $625K Drug Free Communities Grant

The Garrett County Health Department is using a $625,000 federal grant to reduce underage drinking and drug abuse. Health Department personnel reviewed their plans for the Garrett County commissioners on Tuesday.

The department received the U.S. Drug Free Communities Service Program grant through the Garrett County Drug and Alcohol Council. Kendra Todd, the Health Department's education director, described the grant award process as competitive. Of 420 applicants from across the nation, only 200 received funding, she said.

"We've been seeing a bad trend in Garrett County as far as drug use and alcohol abuse, especially in our younger people," health officer Rodney Glotfelty told the commissioners.

He indicated the awarding of the grant was crucial and timely, given recent state cutbacks. The money will help staff "concentrate on this important problem here," the health officer said. The grant was awarded in October, and the department will receive $125,000 a year for the next five years.

The main focus of the grant is prevention, to help communities develop strategies to steer minors away from "entry-level" drugs, specifically, alcohol, marijuana, and prescription drugs.

"Its probably a better investment of your dollar," Glotfelty said about preventive measures. "Even the best treatment may only be about 15, 20, to 25 percent effective. A lot of people go through the treatment, and then it takes multiple times for them to shed that monkey that's on their back."

Bob Stephens, director of behavior and family health, said Garrett County is known to be 10 or more years behind in certain trends, compared to eastern counties. He added he would like the county to be 100 years behind when it comes to abuse problems.

"But in Allegany County, things are bad, and here, we have major problems with drugs," Stephens said. "And we see it in treatment all the time."

He noted that it was "big

New Bill Promises $1.6 Million For J. Randolph Lake

Senator Barbara A. Mikulski, a senior member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, recently announced the 2009 Omnibus Appropriations Act, which passed the Senate Tuesday, and includes $1.6 million for Jennings Randolph Lake. The bill now heads to the president to be signed into law.

"This bill is a federal investment in the lives and livelihoods that depend on the waterways of Maryland," said Mikulski. "I will continue to fight to keep western Maryland a priority in the federal checkbook."

The Omnibus bill includes funding for the operating and maintenance of Jennings Randolph Lake in Garrett County. In addition to securing funding for Jennings Randolph lake, Mikulski also successfully secured $75 million in this year's spending for the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC).

The ARC is a federal-state partnership that works with the people of Appalachia to create opportunities for self-sustaining economic development and improved quality of life.

Local Churches Burglarized; GCSO Seeking Leads

Detectives with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office are investigating the burglaries of two local churches and the attempted burglary of a third.

Sometimes between late Thursday night and early Friday morning, unknown suspect(s) entered the Mtn. Lake Park Independent Baptist Church and Oak Park Church of the Brethren. Both churches were forcibly entered, causing damage to each.

Once inside the churches, suspect(s) ransacked offices, possibly searching for currency or valuables. Both churches sustained internal damages. No currency was present at either church.

Unknown suspect(s) also attempted to gain entry into St. Peter the Apostle Church, Oakland, but could not gain entry. They did damage the main door with the failed attempt to gain entry.

Those with any information regarding these incidences are asked to contact the Garrett County Sheriff's Office at 301 334 1911.

Reconfiguration Of Bloomington School Approved By BOE

The Garrett County Board of Education voted to approve the reconfiguration of Bloomington School from a Pre-K–8 to Pre-K–5, effective in the 2009-2010 school year. The decision was finalized at the March meeting held this week.

Several parents of Bloomington students requested that their children attend Southern Middle School last year. The change has been met positively by most parents, and it is thought that the instructional needs of the children will be better met if they are transitioned at middle school age, rather than high school. The change will also enable the school to provide better support and resources for the Pre-K through 5 program.

A meeting held at the school last week brought together at least 30 parents, teachers, and students from Bloomington and Southern Middle School, as well as superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets and executive director of instruction Sue Wag-goner. A total of 19 students will be affected by the change, and the main concern was the bus routes, which will be addressed with the addition of another bus to the area.

The board feels it will be a major improvement to the instructional programs and does not anticipate any jobs lost in the transition.

Val Teagarden To Serve On ABIA's Board Of Directors

Val Teagarden, CEO & president at First United Insurance Group, was recently elected to serve on the American Bankers Insurance Association's board of directors at the February board meeting.

"We are very pleased to have Val as an ABIA board member," said Valerie Barton, executive director, ABIA. "Her leadership and experience in the bank-insurance area will be a great asset to ABIA and its membership."

ABIA's mission is to develop policy and provide advocacy for banks in insurance and to support bank-insurance operations through research, education, compliance assistance, and peer-group opportunities. William Grant, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, First United Corporation, stated, "We are extremely proud of Val's election to the ABIA board of directors. This is quite an accomplishment for Val."

"ABIA continues to serve as the leading advocate for banks offering insurance products and services," said Teagarden. "I am honored to serve on the board of directors for an organization that is well regarded by lawmakers and regulators, and, most importantly, its membership."

First United Insurance Group is a full-line independent insurance agency licensed in Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania, D.C., and Delaware.

Council Members Re-Elected For Two-Year Terms

The results of Oakland's town municipal election were recently received, with the three previous council members re-elected for another two years.

Harvey "Jay" Moyer received 82 votes, Jack Riley received 78 votes, and Terry Helbig received 68 votes. There were two write-in candidates, Cherie Ross and Von Johnson, who received 20 and 8 votes, respectively.

Oakland Man Sentenced For Sexual Offenses

A case involving a 29-year-old Oakland man was heard in Garrett County Circuit Court last Friday. Storm Michael Cline entered Alford pleas to committing a fourth degree sexual offense and a perverted sexual practice.

Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced him to one year in the Garrett County Jail for the sexual offense and 18 months in the Division of Corrections for the perverted sexual practice, to run concurrently.

All but 30 days of the sentences was suspended. Cline was placed on probation and ordered to register as an offender on the sex offender registry.

Cline was arrested and charged by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in August 2008 after it was reported that he had a relationship with an underage person earlier that month. Evidence obtained through witness interviews and a search of Cline's residence corroborated the victim's report, according to State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch.

In entering the Alford-style plea, Cline did not admit his guilt, but acknowledged the strength of the state's case would likely lead to a conviction, Welch noted.

Oakland Man Sentenced To 18 Mos. For Issuing Bad Checks

In recent Garrett County District Court proceedings, the case of Floyd James Knox Jr., 47, Oakland, was heard. Knox was found guilty for multiple charges filed by 10 area businesses for issuing bad checks.

Judge Leonard J. Eiswert sentenced Knox to 18 months, with 15 months suspended, and three years of supervised probation for three charges of uttering bad checks with an amount under $500. For seven charges of uttering bad checks with amounts of less than $100, he was sentenced to 90 days with 90 days suspended, and three years of supervised probation. Fines were suspended on all charges, but he was ordered to pay over $2,400 in restitution costs.

Knox was not prosecuted on 15 charges of uttering a bad check with amounts less than $100, four charges of theft less than $500, three charges of uttering a bad check with an amount under $500, four charges of theft less than $100, two charges of theft-scheme of less than $500, and two charges of knowingly issuing bad checks over a 30-day period.

In an unrelated case, James Harold Weeks Jr., 48, Swanton, was found guilty for issuing a false statement to an officer and was sentenced to six months, with fines suspended. His charge stemmed from a traffic stop initiated by Garrett County sheriff's officers in December 2008, where Weeks was a passenger in the vehicle.

When confronted by officers for not wearing a seatbelt, Weeks allegedly gave a false identity. It was reported that the officer on duty recognized Weeks from previous experiences and after running his name through dispatch, found that there were several warrants out for the defendant's arrest. He was then placed under arrest.

A search incident to arrest on Weeks revealed two pills of oxycodone, a schedule II narcotic. A search of the vehicle revealed several containers of marijuana. Weeks was transported to the Garrett County Detention Center without incident. He was not prosecuted on charges of controlled dangerous substance (CDS) possession not marijuana, CDS possession of marijuana, and CDS possession of paraphernalia.

In another court hearing, Mitchel Terry Jackson, 52, Oakland, was handed a guilty verdict for charges of second degree assault and malicious destruction of property valued at less than $500. For the assault charge, he was sentenced to 90 days with all being suspended, two years of supervised probation, and $57.50 in fines. Jackson was sentenced to 60 days with 60 days suspended, and two years supervised probation for the destruction charge, all to be served concurrently.

The charges stemmed from a domestic altercation in September 2008. GCSO responded and upon arrival, observed Jackson on the ground with an adult victim. Officers were able to gain control of the defendant and place him in hand restraints. According to the report, Jackson appeared to be intoxicated. After an investigation, officers were made aware that Jackson had broken items inside the place of residence that belonged to the victim as well as threw items outside onto the ground.

Dion Maurice Smith, 30, Baltimore, was found guilty for a charge of CDS possession of marijuana and was sentenced to 30 days, with 28 days suspended, one year of unsupervised probation, and $257.50 in fines.

In July 2008, Maryland State Police initiated a traffic stop on Smith after he was registered to be speeding. Upon making contact with the defendant, officers reportedly detected the odor of burnt marijuana.

After officers had Smith exit his vehicle, a search was done which revealed two bags of suspected marijuana and a partially burnt suspected marijuana blunt. He was placed under arrest for possession and was taken to the McHenry barrack for processing. He was not prosecuted on a CDS possession of paraphernalia.

Jeffery Thomas, 20, Oakland, pleaded not guilty, but was handed a guilty verdict for a second degree assault charge, and was sentenced to 30 days with 28 days suspended, one year of supervised probation, and $257.50 in fines. Details of the case were not available.

Amy Thomas, 40, Oakland, pleaded not guilty to a second degree assault charge, was found guilty, and was sentenced to 30 days with 28 days suspended, one year of supervised probation, and $257.50 in fines. Details of the case were not available.

David Wayne Welch, 46, Oakland, was found not guilty for a disorderly conduct charge from September 2008.

Susan Renee Bittinger, 38, Oakland, was handed a not guilty verdict for a second degree assault charge from November 2008 stemming from an altercation with another adult.

Keith Edward Lucas, 40, Frostburg, was not prosecuted on charges of theft at $500 plus-value and failure to pay a regular wage. He was charged in November 2005.

Angela Yvonne Shaffer, 40, Mtn. Lake Park, was not prosecuted on a first degree assault charge from January, stemming from an altercation with another adult.

MT. BEULAH GROUP RECEIVES DONATION – Grantsville resident Wayne Durst presented a check for $5,481.01 last Thursday evening to the Mt. Beulah Restoration Association Inc. The nonprofit group is restoring the 126-year-old Mt. Beulah New Germany Methodist Church. Half of the donation will go toward the church's cemetery fund, and the rest will go into the association's building fund. The money originated from Durst's uncle, George Miller. Before he died sev-eral years ago, Miller gave his nephew $1,000 for the upkeep of family lots in the Mt. Beulah cemetery. Durst put the money in a passbook savings account, where it accumulated interest. He later transferred some of that money to a certificate of deposit. Last year, Durst donated the passport savings account money ($2,822) to the cemetery fund. The CD money ($5,481.01) was presented to the association last week. Miller's $1,000 investment, therefore, garnered more than $8,300 for the church's cemetery and restoration funds. Pictured, left to right, are Durst and Carol Warnick, association treasurer.

Lt. Col. Cynthia Smith Named As Frostburg State Police Chief

Frostburg State University has chosen a 22-year veteran of the Maryland State Police as the next chief of University Police. Retired MSP Lt. Col. Cynthia R. Smith of Grantsville, who is currently the administrator of the Garrett County Detention Center, will assume her duties April 1.

"I was extremely impressed with Chief Smith's view of the role she wants to play with our students and the local community," said FSU president Jonathan Gibralter. "Her goal for the future is on prevention first, enforcement, and developing relationships with students and the community. I feel very fortunate to have someone of her caliber agree to join the Frostburg State University community."

Smith said a university atmosphere, and specifically FSU's atmosphere, fits well with her policing philosophy.

"I'm a participatory manager and a participatory police officer," she said. "It's critical to listen to the community we have there, the students, the faculty, and the police officers. Frostburg State University really embodies the community policing concept."

Smith said she agrees wholeheartedly with Gibralter's approach to preventing the abuse of alcohol among students.

"He's committed to preventing dangerous binge drinking, and his ideas are dead spot on," she said.

Smith has spent a total of 26 years in law enforcement, including 16 years in a command capacity, such as chief of the MSP Special Programs.

She holds master's and bachelor's degrees from the Johns Hopkins Police Executive Leadership Program, and she is also a graduate of the Federal Bureau of Investigation National Academy, the Police Executive Research Forum, the Traffic Institute of Northwestern University, and Garrett Community College.

Smith succeeds acting police chief Clyde W. "Bill" Stewart, a 34-year veteran of University Police, and Police Chief Brian Shanley, who served as chief since 1988 and who retired in October.

"Cynthia certainly has been a valuable employee of Garrett County government," said county administrator Monty Pagenhardt.

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners met with Sheriff Gary Berkebile on Tuesday to discuss finding a replacement for Smith.

"As with all other positions, we plan to/prefer to promote within/from the Sheriff's Office," Pagenhardt noted. "The Board of Garrett County Commissioners, therefore, provided Sheriff Berkebile with the authority to appoint a replacement law enforcement officer, most likely an entry level deputy position, after all other promotions are complete."

Canada Goose Depredation Help Available In Md.

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Wildlife Services are coordinating to offer Maryland property owners and farmers the necessary tools to manage problems caused by resident Canada geese.

Under the Nest and Egg Depredation Order, private landowners and public land managers may now destroy resident Canada goose nests and eggs on property under their jurisdiction between March 1 and June 30 if necessary to resolve or prevent injury to people, property, agricultural crops, or other interests.

Before any goose nests or eggs may be destroyed, landowners must go online to register with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Landowners must register employees or agents that may act on their behalf Registration is valid for one nesting season and must be renewed each year before nests and eggs may be destroyed. There is no fee for registration. No state permit is required to destroy nests or eggs in Maryland.

The Agricultural Depredation Order allows agricultural producers, including landowners, operators, and tenants actively engaged in commercial agriculture, to use certain lethal methods to control resident Canada geese on lands that they personally control and where geese are damaging agricultural crops.

State authorization is required to conduct this control. A federal permit is not required.

Goose nests and eggs may only be destroyed between March 1 and June 30, and geese may only be taken between May 1 and August 31. All management actions must occur on the premises of the depredation area. Geese may not be taken using hunting methods such as decoys and calls.

Agricultural producers can apply for a free state permit in person at the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service, Wildlife Services, 1568 Whitehall Road, Annapolis, MD 21409, or by calling 1-877-463-6497.

"In 2008, the Maryland DNR modified its regulations to help make resident Canada goose population control efforts more effective and user friendly for landowners and managers," said Larry Hindman, DNR Wildlife and Heritage Service waterfowl project leader. "We hope these programs will make it easier for Marylanders to resolve resident Canada goose conflicts."

According to the DNR, past efforts have shown Canada goose depredation control is most effective when a combination of techniques is used in concert with hunting seasons (special early and regular resident Canada goose seasons and liberal bag limits), nest and egg destruction, non-lethal treatment methods such as hazing with propane cannons, pyrotechnics, and lethal alternatives.

"As with most wildlife problems, an integrated approach using a combination of tools has proven to be the best way to deal with resident Canada goose depredation," added Hindman. "In most cases, non-lethal methods work quite well. However, the special depredation orders provide an additional prescription that deals with persistent geese in chronic cases."

For additional information about resident Canada geese and other Maryland waterfowl, persons can visit the DNR web site dnr.state.md.us/wildlife/waterfowl.asp.

Accidental Fire Destroys Loader At Lumber Co.

An accidental fire Sunday afternoon resulted in the destruction of a piece of machinery at a lumber company south of Oakland.

Volunteers from the Oakland and Aurora, W.Va., fire departments were summoned at 12:37 p.m. to respond to the Blue Ribbon Lumber Company, 215 Blue Ribbon Road off U.S. Rt. 219. Upon their arrival, a 2001 Serco 170A knuckle boom log loader was engulfed in flames.

According to Maryland Deputy Fire Marshal Michael Mattingly, hot embers from a nearby burn pile were blown into the machinery, setting it on fire.

Approximately a dozen firefighters responded to the scene and brought the fire under control in about 10 minutes. Mattingly estimated the loss to be $23,000.

The property is owned by Ronald Sisler. The fire was discovered and reported by a neighbor.

There were no injuries reported.

Potatoes, They Ain't...

In an age of rapidly growing numbers of couch potatoes, particularly among our young people, how gratifying – how fantastic – it is to see the ongoing accomplishments of our local high school wrestlers.

The wrestling programs at both of our high schools have been from good to truly outstanding now for many years, obviously among the best in the state, as the Southern Rams brought home the state team title this year, and the Northern Huskies, previous winners of a state title, placed seventh among 70 1A and 2A schools that were represented in the state tournament on Saturday. Southern and Northern are both 1A schools, and they generally dominate many – and in Southern's case this year, all – of the 2A teams, from schools that are up to twice as large.

There are a number of similarities among numerous types of team sports, but wrestling has a few relatively unique characteristics. While a wrestler is a member of a team, when he (and, once in a while, she) goes out on that mat, he is entirely alone with his opponent. The spotlight is on him alone. He bears all of the pressure on his shoulders, and has no assistance whatsoever from his teammates other than some encouraging cheering from the sidelines. His success or failure on the mat then has a direct bearing on how his team ultimately does in the scoring. One mistake can lead to a rapid defeat. He typically must give 100% from the opening to the closing whistle in order to be successful.

In most other team sports, an individual player, say, on a football or basketball team, can typically slack off from time to time or play just an average game, and the team can still be victorious. Other players can often step in and cover his missed plays and various mistakes, and few spectators will ever notice the lackluster effort of the slacker. Not so in wrestling.

So besides the excellent physical conditioning a young person obtains from wrestling, in the whole process he also gains so many other valuable assets, such as leadership ability and learning how to perform well under intense pressure.

We are fortunate to have head coaches like Dave Taylor (SHS) and Scott Stough (NHS), and their various assistants, whose dedication and whose programs have brought such distinction to our county.

So on behalf of all Garrett Countians, we extend a hearty congratulations to state champions Brutus and Bubba Scheffel, Lex Ozias, and Jordan Skipper of Southern, and Adam Moranduzzo of Northern; runners-up Ryan Bennett of Southern and Dustin Stough of Northern; all of the other members of both squads; to Coach Taylor and Coach Stough and their assistants; and to the parents of these young men. We are proud of you. Keep up the good work!

To the Editor:

I'm a neighbor of Garrett County to the south in Randolph County, W.Va. I have read with interest about the proposed wind-turbine projects extending along the ridge of Backbone Mountain. I can see the southern end of the Backbone turbines from my farm in Montrose, and a proposed wind farm on our own Laurel Mountain has been approved by our governor-appointed, rubber-stamp Public Service Commission. Governor Manchin has proposed that we put 3,415 wind turbines on 570 miles of West Virginia ridges by the year 2025, so I can feel your pain.

Wanting to learn more about wind farms in Garrett County, I went to Wayne Rogers' Roth Rock Power-Point slide show on the Internet. I was amused to learn that citizens opposing the destruction of their living environment are labeled "BANANAs": Build Absolutely Nothing Anywhere Near Anything. Very clever tactic: Brand your opponent and avoid the difficult questions. The show goes on to brand Marylanders as NIMBYs if they don't want wind farms m their state.

Continuing my research, I found that Rogers' Synergics Wind has a contract to sell electricity to Delmarva Power & Light Co. Why, I wondered. I'm fortunate to have a second home at the beach where I receive electricity from the very same Delmarva P&L. Why in the world would anyone think that it was a good idea to generate electricity in a location with such a poor wind resource as the Appalachian Mountains and send it over miles of transmission lines to the Atlantic coast where the wind resource availability ranks outstanding, the highest rating? Comparing land-based wind energy potential, Maryland ranks 37 and West Virginia ranks 32. Who might invest in such a sketchy project? Could it be the Obama administration?

Count this BANANA with the group who thinks that wind energy has nothing to offer, but if we must go on with this experiment, at least do it where it will cause very little harm. New Jersey has planned a wind farm located 16 to 20 miles off shore. Hopefully that's far enough to be out of sight and out of bird-migration routes. Also worth attention is the five-turbine wind farm in Atlantic City that, along with a solar array, helps power the wastewater treatment plant for nearby casinos.

Actually, I think we BANANAs are good for the environment and are not easily fooled. We're always on the lookout for those bad apples.

To the women of Garrett County:

About a year ago, I scheduled auditions for the play Nickel and Dimed, but had to postpone it indefinitely because of illness. Now, I'm feeling fine, but the economy is sick. So I ask myself and others, "Is this the time to produce a play about poverty-level wages?"

The answer is, "Sure! It's not always about what you make; it's how you are treated." So, I'm ready to try again.

If you've ever wanted to be in a play, but have had cold feet, now's your chance! Our Town Theatre will present Nickel and Dimed in May, and I intend to cast any woman over the age of 18 who wants to be in it. Major roles, supporting roles, and minor and walk-on roles are available. The audition process involves coming into the basement of the theatre at the time listed or by appointment, looking over a script, and deciding on the part(s) for which you want to audition. Read when you are ready. If you aren't a good cold reader, I may ask you to try other things (i.e., different ways to say a line, etc.). The cast is based on whether or not you are right for the part, whether or not you can be heard and understood, whether or not you have the time to give to rehearsals and memorization, etc. Prior experience is not necessary.

If you want to help with the production, but don't want to play a part, we're always looking for volunteers – especially assistant stage managers, costumers, light setters, sound people, etc. Just come to an audition or call the number listed below. Rehearsal times will depend on how many and what kind of role(s) each cast member undertakes.

The play, which is adapted by Joan Holden from Barbara Ehrenreich's social commentary of the same title, requires an all-female cast who will portray people (male as well as female) who work for poverty-level wages. Auditions are scheduled at OTT for this Saturday, March 14, from 2 to 5 p.m., Sunday, March 15, 7 to 10 p.m., and Monday, March 16, 4 to 7 p.m. Other audition times may be scheduled by calling 301-334-5640, ext. 3.

Thank you!

To the Editor:

Social work – what good is it to you? Social workers take care of some of your children, mothers, fathers, aunts, uncles, nieces, nephews, and cousins. Social workers see damage that others cannot. Social workers are drawn to the hurt and dying. They offer comfort when no one else can. Abused human beings are blessed to have social workers. Shelters house those who experience homelessness and the abuse of partners.

This month it is our job as a community to recognize those people who fight for success in our very own community. Social work takes more than a good heart. It takes strength, dedication, courage, and power.

There is another side of social work that some do not consider. Social workers have families too. Sometimes, their children, husbands, wives, and friends have to suffer. Baseball games are missed, lonely nights occur, and movie dates with friends are declined. Social work is not a 9-to-5 job. A call at 2 a.m. is normal. Sometimes there is a child in crisis who needs immediate attention, and social workers make contact with that child. Curves, wide turns, and spins happen on a regular basis in this career.

Again, it is time to recognize these wonderful, dedicated professionals. We appreciate you, social workers, more than you will ever know.

To the Editor:

As a homeowner who is literally on the front lines in the wind energy debate (my subdivision is less than 400 feet from the first turbine in the proposed Roth Rock project on the southwest end of Backbone Mountain), I would like to thank Senator Edwards and Delegate Beitzel for trying to restore some sanity to the wind energy debate. If passed, their recent legislation to repeal Senate Bill 566 will restore some balance to the situation and take away the ability of wind energy companies to operate unrestricted in our western Maryland mountains.

While I can't speak with first-hand knowledge about other wind energy companies, I can address the practices of Synergics Wind Energy, the company behind the Roth Rock project. In the one meeting that Synergics representatives had with us last year, they said they would adhere to American Wind Energy Association guidelines. These guidelines include such things as community outreach programs and various environmental, visual, and safety impact analyses, among others. They said they would keep us apprised of developments. We asked them to voluntarily honor a 2600-foot safety setback from our property lines.

Thus far, they have yet to do any of these things. If fact they haven't even had the courtesy to return phone calls or e-mails since we talked to them that one time last June. Based on their actions, companies like this cannot be trusted to operate in a responsible manner, which demonstrates the need for more control over their actions. I would suggest that we treat anything any wind energy company says with a huge degree of skepticism.

It is obvious that Governor O'Malley doesn't care what happens in our mountains, much less about the safety issues that will affect our subdivision and other homeowners who may be similarly affected by industrial wind plants in the future. Maybe this was because the president of Synergics was a big campaign contributor. And given the petulant response from the Garrett County commissioners to the legislation that was introduced to allow them to enact setbacks, it is equally obvious that the situation is too complicated for them to handle. Their simplistic views and resultant inaction are directly threatening the safety of me and my neighbors.

For those who think that this debate is simply about scenery and environmental issues, think again. People's safety, which is arguably more important, is also at risk.

To the Editor,:

Judge Brandeis said, "The most important political office is that of private citizen." In recent letters to you and in your words to us, an appeal resonates: "If we would guide by the light of reason, we must let our minds be bold."

Passion for advocacy and forming associations in civil society has always been instrumental to our democracy. It is what sets America apart from other nations. Alexis de Tocqueville wrote, "The greatness of America lies not in being more enlightened than any other nation, but rather in her ability to repair her faults."

These thoughts come to mind as I think about the letters sent to you on varied topics – from the importance of green and clean to the efficacy of windmill development, from revisiting the travesties of war (aka Guantanomo and Abu Ghraib) from a global perspective to the costs associated with ignoring healthcare reforms, and from realigning our television viewing market to legislating measurable performance standards for Maryland's smart-growth efforts.

Not all change is good change, but change is necessary to economic and social vibrancy. And, when change is fashioned with good science and experience, positive ourcomes are often the result.

Once again, thank you for allowing local citizens to opine on a variety of topics and thanks to your staff for a great hometown newspaper.

Sincerely,
Susan Athey-Oxford

To the Editor:

On February 25, on or about I p.m., I was summoned to testify in Garrett County District Court for the state of Maryland. I was a compelling witness to a crime that occurred in late August. I was to testify against the defendant, who is a violent person by nature. The defendant was incarcerated in the county detention center on the date of the hearing.

I asked the state's attorney's office on two different occasions for a protective order for my testimony, but didn't get any granted. So on the day of the court proceedings, I chose to remain silent. It is my constitutional right to choose the Fifth Amendment.

Even after I chose the Fifth, I was still questioned by the court about my reasoning for not testifying. I simply replied that it was none of their business. I was then told, "Yes, it is your constitutional right, but it is not your right to say to the court that it is 'none of your business.'"

Must I remind the court of the First Amendment, which allows free speech, assembly, and press, to express things that may be unpopular. Freedom of speech encompasses not only the spoken and written word, but also other kinds of nonverbal expression, such as a sit-in. Under its provision the media may distribute news, information, ideas, and opinions. The amendment protects not only the speaker, but also the person who receives the information. The opportunity to read, hear, see, and obtain different points of view is a First Amendment right.

How to Improve Your Financial Literacy

SAVING
by William Welch

Saving money, putting money aside for future use, is an area of financial literacy that is worth a look. Making a budget that allows us to save money seems pretty simple: We just put into savings what is left over after spending, and there it is. For many of us, there is a little more to it than that, which is where discipline – the ability to stick to a plan – comes in. We discussed discipline in article two, and you can find more about it online, etc.

Savings can take many forms. Some people put money in jars and bury it in the back yard. That money is never going to increase in value, and it is subject to the risks of nature, including earthquakes, and the odd digger. For most of these folks a safer place is a safe; but more people put money into various financial accounts, hoping their savings will increase.

Financial accounts take two forms: insured savings and investments. Most insured savings are cash accounts. Most investments are assets with values that vary depending on "market" considerations, "market" being defined as salability of the asset. The terms "savings" and "investments" have some interchangeable use, and without exception, savers are well advised to seek professional advice in how and where to put their savings.

After finding a trustworthy institution for your savings, the next most important thing to know might be the rule of 72. The rule of 72 is a method of approximately estimating the number of years it takes to double your savings, dividing "72" by the interest/estimated rate of return on your money. For example, putting $1,000 in a savings account at 2%, it would take approximately 36 years to double your money. Putting the same thousand into a security promising 10%, it would take approximately seven years to double your money.

The numbers are approximate, but the main difference is risk. A secured savings account means that the government protects you from incompetent lenders. The chances of an individual investor being protected by government from incompetent securities advisors are slim and none, which is why you really want to know your licensed professional financial advisor well.

The bottom line on saving is that saving money has risks. In general the higher the rate of return promised, the higher the risk. Sometimes 2% is enough. Other times 10% is not enough. Your call. But know the difference, know the risks, and find professional advice you can verify before you trust it.

Editor's note: William Welch, a manager for Simon Pearce Inc., serves on the board of directors of GC Community Action Committee Inc. and has written this series from expert sources as part of GCCAC's community financial literacy initiative. Individual readers are advised to use these articles as a starting place to find professional advice on financial literacy.

Persons who have questions or suggested topics concerning financial literacy may submit them to Mr. Welch via the e-mail address of this newspaper: newsroom@therepublicannews.com

Sexual Assault Victims May Now Get Medical Help Without Talking To Police

by Heather Cooper, RN FNE-A (Registered Nurse, Forensic Nurse Examiner)

Rape. Just the word creates fear in the minds of many. In the time immediately following the assault the victim is left trying to make sense of what happened and trying to forget the horrible event. During this critical time victims fail to recognize the importance of obtaining medical care and documenting the assault. Many victims choose not to seek help because the commonly held belief is that if they receive medical care they must talk to law enforcement. This is no longer true.

A recent change in rape reporting laws now allows victims of sexual assault and rape to seek medical care from the hospital without needing to submit a police statement. The new process is called Jane Doe reporting. The purposes of these laws were to encourage victims to report violence, and allow a sexual assault exam to be completed and evidence to be stored for up to 180 days until the individual has the opportunity to consider the options. By getting a sexual assault exam, the evidence which may be present from an assault can be preserved while the individual processes and copes with what has just occurred without losing vital evidence which could be used to convict a criminal.

Once a victim has had time to heal and is prepared to make informed decisions about reporting the crime, a police report can then be initiated. Jane Doe reporting provides a victim the same opportunities as someone who reports the rape when it occurs.

By permitting a sexual assault exam, the victim cannot by law be billed for the services received from the hospital visit, including any labs, X-rays, physician costs, and other fees. The costs of the visit are covered by the state under a special reimbursement unit covering the costs of sexual assault exams. The only requirement is that the victim allow a sexual assault nurse examiner to complete the necessary documentation in a police evidence collection kit. Once the evidence for the kit is collected, it is stored in a secure location, which gives the victim time to decide whether to proceed with a criminal investigation. If the victim chooses not to report, the evidence is destroyed.

This kind of violence can happen any time to any person. The services of the forensic nurses are available 24 hours a day, seven days a week, at the emergency department at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. If an individual comes to the ER, one of three nurses specially trained to gather evidence and provide assistance to sexual assault victims will discuss all possible options available to the victim.

If you have been a victim of rape or sexual assault, you only have five days after the incident to complete the evidence collection. Do not give a criminal the opportunity to steal your self-confidence and sense of security. Be a survivor and a champion for others in your situation. The first step is requesting a sexual assault exam.

GIFT SHOP CELEBRATES 2ND ANNIVERSARY – The Loar Auxiliary Gift Shop, located in the lobby of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, celebrated its 2nd anniversary last week by offering free refreshments and entries in a drawing for a $25 gift card. The gift card was won by Rita Savage, an employee in the hospital's radiology department. Among the visitors to the shop during the celebration was Ruby Jerread, Salamanca, N.Y. Jerread is pictured making a purchase from gift shop volunteer Dottie Bittinger. She was in Oakland to celebrate the birth of a grandchild. She was very complimentary to the shop and its offerings, which currently include a wide assortment of Easter gifts and candy. The Loar Auxiliary was awarded the new gift shop location as a result of the major expansion project that added the Carl DelSignore wing at the hospital. The gift shop is managed and operated by volunteers, with all proceeds used to benefit the hospital.

Fresh Air Fund Day Proclaimed By Gov. O'Malley

In recognition of the Fresh Air Fund's 133rd summer serving children and families throughout Maryland, Governor Martin O'Malley has proclaimed March 20 as Fresh Air Fund Day throughout the state.

Families who participate in the Fund's Friendly Town Program open their homes to children from New York City for up to two or more weeks in the summer.

"By sharing their homes with city children, our host families tell us they gain a new appreciation for their own communities and form relationships that last a lifetime," said Jenny Morgemthau, executive director of the Fresh Air Fund. "This year, we are looking for new host families in and around the Grantsville area to celebrate our 133rd anniversary and give youngsters a summertime break from the sometimes dangerous city streets."

Volunteers say they simply want to share what they have with city children and introduce them to the joys of suburban or country life. More than 65% of all Fresh Air children are invited to visit the same host families year after year. First-time Fresh Air visitors are 6 to 12 years old, and Fresh Air hosts range in age from young families to grandparents.

The Fresh Air Fund is an independent, non-profit organization that has provided free summer vacations to more than 1.7 million inner-city children since 1877.

For more information about becoming a Fresh Air volunteer host, persons should call Alice Orendorf at 301-245-4326 or the Fresh Air Fund at 1-800-367-0003. Those interested may also visit the web site at www.freshair.org.

Christmas Bird Count Results Are Announced

Results of the Christmas Bird Count (CBC) held back in on December were released this week by local birders.

The species count on count day was 63, about average compared to past years, according to coordinator Connie Skipper. There were six additional species seen during count week. Several observers said that the birds were not as active as usual and were difficult to find.

Weather conditions included temperatures ranging from 24 to 32 degrees F, winds 0 to 10 mph, no snow, moving water open, and still water partly frozen. There was no measureable precipitation.

Fourteen observers searched all habitats in a 15-mile diameter circle in a 24-hour period. They divided into six parties, logging 20 miles on foot and 350 miles by car, and a cumulative 20 hours by foot and 37 hours by car.

Among those participating were Peggy Brown of British Columbia, Canada, and Tina Opel, who attends college in Maryville, Mo. Mikey Lutmerding and Jo-Anna Leachman of Lothian also participated, with Lutmerding listening for owls at midnight and throughout the early morning hours. He added three owl species to the list.

Other field observers, besides Skipper, were Caroline and Neal Blizzard, Kevin Dodge, Courtney Englar, Aaron Holochwost, Jeff Opel, Bill and Fran Pope, and Becky Wilson.

Five parties spent a collective 11 hours watching their bird feeders, tallying 18 species. They were Bonnie Friend, Donald and Frances Hoecker, Jessica and Kyle Klotz, Barbara Skipper, and Mike Speranzella.

The highlight of the count, according to Skipper, was the sighting of multiple white-winged crossbills. Three parties saw a total of 70 individual crossbills. This was the first year since the Garrett County count began in 1950 that this species has been seen on count day.

The white-winged crossbill is a medium-sized finch that breeds in the boreal forest. Its bill is adapted for extracting seeds from cones of coniferous trees. It will move large distances between years, tracking the cone crop from place to place. Lutmerding took some digi-scope photos and made a short video of a male crossbill feeding. It can be viewed online at www.flickr.com/photos/-mikeycerw/3123565747.

Two other species making their debut to the Garrett County CBC was a greater white-fronted goose spotted by Fran Pope during count week, and a herring gull identified by Lutmerding and Leachman at a Mt. Nebo pond.

Skipper noted that pine siskins are abundant this year, with 140 spotted on count day. Only two prior counts had a higher total.

Two other species were present in the highest numbers yet: 23 northern pintails and 22 white-throated sparrows.

Among the most numerous species counted were: Canada goose, 942; American crow, 614; European starling, 436; black-capped chickadee, 201; dark-eyed junco, 173; aforementioned pine siskin, 140; and American goldfinch, 99.

The American Red Cross bloodmobile will make a visit to Accident next Monday, March 16. Donors will be welcomed at Zion Lutheran Church from 1 to 6 p.m.

Persons must be at least 17 years of age (16 in Maryland with parental consent), weigh at least 110 pounds, and be in generally good health to be eligible to donate blood. Potential donors may make a reservation by telephoning 1-800-542-5663, ext. 2861; however, walk-ins are always welcome.

Those desiring more information about the ARC blood services program may telephone the Garrett County office of the Western Potomac Chapter at 301-334-3810 or the headquarters in Cumberland at 301-722-1760.

Local Schools To Benefit From Bay Trust Grant

The Chesapeake Bay Trust announced Tuesday that more than $1 million in grant funding had been awarded to support organizations throughout the state to implement programs aimed at improving the health of the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries.

Locally, the University of Maryland Center for Environmental Science will receive funding to support the Garrett County PIERS (Partners In Ecology and Restoration of Schoolyards) Program.

This comprehensive program engages every fifth grader in the county in environmental projects ranging from "green school" planning to field investigations. PIERS began in late 2003.

Five of the trust's nine grant programs were supported in this round of funding. The Agriculture, Environmental Education, Fisheries, Mini-Grant, and Stewardship grant programs all awarded funding to support environmental restoration and education projects engaging residents from the Eastern Shore to western Maryland.

Grants were awarded to 65 organizations and schools to support statewide and regional projects in 18 counties and Baltimore City.

For example, in Washington County, the Beaver Creek Watershed Association will restore 1,000 feet of Beaver Creek with a natural channel design. The creek is the largest limestone stream in Maryland. Over the last eight years, restoration projects like this one have made Beaver Creek a natural reproducing trout stream, according to the Chesapeake Bay Trust.

"A recent statewide survey shows that nine out of ten Marylanders believe making the Chesapeake Bay clean and healthy is important," said Allen Hance, the trust's executive director. "In these tight economic times, funding provided to local communities by the Chesapeake Bay Trust is an invaluable tool in the effort to restore the health of the Chesapeake Bay and further engage Maryland residents in the process."

Supported by state, federal, and foundation funding partners, as well as the sale of the "Treasure the Chesapeake" license plate, and contributions to the Bay and Endangered Species Fund on the Maryland State income tax form, grants awarded by the trust have an impact statewide, according to Hance.

He noted that in 2008 alone, grants have been leveraged by grantees to educate over 87,000 students on Bay related issues, plant over 144,000 trees and native plants, remove 324 tons of trash, and engage over 23,000 volunteers.

For more information on the Chesapeake Bay Trust and a complete list of projects covered in this funding round, persons may visit cbtrust.org.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Ag Awareness Promoted By Nat'l Ag Week

National Ag Day, which is celebrated on March 20, promotes the message that "American agriculture is responsible for providing the necessities of everyday life. . . food, fiber, clothing, and even fuel."

"Producers, agriculture associations, corporations, universities, government agencies, and others will gather to celebrate the abundance provided by agriculture on the first day of spring," a spokesperson said.

National Ag Day is part of National Ag Week, which is March 15 to 21.

The National Ag Day program is committed to increasing public awareness about American agriculture. As the world population grows, there is an even greater demand for the food, fiber, and renewable resources that the United States produces.

The Agriculture Council of America, organizers of National Ag Day, believe that every American should understand how food, fiber, and renewable resource products are produced and should value the essential role of agriculture in maintaining a strong economy.

National Ag Day will focus on educating Americans about the industry so they may also acknowledge and consider career opportunities in the agriculture, food, fiber, and renewable resource industry.

Each year, the National Ag Day program brings together members of the agricultural industry in an effort to promote American agriculture. Focused on sharing how agriculture provides almost everything we eat, use and wear on a daily basis, the National Ag Day program helps educate millions of consumers each year.

Census Reveals Farm Increase, Land Decrease

Data from the 2007 Census of Agriculture shows Garrett County is still losing farmland, but increasing the number of farmers and income from farm operations.

With gross income from farm-related sources in Garrett County topping $25,726,000 in 2007, up from $20,857,000 in 2002, agriculture remains a powerful industry. Average gross sales per farm in 2007 was $38,000, up from $32,897 in 2002.

A total of 677 farms in Garrett County completed the agriculture census in 2007, up from 634 in the 2002 census. Over 45% (310) of respondents reported farming as their primary occupation in 2007, down from 344 in 2002. The average age of the principal operators of farms in Garrett County is 54.6.

Garrett County ranks number one in "oats for grain production acres," second in "nursery, greenhouse, floriculture, and sod sales," and third in "other crops and hay sales," as well as "acres of land used for all hay and haylage, grass silage, and greenchop."

Garrett ranks number four in "cattle and calves inventory" and number five in the state of Maryland for "milk and other dairy products from cows" and "sheep, goats, and other products."

Farmland in 2002 covered 101,444 acres, while in 2007 it had dropped to 95,514. The average farm size went from a 2002 level of 160 to a 2007 level of 141 acres. Total cropland went from 50,876 acres in 2002 to 46,019 acres in 2007.

"Losing farmland has widespread implications," said Willie Lantz, University of Maryland Extension educator for agriculture and natural resources. "Specifically for farmer/operators, it makes it difficult for full-time farmers to expand their operations based on market forces. If the agricultural land base keeps shrinking, we'll be left with small plots of land and very few full-time farmers."

According to Cheryl DeBerry, Natural Resources business specialist for Garrett County Economic Development, farmland has indeed been lost in the county.

"For the last 10 years, seen consistently in the 1997, 2002, and 2007 census of agriculture data, we lost over three acres of farmland per day in Garrett County. Well-managed farmland helps preserve open space, provides shelter for wildlife, provides clean air and water, helps with flood control, aids in groundwater recharge, provides carbon sequestration, and supplies income to farmers. We cannot afford for this rate of farmland loss to continue."

The Census of Agriculture data is available through state NASS field offices, many depository libraries, universities, and state government offices. It is also available online at www.nass.usda.gov or www.agcensus.usda.gov. For additional information on the Census of Agriculture or any NASS survey, persons may call the Agriculture Statistics Hotline at 800-727-9540.

USDA INVITES ALL TO CELEBRATE NATIONAL AG DAY

Eric McCartney, executive director of USDA's Farm Service Agency in Preston County, invites everyone to Celebrate National Agriculture Day on March 20, and support the row-crop farmers, fruit and vegetable producers, food scientists, livestock ranchers, equipment manufacturers, and others who will "take our country's agriculture industry into the future."

"American agriculture is doing more – and doing it more efficiently – than ever before," said McCartney. "Today, each American farmer feeds more than 130 people. In 1960, each farmer fed 28 people. Innovations in farming techniques and technology have increased efficiency in the food production process."

But the industry provides more than food, feed, and fiber, says McCartney. It also produces biofuels, solvents, lubricants, plastics, building materials, and more. FSA also administers the largest conservation program on private lands through its Conservation Reserve Program.

"We are proud to honor American farmers and celebrate their contribution to the nation and the world on National Agriculture Day," McCartney said. "The agriculture industry is the foundation of our nation's economy, and farmers are essential to keeping that economy strong."

More than 22 million people work in the agriculture industry today. This includes careers in everything from food chemistry to banking to commodity trading. And the job descriptions of tomorrow's agriculture professionals may look quite different because of advances in farming technology and the broad opportunities that extend far beyond the field, McCartney said.

"Help celebrate agriculture and support its future on National Agriculture Day," he said, adding that events in Washington, D.C., leading up to National Agriculture Day include congressional visits on Capitol Hill led by national FFA student leaders, a luncheon and rally on Capitol Hill, and a dinner at the USDA.

National Agriculture Day is organized by the Agriculture Council of America (ACA). ACA is a nonprofit organization consisting of leaders in the agricultural, food, and fiber community, dedicating its efforts to increasing the public's awareness of agriculture's role in modern society.

Local 4-H Youth Participate In Livestock Event

The 2009 Maryland State Livestock Skillathon was held in Hagerstown on Saturday, March 7, in conjunction with the Maryland Cattle Industry Convention. The event is sponsored by the Maryland Cattlemen's Association.

Local Author To Teach Creative Writing II Class

Tom Pessini, local author of the novel Traitor in the White House, will teach a nine-week creative writing course on Mondays, March 23 through May 18, 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. at Garrett College.

The course is a continuation of Creative Writing I, although that course is not a prerequisite to Creative Writing II. All students are welcome.

"Aspiring authors and those who want to learn more about the craft and publication process will be well-served by this course," said a college spokesperson.

Students will delve into the elements of fiction and novel/short story writing, and will develop a first draft, which will be critiqued by their peers.

Also covered will be writing compelling query letters and synopsis, as well as the many facets of publishing.

To register or obtain more information, persons may call the Continuing Education Division at 301-387-3069.

Auditions And Fundraiser Noted By Our Town

Auditions for the play Nickel and Dimed are scheduled at Our Town Theatre (OTT) soon, and the theater is also hosting a unique fundraiser with this production.

The auditions will be held on Saturday, March 14, from 2 to 5 p.m.; Sunday, March 15, from 7 to 10 p.m., and Monday, March 16, from 4 to 7 p.m. Other audition times may be scheduled by calling 301-334-5640, ext. 3. (For more information, see the letter to the editor addressing the women of Garrett County in this week's issue.)

To help defray the costs of royalties and scripts, OTT is encouraging contributions to be made to the theatre earmarked for the production from the various women's groups in the county.

"The AAUW [American Association of University Women] has already stepped up to the plate and given us a healthy donation," said director Jane Avery. "We will list any donations for this production in a special section of the program, and we will allow each group to have a special night when they can pass out the pamphlets and other literature associated with their organization."

To donate to the costs of the production, persons are advised to call Avery at the number noted above.

Avery said the play Nickel and Dimed "reveals low-wage America in all its tenacity, anxiety, and surprising generosity — a land of 'big boxes,' fast food, and a thousand desperate strategies for survival. Instantly acclaimed for its insight, humor, and passion, this play is changing the way America perceives its working poor."

Avery said millions of Americans work for poverty-level wages, and social scientist and writer Barbara Ehrenreich decided to join them. Avery said Ehrenreich was inspired in part by the rhetoric surrounding welfare reform, which promised that any job equals a better life. But surviving, let alone prospering, is almost impossible on $6 to $7 an hour.

To find out how people manage to do this, Ehrenreich moved from Florida to Maine to Minnesota, taking the cheapest lodgings available and accepting work as a waitress, hotel maid, house cleaner, nursing-home aide, and salesperson. Avery said the researcher soon discovered that even the "lowliest" occupations require exhausting mental and physical efforts. "And one job is not enough," Avery said. "You need at least two if you intend to live indoors."

The production is scheduled for late May.

by Angela M. Sincell

I've always been a lover of the Impressionist era. What draws me to this movement? The entire approach to depicting the world. The soft colors, the compositions, the brush strokes. But more perhaps the complete rebelliousness of the group of artists who stuck to their guns and became some of the most highly regarded, inspirational, intluential, and celebrated artists of today.

They didn't follow the rules, but instead stepped outside of the box and explored the world around them. The now, the present. They went against the Salon, a group of French artists and art teachers who presided over public exhibitions during the nineteenth century. Artists had to adhere to conventional methods of presenting images in order to gain admittance to the official Salon, but the Impressionists weren't making art to please anyone but themselves. They wanted to capture what they saw in nature, in society, in the present-day France, and they did it through their eyes, not anyone else's.

The way the artists of this period used color to define objects instead of using the object itself just fascinates me. It's like walking into someone's dream. I could stand in front of a Monet painting for hours and study his use of color in the highlights and shadows.

It is said of Monet that "his most remarkable works are his innumerable paintings of the water lilies in his Giverny garden and the huge horizontal canvases concerned solely with the light, color, and space of his lily pool. He devoted his life to observing the most transient moods of light and color. His influence on his contemporaries and on the successors of Impressionism was profound, and his feeling for space, his free technique, and his bold use of color all link him with the development of 20th-century painting." Now that's the kind of impact I'd like to make as an artist!

Some of Penny Knobel-Besa's photographs, featured in her exhibit "Five Walls And A Corner" at The Gallery in Oakland, remind me of the Impressionists. Her "Whirling Dervishes" reminds me so much of an Edgar Degas ballet dancer painting; "The Pond" reminds me of a much more vibrant Claude Monet painting; "Emma" brings forth imagery from Mary Cassatt paintings; and "Emily" reminds me of early works by Edouard Manet. While many of Knobel-Besa's photographs are striking in other ways, these four were the most prominent for myself

I want to go a little deeper with these four works in order to connect Knobel-Besa's modern art to the Impressionists:

Manet is the artist that comes to mind when looking at "Emily". He favored frontal lighting of the subject, and flat, unmodeled areas of paint. Knobel-Besa's technique with printing her photograph on canvas causes a blending of edges and colors, creating a similar feel. The picture evokes the feelings of sadness and loneliness, the subject's expression being somber and serious. Manet consistently painted his subjects with those emotions. The bright colors bluntly used against a dark background to push the subject to the foreground, and the way the subject is weighted in the center are the same techniques Manet used in his paintings.

"Emma" makes me think of a modern day Cassatt, whose focus for many years was on children and mothers. A lesser known painting by Cassatt, "Child in Orange Dress", relates the most to Knobel-Besa's piece. Cassatt's subject is upright and not as relaxed as Knobel-Besa's, but the imagery is the same: a rosy-cheeked child, lounging, in vibrant clothing, with the focus on the comforting innocence of the child.

'The Pond" resembles a modern-day Monet with its colors that move up and down, side to side, and blend on the reflection of the water. The scene is captured for what it is; in the here and now, in the present. Just like Monet, Knobel-Besa captured the true atmosphere of the scene, using what was already offered in nature. Monet's water lily series focused on both his own interpretation of how the light affected the scene and how the scene naturally was. Knobel-Besa did this easily by using what was in front of her to create a beautiful and colorful photograph.

"The Whirling Dervishes" is my personal favorite. It speaks Degas. The composition, the movement, the color, the grace. The dancers are in their own world. Degas frequently painted ballet dancers at work, and employed unusual perspectives and complex formal structures. Many of them focus on the dancers during rehearsals and classes, on stage, each one seemingly "in the moment," just as Knobel-Besa has in this photograph.

For those of you who haven't experienced the impressionist artists, please take the time to investigate Mary Cassatt and Frederick Carl Frieseke (American impressionists), Claude Monet, Edouard Manet, Pierre Auguste Renoir, Georges Seurat, Camille Pissarro, Alfred Sisley, or Edgar Degas. There are many more, but these artists were at the forefront of this 19th century movement, each one contributing a unique approach. The influence of the Impressionists is clear in Knobel-Besa's art. Research images of these artists or just go and see the work at the Oakland Gallery, and become inspired yourself!

Sincell is a 2000 graduate from Southern High School and a 2005 graduate from Towson University. She holds a bachelor of science degree with a double major in art and mass communications. Questions, comments, and suggestions may be e-mailed to asincell@therepublicannews.com.

AMBERVILLE

by Tim Davys

C. 2009, Harper; $19.99; 343 pages

A crisis of great proportions happened at your house last week, and you're still reeling: Your toddler lost her favorite stuffed bear, and there was no household peace until it was found, just where she left it.

Remember secretly believing that stuffed animals came to life when you were sleeping? Remember the trauma of being separated from your bear or bunny or kitty?

In the new book Amberville by Tim Davys, Eric Bear may be separated from his beloved wife forever, unless he finds something that may not exist.

Eric Bear is a good stuffed animal. He has a decent job and a nice house. He's a respectable member of his community, and married to the beautiful, graceful Emma Rabbit. But Eric Bear has a past...

Once upon a time, Bear was top man for Nicholas Dove, an evil crime boss who ran Casino Monokowski, where gambling, drugs, and alcohol were plentiful. Nicholas Dove took care of his boys back then. But Bear left that life long ago.

Now Dove is pecking around, asking for payback.

For decades, rumors have swirled about the "Death List," a weekly roster of animals targeted for disappearance. It's whispered that, on a certain night each week, chauffeurs drive the color-coded streets of town and take away animals whose names are on the list. But it's a rumor, that's all. Nobody knows for sure if the Death List exists.

Nevertheless, Nicholas Dove heard that his name is on this supposed list. He tells Eric Bear to find it and remove the name. And if Bear doesn't, Dove's gorillas will find Emma Rabbit and tear her apart. Eric Bear knows it's not an idle threat.

Four days is all Eric Bear has. He enlists the help of his three oldest friends: Snake Marek, an animal who lives up to his name; Tom-Tom Crow, who lives with demons of his own; and Sam, a "drug-intoxicated homosexual prostitute gazelle." With his friends' help, Eric Bear begins to think...

But someone else is thinking, too. Years ago, when Eric's parents put their name on the cub's list, they ended up with something they weren't expecting. Eric Bear has a twin brother, and Teddy wants to be Eric.

I didn't like this novel when I started it. It just didn't make a whole lot of sense. But then I let myself relax into this grown-up fairy tale of good and evil, double-crosses, truth and lies, and I was captivated.

Amberville is, to be sure, a very quirky mystery. Author Tim Davys has created a dark parallel world of characters that are stuffed with human foibles and fears. Reading it requires a suspension of comfort, particularly if you're used to "normal" mystery novels. Reading it, once you get past the first few chapters, is worthwhile.

Keep in mind that, despite the cover, this is definitely not a book for kids. It's dark and complicated and not cuddly at all. Still, if you love noir mysteries, pick up a copy of Amberville, stuff yourself in a chair, and enjoy.

LOOKING FOR THE INVISIBLE

When you hear the term "home inspection," you're likely to think of the electrical system, plumbing, roof and foundation, and smaller items like cracked windows or drafty doors. However, it's the elements in the home that cannot be seen that demand special attention on the part of buyers and sellers and the inspector they choose.

First, there's radon, a colorless and odorless gas that seeps up from the ground and has been labeled as a cause of cancer. Any home, but particularly those with basements, should be tested for high levels of this gas.

Next is asbestos, a fibrous material once used for insulation, but banned in 1985. Homes built before then should be tested, and care should be exercised not to disturb this material when remodeling these older homes.

Another threat is lead, a toxic metal that was widely used in paint, pipes, and other materials. Any home built before 1978 should be tested for its presence, and any lender offering HUD-insured mortgages will require a lead-safe certification for these older structures.

Another culprit is groundwater contamination, a particular concern for homes with older septic systems or underground oil tanks, or homes near industrial facilities. Also search for hazardous products stored in and around the home, making certain that they are removed before transfer of the property to new owners. Be smart and be safe! If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

Senator Wants To "Ba-rock" Md. With Portrait

by Erika Woodward
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS – The cardboard version of the leader of the free world made people happy everywhere he went, said Sen. Lisa Gladden, D-Baltimore, who carried a life-size "Pop-up Barack" to the grocery store, the police station, "everywhere."

Now that the people have spoken, Gladden wants a portrait of President Obama to go everywhere in the state of Maryland.

She sponsored a bill that would mandate all Maryland public school buildings, state buildings and specified higher education administration buildings have an official portrait of the president in a place of prominence.

"I think it's a cool idea," she told the Senate Committee for Education, Health and the Environment Wednesday, as she stood next to a 26-by-34-inch portrait of the president. She prefaced her remarks by saying the portrait she would ask others to hang would "not be this big."

Not surprisingly, not everyone thought it was a cool idea.

"It's excessive partisanship. It's kind of like, 'We're rubbing your face in it,'" said Justin Ready, executive director of the Republican Party of Maryland. He doesn't know why schools have to hang the picture.

"Don't kids know who the president is?" he said. "Our position is this is basically pointless partisanship."

Gladden said it's not about partisanship and said whoever the next president is will get their portrait hung up, too.

"Why not Bush? People ask me that all the time," said Gladden. "Somebody who was a supporter of that candidate should've introduced the bill ... (Bush) didn't inspire me."

Gladden said Obama inspired her because he made smart cool again and overcame obstacles of the everyman.

"There's an implied criticism that this is about race. It's not. It's just about 'this is a really cool president,'" said Gladden who is black.

Clay Whitlow, the executive director of the Maryland Association of Community Colleges, did not comment on the president's cool factor, but disagreed with the proposal on principle.

"I don't think it's appropriate for our institutions to display the portrait, since we are not administered by the federal government," he said.

To "Ba-rock" the state comes with a price. It could increase state expenditures by $20,000 and local school systems' by $43,000 in 2010, according to a fiscal note, which Gladden challenged.

"Keep in mind this photograph came off of the Internet and if you have a color printer, which most folks do, I don't see why you can't download the picture and print it," she said."I just think it's been a great race and we ought to inspire our kids every day."

Offices just have to make room for that inspiration. Gladden is still looking for a place to hang hers.

For now, there's a crevice on the floor between a sofa and an end table in her office.

"He fits back there," she said.

CRELLIN PAW PRINTS SPONSORS POSTER CONTEST – Students from Crellin Elementary School recently participated in a Tobacco Reality Poster Contest sponsored by Crellin Paw Prints during February's Heart Health Month. Dept. Receives news" not too long ago when the Health Department had its first opiate addict enter the treatment clinic.

"Now it's kind of a routine business," Stephens said. "We deal with it every day on the prevention side of it and on the treatment side of things."

He added that the Garrett County Memorial Hospital is also dealing with opiate addiction problems, even among pregnant patients. Stephens added that people get hooked on prescribed opiates and often turn to heroin because it is cheaper.

"While we have a top-notch treatment program to try to address these things, we have got to get things under control from a prevention stand point," Stephens said. "There are tragedies that we're seeing all the time in the treatment clinic that will break your heart."

He presented data on local 6th, 8th, 10th, and 12th graders that was collected by the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene and Maryland State Board of Education from 1992 through 2007.

"There are some good trends, but there are also some disturbing trends," Stephens said.

Specifically, marijuana and alcohol use appears to have decreased among sixth graders, but has increased over the years among seniors.

Stephens said the Health Department did not have data on prescription drug abuse among youth. "But we're told by people in the know – law enforcement and some of the school folks – that they suspect that pills are an area that's a real concern now," he said.

One of the goals of the grant program is for recipients to develop and implement prevention strategies aimed at young people who may be starting to use alcohol, marijuana, and prescription drugs. Stephens said the strategies will hit the problem on all levels in the county, including schools and Garrett College.

Prevention supervisor Nancy Brady emphasized the "community" aspect of the Drug-Free Communities Grant. One of the Health Department's objectives is to establish/strengthen collaboration between Garrett County's private, nonprofit agencies and federal, state, and local governments to help youth.

Brady said the key word is "collaboration." She indicated that Garrett County was ahead of other grant recipients in that aspect.

"We're very fortunate that we have other groups – 4-H, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and a strong faith community – that are out there doing things to help our youth to be healthy, happy, and productive," Brady said.

Another Health Department objective is to provide drug-free activities for youth through its nine Community Planning Groups and the Students Against Destructive Decisions clubs.

Brady said another objective is to provide training for various groups. For example, doctors and pharmacists could become educated on prescription drug abuse and misuse, and retailers could be trained on spotting fake identification cards.

Todd also noted that representatives from the Community Planning Groups will receive prevention training and, in turn, will educate more than 200 residents in their communities.

She said the Health Department could also help rescue squads and volunteer fire departments find ways to make it easier for them to prevent underage drinking during their festivals and gun/cash bashes.

"These things are important to us, but unless the people in the community think it's important, it really doesn't matter," she said about alcohol/drug abuse. "So, that's been the beauty of this grant. Our goal is to get them to take ownership of what the problems are in their communities."

The Garrett County Drug and Alcohol Council has representatives from various aspects of the community, including law enforcement, religious groups, media, district court, students, parole and probation, and recovering addicts. The county commissioners appoint or reappoint members to the council every year.

Meetings are open to the public. The council meets the second Wednesday of each month at the Health Department at noon. For more information, persons may call the Health Department at 301-334-7777.

Goralski To Give Asthma Talk At GC Health Fair

Asthma is the topic that will be addressed by Dr. Robert Goralski, a local family practice physician, at the Garrett County Health Fair, slated for Saturday, April 25, at the Wisp Resort in McHenry. The public is invited to attend.

Asthma is a chronic (long-term) lung disease that inflames and narrows the airways. It affects people of all ages. More than 22 million people are known to have asthma, and nearly 6 million of these people are children.

Dr. Goralski has been a member of the Garrett Medical Group since 1982. He came to Garrett County after completing his residency training in family practice at the University of Maryland. Born and reared in Baltimore, he graduated high school from the Baltimore Polytechnic Institute. He received a bachelor of arts from the University of Maryland (UMBC) and attended medical school at the University of Maryland, receiving his doctorate in medicine in 1979.

Goralski pursued his advanced training and medical residency in family medicine at University Hospital in Baltimore, during which time he received the JL Deaton Geriatric Award and the Family Medicine Practice Award from the Maryland Academy of Family Physicians.

His special interests are in the fields of preventive health care, cardiology, diabetes care, pediatrics, and pulmonary diseases, including asthma and COPD

The physician is on staff at Garrett County Memorial Hospital and serves on several hospital committees. He chairs the Continuing Medical Education Department at the hospital, and lectures in his areas of special interest within the hospital, in the local community, and nationally. He is an ACLS (Advanced Cardiac Life Support) certified instructor and an American College of Cardiology certified reader of electrocardiograms.

Goralski maintains his board certification from the American Board of Family Practice and is a member in good standing of the American Medical Association. Additionally he is a clinical assistant professor at the University of Maryland Department of Family Medicine.

"Anticipation and prevention, as well as caring treatment, are the cornerstone of the family practice medical care offered at the Garrett Medical Group," the physician said.

The Health Fair is open to the public and will offer a number of free health screenings and demonstrations. Additional information on the event can be obtained by calling 301-533-4041.

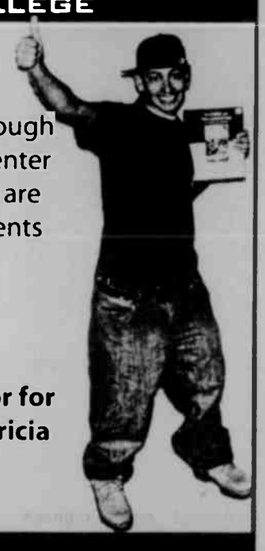
"Allow feeders to dry fully before filling," Blizzard said. "It is recommended to keep your feeders in for two weeks initially before filling and putting them back out."

The Maryland DNR works closely with USDA Wildlife Services to monitor bird disease events and jointly operates a toll-free call center. To report bird mortalities involving events with more than five birds, persons are asked to call the Wildlife Call Center at 1-877-463-6497.

For more information on salmonellosis in wild birds, persons may visit the National Wildlife Health Center web site at nwhc.usgs.gov/publications/field_manual.

"It is unknown whether the source of infection is a naturally occurring event or related to the current salmonella problem in peanut products," Blizzard said.



For more information on the peanut product recall one may visit the FDA web site at fda.gov/oc/opacom/hottopics/salmonella-typh.html#recalls.

"Salmonella infections can be zoonotic (transmitted to people)," Blizzard noted. "Gloves should be worn if handling birds or feeders. Dispose of dead birds promptly."

For more information concerning public health and salmonella infections, persons may call their local health department or family physician.

For additional information about the current human salmonella illness situation, one may visit the following Centers for Disease Control web site at cdc.gov/salmonella/typhimurium or the FDA site at fda.gov/oc/opacom/hottopics/salmonella-typh.html.

Members planned a movie night at Garrett 8 Cinemas.

Club members will participate in a six-week cake decorating workshop with the Accident Planning Group. A Bowl for 4-H team was formed, and the team will be bowling on Sunday, March 22, at 2 p.m. at Par-Matt Lanes in Oakland.

The program for the March meeting will be public speaking, and members were reminded to have a speech or radio spot prepared to present to the group.

Upcoming events include county public speaking at Garrett College on Friday, March 13; Rabbit School at Greensburg Central Catholic School on Saturday, March 28; and Achievement Night on Saturday, April 4, at Northern High School.

The Clover presentation for the evening was a healthy snack.

"Safe Operator" Refresher Course Slated In McHenry

The Maryland Center for Environmental Training will conduct an "Annual Refresher – The Safe Operator" course on Friday, March 27, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Garrett College, McHenry.

Employers are required, under the Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) safety standards, to conduct annual safety training for their employees. The safety training content is determined by the nature of the organization's duties, tasks, and functions required of their employees.

Participants will discuss case studies facilitated by the instructor and review the OSHA standard 29 CFR 1926 and 29 CFR 1910 in the following areas: confined space entry, respiratory protection, lockout-tagout, and excavation safety.

To register or obtain more information about this course, persons may call the college's Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

St. John's Sets Installation Of New Minister

MATTHEW WIDDER

The congregation and elders of St. John's Christian Church in Grantsville will install their new minister on Sunday, March 29, during the morning service.

Matthew L. Widder of Greencastle, Pa., is a 2000 graduate of Lock Haven University. He is currently a student at the Liberty Theological Seminary. He is a licensed minister of the Evangelical Association of Reformed and Congregational Christian Churches.

Pastor Widder's wife of two years, Emily (Carey) Widder, is originally from the Grantsville area.

Before coming to St. John's, Pastor Widder served as a youth pastor for seven years in a Hagerstown church.

"I am excited to serve such a warm and caring church," he said. "St. John's is a good church that is always looking forward to serving the community and Jesus Christ in a biblical and uplifting way. I just hope to come alongside their efforts to fulfill that mission and give voice to the gospel call. It really is a great place to serve and worship. I'm excited to help them take the next steps of where God wants to lead us. We are a church that cares more about your heart and walk with God than your ability to tie a tie, so it is a comfortable place to confront the truth of God's word".

St. John's Christian Church is a non-denominational church located on Main Street in Grantsville. The Sunday School meets each Sunday at 9 a.m., with a time of coffee and fellowship afterwards beginning at 10 a.m.

Worship services begin at 10:30 a.m. each Sunday, and utilize modern worship songs and traditional hymns. A Bible study group meets on Tuesday evenings at 6:30 p.m.

Anyone interested in more information about the church may call 301-895-5256 or e-mail Pastor Matt at pastormatt55@yahoo.com.

"The church welcomes visitors and anyone seeking a church home to come as you are and feel free to dress casually," a spokesperson said.

ville Business and Professional Woman of the Year in 1987.

Ms. Buckel has traveled nationally and internationally to share her faith. She has served in many capacities in the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America, including vice president of her local church council, as well as being the first Garrett County woman to be elected president of the West Virginia-Western Maryland Synodical Board for the Women of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America (WELCA), and the first woman from Garrett County and the West Virginia-Western Maryland Synodical board to be elected to the WELCA church-wide (national) board.

Her daughters wrote that she is a "devoted daughter, mother and grandmother and shares her gifts with others, providing a variety of programs, presentations and workshops for both children and adults."

Virginia Grove, a resident of Garrett County for 35 years, lives in Mountain Lake Park. She was nominated by her daughter, Wendy Kedzierski. This inductee's professional and volunteer efforts have been in the areas of arts, education, youth, spiritual communities, and charitable organizations.

Ms. Grove taught in Garrett County schools from 1972 to 2008, from elementary school through college. She is mother to three grown children and grandmother to 12. She is now retired and working on her teaching memoirs.

Her community voluntary service includes the Garrett County Commission on Aging, the Institute for Lifelong Learning, Garrett County Habitat for Humanity (22 years), League of Women Voters (on board for 23 years), American Association of University Women, House of Hope, and Meals on Wheels (volunteer driver).

Her support to the arts through contributions and attendance include Garrett Lakes Arts Foundation, Music at Penn Alps, Our Town Theatre, and Write Away program at Garrett College. She has had poetry and prose published in Ginseng, a juried, literary publication of the Garrett County Arts Council.

Ms. Grove has been an active member of St. Paul's United Methodist Church for 35 years, teaching Sunday school (16 years), being a member of the United Methodist Women (30 years), and acting as a United Methodist youth leader (three one-year terms).

She has supported international visiting, serving as an exchange host on numerous occasions. She has also been a 4-H leader, a Cub Scout den mother, and an assistant Brownie leader.

Henrietta Lease, Swanton, has lived in Garrett County for 27 years. She was nominated by Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent of Garrett County schools, because of her "numerous contributions to education and service to the community and county."

This inductee was employed by the Garrett County Board of Education from 1965 to 1999. She taught at Kitzmiller Elementary School and Southern High School, served as curriculum coordinating teacher, and then assistant principal at Southern High, and served as director of personnel and director of secondary education for the school system.

"Ms. Lease's influence and leadership impacted many students and personnel in a very positive manner during her outstanding tenure with Garrett County schools," Dr. Teets said.

She has been active in organizations that serve the county and community prior to and following her retirement. Some of her current and former activities and memberships include: currently president of the Garrett County Retired School Personnel Association and area director for the Maryland Retired School Personnel Association; Garrett County Memorial Hospital board member, bylaws committee chair, and member at large for the VIVA executive committee; current treasurer and former board chair, vice chair, secretary, and member of various committees of the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center; current chair of the Garrett County Local Management Board; former president secretary and current board member of the League of Women Voters of Maryland; tax counselor for the local AARP Tax Aide Program; and past president and current first vice president of the Alpha Alpha chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Society International.

The inductee volunteers one day per week at Garret County Memorial Hospital, and adopted Sky Valley Road in memory of Megan Price, under the county's Adopt-a-Road program.

These women, selected based on their contributions to Garrett County, will be honored at the Hall of Fame breakfast on Saturday, March 28, at 10 a.m. at the Will O' the Wisp.

Although some invitations have been sent, the Hall of Fame breakfast is open to the public. Reservations are $16 and can be made by calling Beverly Beard, Hall of Fame chairperson, at 301-334-5987, by 4 p.m. on March 25.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

At last, I found a perfect solution for a major problem of mine – finding someone to put this column on the computer and e-mail it to The Republican. Everyone is too busy to take on another commitment. But Cheryl Bender thought of the perfect person. A while ago, the Ruggiero family lived next door, actually across and up the road in the old Metzer house. The parents were some kind of missionaries, and they had a whole bunch of kids, including a little African American girl Kim, whom I taught to ride horses. We were pretty close.

Well, her older brother Reuben's wife Brenda happens to work for The Republican in its Grantsville office, and she has agreed to type the column. When I talked to Brenda, she told me that Kim has a little baby girl! She is living in Florida.

I am so happy to get this settled, because it has turned out to be very difficult to replace my mother, who did type it for me. She is not feeling up to it, as she has been sick. My Claire can do it sometimes, but she is in the process of job seeking. And Cheryl did a great job for a couple of months, but she is far too busy for it.

Last weekend, Cheryl and husband Tim hosted the gang of sons of his brother Tom and wife Laurie from Meyersdale. Luckily, the weather was perfect for outdoor playing. They also hosted the two sons of Steve and Shannon Brenneman, who headed to Ohio to take in a horse show and just spend some time together.

The mid-week Lent service will be alternating between Emmanuel and St. John. The services start at 6 p.m. Following the service, soup and bread will be served.

Mark your calendar for Friday, March 20, the date that Bittinger Lutheran Parish will have a spaghetti dinner between 3 and 6 p.m. It is a fundraising effort for a trip to the Cherokee Indian reservation in North Carolina. There is no set price for the dinner, but a free-will offering will be accepted. There will also be a sign-up sheet for hiring one of the youth for odd jobs.

Speaking of youth, Mike McCormick, who is home from Colorado, got his Eagle Scout badge at a ceremony at St. John's.

A funeral was held at Emmanuel for Harry Brenneman, 81, who was a brother of Bruce and Dale Brenneman. His sister-in-law Lottie was able to attend, in spite of a problem with her foot. About 50 people attended the funeral and the meal served by the women of the LCA.

Good news! Brenneman's Store will reopen around the first of May. As usual, it will sell pizza and soft-serve ice cream. Lois's son Brian Smith will move up from Florida to run the store in the summer, then will probably return to Florida in the winter.

I heard it's an unusually good year for maple sugaring. I heard last Friday that the sap was gushing out.

It seems that we have entered a time of domestic terrorists. A student threatened a Columbine-like attack in a school, but I forget where. And then Sunday a gun-toting man entered a church in Illinois and shot the pastor and several worshipers. Sad. Very sad. There seem to be no motives for either.

Maybe even more sad is the apparent trend for young kids to murder someone with a gun. It seems that if you have a grudge against someone, it is not necessary to pick up a gun and start shooting.

I am pretty surprised about how fast the temperature dropped after sunset. At least it's not cold, just cooler than I expected after a very pleasant warm day. But these days are up and down. Monday morning when I got up at 6:30 my house was pretty cold because we had lots of windows open to enjoy the fresh air, but they were not closed during the night. And I know we will return to 40, plus rain will come in the latter part of this week. It looks like new weather is blowing in because my trees and shrubs are really rocking and rolling this morning.

Warren Buffett, the richest man in America, said, "The economy fell off a cliff." How do you fix that? It's not the economy clinging with one finger at the edge of a cliff. Then a rescue would be possible. But once it goes over, what can you do except wait until it hits the bottom and maybe you can pick up some pieces and put some of them back together. Put together by financial institutions or banks?

It's hard to see what the president can do to help it, except maybe put up a safety net, which is what he is trying to do with extending unemployment and also in health care reform to ensure that all Americans have access to health care even if they do not have insurance from their jobs (if they are lucky). Quite a few employers do not have insurance.

Last Saturday was pretty disappointing for me. I was looking forward to watching a very important University of Maryland men's basketball game against the University of Virginia. It was a must-win for the Terps in order for them to go to the "Big Dance," the NCAA national tournament. They could go if they somehow won the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament, but the ACC is loaded with heavyweight teams.

Morning visitors of mine, my brother Barry Glotfelty of Thurmont and Rodney's college friend Mike Flynn of Rockville, told me that they were going to Rodney's house to watch because he has a television package that includes the game. But on my television, it was a blackout for this area. Instead of watching the big basketball game, my two daughters Claire and Mere and I watched "The Next Top Model," the least favorite show of mine.

I didn't go down to Rodney's house because it is a different place for me to get around, especially when there is a big crowd. And there were a good many Maryland fans to watch the game.

Saturdays are always a busy visitor day for my mother, Ruth DiPaolo. Visitors included, of course, my brother Barry, Lesa and Maddy Whittemore, and a couple of pals from the Grantsville Business and Professional Women, Ruth Newman and Earleena Tressler of Grantsville and Betsy and Marianna Herpel of Accident. But everyone cleared out before darkness hit at 7 o'clock. That will change after tonight's "spring forward" time changing.

It is Sunday, March 8, still about a week before the first day of spring, but when I opened my front door to let Boo out this morning, I was amazed at how mild it was. Believe me, I did not complain at all.

I heard from Caitlin this morning that she went into the homeless shelter last night, even though it looked like she lost that job. A young mother with a sick baby hugged Caitlin, and Caity gave her her cell phone number to call anytime she needed help.

I am so proud of Caitlin. She has a wonderful heart. Maybe her boss realized that, because he told her to call him when she is back from spring break in Costa Rica! Maybe she can have her job back. I hope it will work out, because that job meant so much to Caity. I thought that Costa Rica was where Jack Beitzel and his son went last year, and they gave a good report about that country.

As usual, the time change always makes me feel lousy.

I hear on the news that among the first shovel-ready infrastructure on which work will start soon is in Maryland! I don't know where Route 450 is.

The IRS totally messed up. They sent me a certified letter about a month ago saying I owed them $2,000, but then last week I got a regular letter saying I don't owe anything. When they send bad news, they use a very official method, but when they have a piece of good news, they just use regular first-class mail.

I'm not 100 percent confident about the good news, so I called the number in the letter. The lady I talked to said my case is closed and I owe nothing. But I still don't feel really good yet. It ws announced that the federal government plans to collect lots of past tax liability. They will probably change their minds about my case and let go the hundreds of thousands of dollars that people bragged about in a television commercial for tax relief firms.

For example, one man said, "The IRS said I owe a hundred thousand, but Tax Master proved I owe nothing." There are so many people claiming that they got off for really big money. I wonder if they really owe nothing. Since I do not have any high-powered tax lawyer, they will probably pick on me. But the total amount that people on the ads owed was at least a million dollars, probably more. I will never feel 100 percent safe about it.

I can't believe my Mere and I agree about a music star. Believe it or not, it's Johnny Cash! Many songs he sang bring memories of when I was young. We were watching him singing "Ring of Fire," which was popular when I was at the state fair to show Rodney's dairy heifer because he had a broken leg. I wonder what year that was... Oh yeah, it was the same as the moon landing, which I think was 1969. We watched the moon landing on a television in the lodge at 4-H Camp, where Rodney broke his leg. He was 17 then, and had lots of female admirers. I'm glad the camp director knew the event was important enough to go to the trouble for us to see it.

Speaking of big historical events in my lifetime, very few do not remember where they were when they heard that President Kennedy was assassinated in 1963. I was in fifth grade at Accident Elementary School, but we weren't in the classroom; we were in the music room for a special presentation of fluorescent rocks viewed in the light of a black light, presented by a friend of my parents.

All schools closed for the funeral. That was also a good decision for school officials because some very vivid images are still very clear in my mind. And it was a major historical event.

And it was in the band room at Northern High in 1968 when we learned that Robert Kennedy was assassinated. I remember Penny Friend was crying. She was also in the clarinet section.

The other nightmare killing was the assassination of Martin Luther King. I learned about that on the evening news on our black and white television, and I didn't realize what a world-changing event it was when it happened.

Now only Edward Kennedy is still around, and sadly, he will not have too much time left. I hope Obama will succeed to pass health reform within this year. Kennedy should see it in his lifetime, since he devoted so much energy to achieve it. I hope the product of his effort will remain after him. He pushed it to the front when no one else cared about it. I hope the Congress will get busy and pass it in his lifetime.

I am sorry that his niece Caroline is not in the Senate with him. The Kennedy era is almost over, but it is true that several young Kennedys are waiting in the wings, and they are hoping to become involved in public service.

It is not surprising that a lot of my generation is in favor of gun control, because guns did kill our heroes. We only have one elder statesman instead of four. We could use the experience and wisdom in these troubled times.

Ruth DiPaolo had a minor setback, a compressed

COLORING CONTEST WINNERS ANNOUNCED – Emily Helms and Brianna LeMay recently received ribbons and $10 McDonald's gift cards as winners of the Garrett County Humane Society's contest. SpayDay USA coloring sheets from the Humane Society of the United States were handed out at area libraries and then displayed in the Oakland library window. "Thirty-six sheets were returned and judged," said GCHS president Lisa Baker. "There were a lot of pretty ones." Coloring sheet participants were asked to respond to a question, "Why should you spay/neuter your pet/" Five-year-old Emily wrote, "So they don't over populate." Brianna, 8, said, "So there's not too many animals running around. "These are great answers," Baker said. "Children should learn at an early age how to take care of their pets, and having pets altered is a very important part of that responsibility." Pictured, left to right, in front of the Ruth Enlow Library display window are Emily, Baker, and Brianna.

Each of us is given
Precious time to spend on earth,
But we know the journey leads us
To a home of greater worth.
Sometimes the Father takes us
Down a path not of our choice,
But when it leads to heaven,
How our hearts and souls rejoice!
And earthly cares all vanish
When at last we hear God say,
"Welcome home, my precious child,
I led you all the way."

Warm Mornings Environmental Window Solutions LLC

Larry A. Patterson II, Swanton, has announced the formation of a new company, Warm Mornings Environmental Window Solutions LLC. The company will market and sell an internal window insulation system in the Maryland, West Virginia, Delaware, and Western Pennsylvania regions. Patterson is also responsible for assisting in the distribution of this product throughout the United States and overseeing the growth of the parent company, Climate Seal, located in Charlotte, N.C.

Patterson and his wife Eileen are co-owners in the local company, which is located at 9 Moorings Way in Swanton, off Turkey Neck Road.

This innovative concept originated in the bitter cold of northern Maine, where the product, a specially made window insert, has been sold for the past 30 years. During that time, tens of thousands of these units were also sold to homeowners and historical buildings throughout New England with excellent results, Patterson said. The formation of Warm Mornings LLC in the local area begins the process of introducing this concept to the rest of the country, he said.

"This window insert is an excellent retrofit solution for existing construction, and provides drastic energy savings for all types of window configurations, both commercial and residential," said Mr. Patterson, who has 15 years of experience in the window manufacturing industry.

"The product is magnetically applied to a painted steel track that is then installed around the perimeter of the window without interfering with the esthetics or integrity of the existing window opening," he explained. "From a 'green' standpoint, our system is 85% post-consumer recyclable.

"This is a concept for current conditions," he said.

A "WARM MORNING" WINDOW INSERT is being displayed above by company co-owner Eileen Patterson. She and her husband Larry Patterson are open for business in Swanton with a product that will cut heating and cooling costs for customers. See story.

"Not only does it offer a homeowner the option of reducing his/her home heating bills by as much as 50%, the system is extremely effective, economically affordable, and, unlike replacement windows, can be installed at any time throughout the year. This insert is virtually invisible when in place, causes no disruption to the home environment, and does not compromise the original window in any way. Additional applications for this product are to assist in noise abatement (up to 80%), and in historic buildings, where the original window may maintain its esthetic features."

Mr. Patterson will be identifying and certifying interested contractors to install the product, thus generating local jobs that will benefit the customer, contractors, and distributors. One of the product's greatest benefits is the effect of cutting monthly heating costs and in essence pay for itself in 24 months or less.

Patterson is the former plant manager of Automated Packaging Systems in Keyser, W.Va. He has spent the past 15 years as vice president of operations for both the CertainTeed Window Group in Valley Forge, Pa., and Mikron Industries in Kent, Wash.

Eileen O'Brien Patterson is originally of Garfield Heights, Ohio, and the two have one daughter, Jennifer Kraus, and a grandson, Hayden Kraus, of Evansville, Wis. The Pattersons have owned a home in Swanton for five years, and recently moved to the area permanently.

The company can be reached by calling 301-387-6045 or via e-mail at WarmMorningsEWS@aol.com.

New Program To Save Money For College Unveiled

Maryland Comptroller Peter Franchot joined Treasurer Nancy Kopp, Joan Marshall of the College Savings Plans of Maryland, and Patrick Moran of Maryland AFSCME on Wednesday to announce that state employees now have the option to save for their children's college education "in these tough economic times" by having contributions automatically deducted from their paychecks.

"It is no secret that in today's increasingly knowledge-based economy that a college education is a prerequisite to a successful career. But as we continue to feel the effects of this national economic downturn, many families are finding it harder to save for even the most basic of necessities," said Franchot.

"This new option for state employees to save for their children's college education through paycheck deductions is just another way we as a state are trying to make it easier for hard-working families to invest in part of the American Dream," he added.

Just like automatic payments to 401k plans and health insurance, state workers can now have money put into one of Maryland's two college savings plans – the Maryland Prepaid College Trust or Maryland College Investment Plan – by deducting it from their paychecks.

Participants in the Maryland Prepaid College Trust program, which locks in tomorrow's tuition at today's prices, are already able to use payroll deduction as a way to invest. That service was recently updated and is now available to members of the College Investment Plan, a traditional investment portfolio program administered by T. Rowe Price.

"State employees now will have a creative and easy way to save for their children's college education," said Treasurer Kopp. "I encourage state employees to take advantage of this initiative. The College Savings Plans of Maryland allow parents to establish a lasting legacy for their children."

Kopp also serves as chair of the CSPM Board.

Both plans offer tax benefits, including tax-free earnings when used toward eligible college costs, plus an annual Maryland state income deduction of up to $2,500 per account or beneficiary. The plans can be used toward nearly any accredited college nationwide, public or private two-year or four-year, and participants can invest as little as $25 a month.

State employees can sign up for the College Investment Plan anytime throughout the year, but this year's enrollment deadline for the Prepaid Plan is April 6. Payroll deduction to invest in either plan can be chosen as a payment method anytime.

"We are very excited about this new offering," said Joan Marshall, executive director for the College Savings Plans of Maryland. "Both plans offer a great tax benefit to Maryland residents, and now thousands more will have the opportunity to help make saving for future college expenses easy and affordable."

To sign up for the payroll deduction option, state employees can go to the comptroller's Web site at www.marylandtaxes.com. For more information on the two savings plans, Maryland taxpayers can go online and visit www.collegesavmgsmd.org fracture in her spine. But the other day, she had a busy day when she got her hair done and shopped at Foodland. She was a bit tired after that busy day.

There is no justice these days. CEOs with huge salaries get on top with billion-dollar bonuses, even though they did a terrible job.

On the other hand, I just heard from my Caitlin, who was very upset because she is laid off from her job at the homeless shelter in Morgantown, even though she always goes above her duty. She treats the residents with respect and even love. They know she really cares about them. She is crushed. It's a tough way to begin a career in helping people. And of course, new jobs are not growing on trees these days.

I am feeling her pain very much, as a mother always does when her children are in trouble.

It is not just borrowers or low demand for automobiles or the fact that consumers aren't spending that are the causes of our economic meltdown. It is the assertion of personal greed as the primary motivation in the financial sector.

I'm proud to say that my brothers are as big of fans of the Maryland women's basketball team as they are of the men's team. This year, as in 2006, the women's team is better. In 2006, they won the national championships.

This Sunday afternoon, the Lady Terps squeaked out an overtime win over Duke in the Atlantic Coast Conference Tourney championship game. It was as exciting and well-played as any men's game. But strange to say, my daughter is not a fan of women's games, except the Northern High team, which has one of her friends on it.

Thank You

I would like to thank my friends, community and my church for helping my family through Mattie's illness. Most importantly I would like to praise God for hearing and answering all of the prayers that were whispered for us. I sensed that there were people I didn't even know who were praying. I understand even more clearly now about the advantages of living in an area where people put God first and then the needs of others. The small community of Kitzmiller has been such a blessing to me and my family When tragedy and illness puts you in the center of the caring, giving and compassion of a community like Kitzmiller your eyes are opened to see in a way you have not seen before. I can not find the words to express my gratitude and how I have been changed through this challenge. I do not know where we would be if it weren't for God and the involvement of my community. I am truly blessed. I would like to send a special "Thank You" to the Coal Bucket Cafe, Heritage Stone, the Kitzmiller Volunteer Fire Department, the Hiway Church and all the others who gave in some way. Mattie is doing exceptionally well and growing more beautiful every day Thank you again for any part you may have played in support of her recovery.

Thank you,
Randall, Heather, Austin, Olivia and Mattie Berg

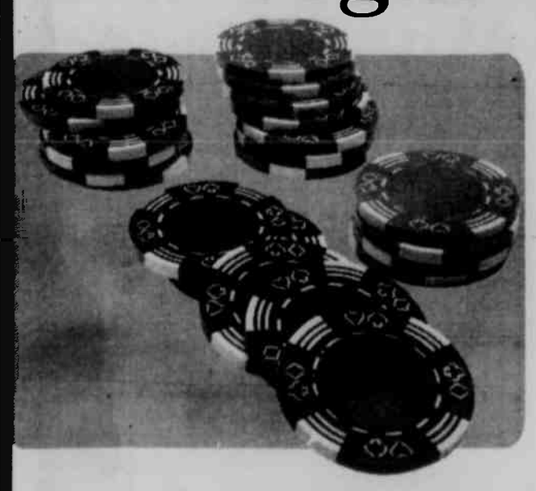
bill is not intended in any way to take mineral rights or privileges away from those that have legitimate title, claims or reservations to gas, coal, or other minerals under the surface in the state."

This bill provides a procedure for the property owners to clear up any discrepancies as it relates to the ownership of the minerals under the surface of their property, the delegate noted. If no clarity is brought to the issue, the mineral either may not be extracted or the state of Maryland could end up with the revenue generated from the extraction.

If the legislation is enacted, beginning Oct. 1, 2011, a surface owner may bring an action in circuit court in the county in which the property is located to terminate a dormant mineral interest. A mineral interest is defined as dormant if the interest is unused and notice was not recorded for a period of 20 years or more before the date the action is brought.



Use of the mineral interest is evidenced by the following: active mining operations on or below the surface estate; payment of taxes on the interest or on the transfer or severance of the interest; recordation of an instrument that evidences a claim to any part of the mineral interest; and recordation of a judgment referencing the mineral interest.

The bill does not apply to any mineral interest held by federal, state, or local agencies, or tribal interests. It also does not affect any other provision of law for clearing an abandoned mineral interest, does not affect water rights, and does not extend a contractually defined mineral interest of less than 20 years.

Maryland law does not contain a general mineral reversion statute to ensure unused mineral interests revert to the state, as is common among states with historically significant mining industries. Several states, including neighboring Pennsylvania where drilling for natural gas is currently taking place, have codified provisions of the Uniform Dormant Mineral Interests Act.

Revenue Leads

Federal stimulus money dedicated for K-12 education and state Medicaid contributions will be protected from cuts, Busch and Miller said.

Tax increases are not considered a viable option to closing the budget gap.

"The last thing that we want to consider is a tax hike, and the next-to-last thing we want to consider is layoffs," Busch said.

The cuts will all be made to next year's budget since the stimulus money will make up for this year's shortfall, said Secretary of Budget and Management T. Eloise Foster.

"We will be fine in fiscal year 2009," Foster said.

The state Board of Revenue Estimates announced Wednesday afternoon a $1.1 billion shortfall in tax and other revenue projections for the next two fiscal years. O'Malley had predicted $600 million in revenue write-downs in previous budget projections over that time, leaving the state with the $516 million shortfall.

Of the $1.1 billion in write-downs, $866 million is because of declining individual income tax receipt projections. Falling sales tax earnings make up most of the rest.

State Comptroller Peter Franchot called the numbers "truly staggering, but not truly surprising" in light of the current economic climate.

"Maryland is not immune to the economic crisis that has rocked the nation," Franchot said.

The shortfall announcement helped revive the debate over the state's role in financing teacher pensions, which are expected to cost the state $760 million next fiscal year and $950 million in 2011.

O'Malley has allocated federal stimulus money for the state to continue paying for teacher pensions for the next two years. But Miller has repeatedly advocated making counties responsible for at least part of the teacher pension costs.

"We cannot continue in this manner. We have no control over it," Miller said. "Somehow there's got to be the political will to make the right decision."

Miller has proposed legislation to shift some future costs to the counties, but said the stimulus money O'Malley has dedicated to covering teacher pensions makes it unlikely his bill will pass.

Both Miller and Busch said community colleges should be protected from the pending budget cuts.

"They are our first line of defense in terms of education," Miller said.

The current fiscal crisis has Miller and Busch calling for a deeper look at state spending.

Early in the afternoon the pair of presiding officers announced the creation of a joint legislative workgroup to study the amount of money the state sends to local governments. The panel of seven delegates and seven senators will commence meeting following the 2009 session.

Miller thinks spending also needs to be addressed before the session concludes next month.

"This is, quite frankly, the time that the General Assembly is going to have to address structural imbalance and sustainability for the future," Miller said. "If we don't do it now in these next four or five weeks, we will have forfeited a huge opportunity."

House Minority Leader Anthony O'Donnell, R-Calvert, also sees a need to address future state spending.

"We came into the session with expectations that we needed to fix our structural deficit and our structural funding problems," O'Donnell said. "Then we got federal stimulus money and we acted like the problem went away, and now the problem's back."

Last week, the Board of Public Works announced $82 million in cuts to this year's budget, including eliminating 894 state jobs, all but two of which were vacant. In October, the board cut $345 million from this year's budget.

O'Malley is expected to submit a supplemental budget soon that reflects the revised revenue projections and includes cuts to expenditures until now considered safe.

"There's nothing left (in the budget) that isn't important," O'Malley said.

Foster put it a different way.

"We're down to the meat and potatoes now," she said.

Collins Named To MD JUCO All Conference Team

Janay Collins of the Garrett College women's basketball team was named to the 2008-09 Maryland JUCO All Conference First Team after her first year as a key player for the Lakers this season.

Collins, a 6' foot freshman forward/center from Bronx, N.Y., led Garrett with a 13.9 average in scoring, a 9.7 average in rebounds, and a 66 in field goal percentage.

"Janay had 15 double-doubles, and has led our team season in scoring and rebounds through the season," said Lakers coach Thea Garland. "This is a great compliment for a freshman player in a conference with great talent. Janay has filled the void left by Mindy Sharp, last year's member of the All Tournament Team in the National Tournament. With continued growth and development, Janay has the potential to be one of the best forwards to ever play at Garrett College."

Other members of the women's team that were named to the Maryland JUCO All Conference Honorable Mention Team are Brionna Carter, a guard/forward, and guard LaCresha Hankins.

DNR Announces Muskrat Trapping Season Extended

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has added a one-week extension to the muskrat trapping season in all counties except Allegany, Carroll, Frederick, Garrett, Howard, and Washington counties. The new closing date for the season is March 21. No other hunting or trapping seasons have been extended.

"Muskrat trapping is culturally and economically important in many regions of Maryland," said Robert Colona, DNR Furbearer Project leader. "Persistent ice cover and the recent snowfall limited trapper access to many wetlands this winter. The season extension will provide added opportunity for individuals to harvest this valuable and prolific species."

Additional information about hunting and trapping can be found in "The Guide to Hunting and Trapping in Maryland" or on the DNR web site at www.dnr.maryland.gov/huntersguide.

Trappers and hunters are reminded that a Furbearer Permit is now required for individuals to hunt, chase, trap, or otherwise pursue furbearing creatures. Those wishing to trap furbearers but do not have a permit or certificate of trapper education prior to April 1, 2007, must also complete mandatory trapper education requirements.

Information about Maryland's trapper education program can be found at www.dnr.maryland.gov/-nrp/education/trappered.-html.

Furbearer permits may be obtained from any DNR sport license agent, by phone at 1-800-918-2870, or online at www.dnr.maryland.gov/service/howto.asp.

Huskies Fall To Allegany, 77-58, In Region 1A Final; Finish At 20-4

The 2008-09 season came to an end for the Northern High School varsity girls' basketball team after falling, 77-58, to Allegany in the championship round of the Maryland Class 1A West Regional playoffs last Thursday.

The Huskies were led by Adria Graham's 17 points. Graham scored the game's first four points, and provided three of Northern's five three-pointers.

Area scoring leader Kaitlynn Fratz recorded 13 points for the Huskies, and Megan Wiley and Kerry Conroy each had 10. Wiley also finished with six rebounds.

Allegany's Leah Wormack recorded a double-double with 21 points and 11 rebounds, with most of her points coming in the second half. She was 8-for-12 from the floor and hit 5 of 9 foul shots.

Detonia DeGross had a big night for the Campers, finishing with a game-high 22 points. She hit both foul shots and was 10-for-14 on the floor.

The first half saw two lead changes, with Northern trailing behind in the first quarter, 21-19. The Huskies rallied to take control in the second quarter, with the help of Graham's second three-pointer, to boost the lead to 40-33 at the half.

The second half started with Northern's biggest lead after Fratz hit the first two points to boost the score to 42-33, but Allegany come back in full force. DeGross scored 12 points by the third period's 5:25 mark, and Wormack's lay-up made the score 53-45 with 30 seconds left. Northern remained eight points behind, 55-47, going into the fourth.

"We had a lot of good ball movement in the first half to get good shots. I think we kind of surprised them," said Northern's coach Dave Yoder. "In the second half, they (Allegany) played good defense and completely changed the game. They were able to isolate in the post for Wormack."

The third-ranked Huskies finished the season with a 20-4 record.

Glotfelty Eighth In NCAA; Named An All-American

Brock Glotfelty, Grantsville, a sophomore wrestler at McDaniel College, lost his first match of the weekend, but wrestled his way back to finish eighth in the heavyweight division of the 2009 NCAA Division III wrestling championships, held Friday and Saturday in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. By finishing among the top eight, Glotfelty became McDaniel's eighth wrestling All-American.

The former Northern High School standout finished his season with an overall record of 37-4, giving him the most wins by a Green Terror wrestler since Chris McNally won 37 bouts in 2000-01. Steve Smiddy holds the program record with 41 victories in 1996-97. Glotfelty's .902 winning percentage is the best all-time by a wrestler with more than 20 decisions.

Glotfelty went into the championships as the sixth seed, and barely lost his opportunity for a national championship as he was edged on points, 6-5, to Elizabethtown's Deron Sharp in the opening round.

In Friday's night action, Glotfelty recorded his program-record-tying 22nd pin of the year in just 1 minute, 54 seconds against Joe Murphy of SUNY Cortland.

Glotfelty followed that with a 6-2 win over #4 seed Glenn Geesman (MIT) to guarantee himself a top-eight finish and All-American honors.

In his opening match on Saturday, Augsburg's Andrew Witzel notched a 3-1 victory to relegate Glotfelty to the seventh-place match, in which he dropped a 4-3 decision to Mitch Sanders (Coe), the seventh seed.

Glotfelty joined fellow Centennial Conference wrestler Rob Kein of Muhlenberg as the only two conference wrestlers to come home in the top eight. Kein finished eighth in the 149-pound division.

Ram Grapplers Win State Championship Plus Four Individual Titles; Huskies 7th

Recording four individual state championships, one runner-up trophy, and a fifth place, the Southern High School wrestling team captured its first-ever team championship in the Maryland 1A/2A Wrestling Tournament, held at the University of Maryland's Cole Field House in College Park on Saturday.

It was just a few weeks ago that Southern also won its first state 1A/2A dual meet championship.

After placing second as a team in last year's tourney, the Rams sent five grapplers into the finals and edged out second-place River Hill. The Rams amassed 142.5 points, while River Hill, which led going into the final bouts, finished with 132.5 points. Placing third was Wmters Mill with 91 points, followed by Owings Mills with 88, Easton with 69, and Middletown in sixth place with 60 points.

"To have five guys qualify for the finals, and then have four of them win titles was just an awesome feeling," said SHS head coach Dave Taylor. "We had four qualify last year, which was great, but only one was able to win a title."

With one champion, one runner-up, and a fifth-place, the Northern Huskies tied with Williamsport for seventh place, each recording 54 points.

Rounding out the top 20 were Francis Scott Key and South Carroll tied for ninth place with 53 points each, followed by Harford Tech, 52.5; Oakland Mills, 50; Glenelg, 45.5; Pikesville, 43; Catoctin and Loch Raven, 40 each; Hammond and North Caroline, 39 each; Walkersville, 37; and Liberty, 32 points.

Mountain Ridge placed 37th among the 70 schools represented in the tournament.

The state champions for Southern were Lex Ozias, George "Brutus" Scheffel, Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel, and Jordan Skipper. Ryan Bennett was a runner-up, and Josh Arnold placed fifth.

Northern's Adam Moranduzzo won a state title, while teammates Dustin Stough placed second and Josh Arnold finished fifth.

Winning his third consecutive state title was Southern junior Brutus Scheffel, while his brother Bubba Scheffel, a sophomore, not only won his first title, but completed the season with an unblemished 44-0 record.

After placing second as a freshman last season, Ozias won his first title, and Skipper, a senior, rounded out his career with a championship.

Brutus Scheffel recorded technical falls in his first two matches, followed by a 6-2 decision over Nathan White of River Hill, and then a 10-1 major decision over Gus Mohlhenrich of Winters Mill in the final bout of the 140-pound division.

Scheffel, who finished the season with an overall record of 41-4, is on track to become only the fourth high school wrestler in state history to win four championships.

Bubba Scheffel coasted to the title in the 145-pound division, as he recorded four straight pins. He earned a spot in the finals by pinning senior Pete Miljevic of Pikesville, and then took the title by pinning another senior, Tyler White of Walkersville.

Ozias was also impressive in his run to the championship in the 130-pound division, starting with a technical fall victory in his first bout, followed by two major decisions, including one over Northern High senior Josh Duckworth, which put him in the finals. He then defeated Rion Reiter of South Carroll via a 7-3 decision to take the crown. He finished with an overall record of 41-3 for the year.

Skipper likewise had little difficulty in recording his first state title, starting with a pinfall win in his first bout of the 152-pound division, recording two consecutive major decisions, and then earning a commanding 10-3 decision over Zach White of Walkersville in the title match. His fmal record was 39-4.

Bennett, another of the Rams' promising sophomores, started his run in the 189-pound division with a tough 1-0 decision win, followed by a pin, and then a 3-2 point victory over senior Ben Rutkowski of Loch Raven to send him into the finals. He was defeated on points, 14-2, in the title bout by another senior, Lance Lepard of Harford Tech.

Josh Arnold, a senior, was knocked out of the championship round in his furst bout via an 8-0 decision, but then went on to win three matches in the lower bracket to secure his fifth place. His three victories came on decisions before he was stopped by eventual third-place finisher Brendan Conway of Glenelg via a major decision. He ended his season with a 32-17 record.

FIVE INDIVIDUAL CHAMPIONSHIPS among 14 possible in the Maryland State 1A/2A High School Wrestling Tournament at College Park on Saturday were claimed by grapplers from Garrett County – four by the Southern High School Rams and one by the Northern High Huskies. The Rams won the state team title over 69 other schools represented in the event, and the Huskies tied for seventh as a team. Getting his second state title and finishing undefeated (44-0) for the season was Southern sophomore Jakob "Bubba" Scheffel, pictured above left in the process of pinning senior Tyler White of Walkersville in the 145-pound division title match. Scheffel, who placed third in the state event last season as a freshman, recorded a pin in every one of his matches at the state tourney. Above right, Ram Lex Ozias, also a sophomore, controls senior Rion Reiter of South Carroll and goes on to record a 7-3 decision in the title match of the 130-pound division. Ozias was a state runner-up last year as a freshman. Also recording a state title for the Rams was senior Jordan Skipper, pictured below left tying up senior Zach White of Walkersville. Skipper recorded a 10-3 decision to win the title in the 152-pound division. Southern junior George "Brutus" Scheffel, who is pictured on the front page, earned his third straight state title. Below right is Northern junior Adam Moranduzzo taking charge of senior Josh Halper of Hammond in the 135-pound final. Moranduzzo rallied from a 2-0 deficit and went on to win a 4-2 decision in overtime. Photos courtesy of Delos Carpenter.

STATE RUNNERS-UP – Two Garrett County high school wrestlers, one from Northern and one from Southern, captured second-place honors at last weekend's state tournament in College Park. In action above is Northern senior Dustin Stough taking on Patrick Downey of Lock Raven in the 160-pound division championship bout. Stough was edged on points, 6-3, and settled for the runner-up trophy. Stough also placed second last year, and fourth in both his freshman and sophomore years. He concluded his career with 116 wins, third best in NHS history. In a predicament in the photo below is Southern sophomore Ryan Bennett, who finished as the runner-up in the 189-pound division to senior Lance Lepard of Harford Tech. Bennett will likely be a favorite to win a state crown next year. Photos courtesy of Delos Carpenter.

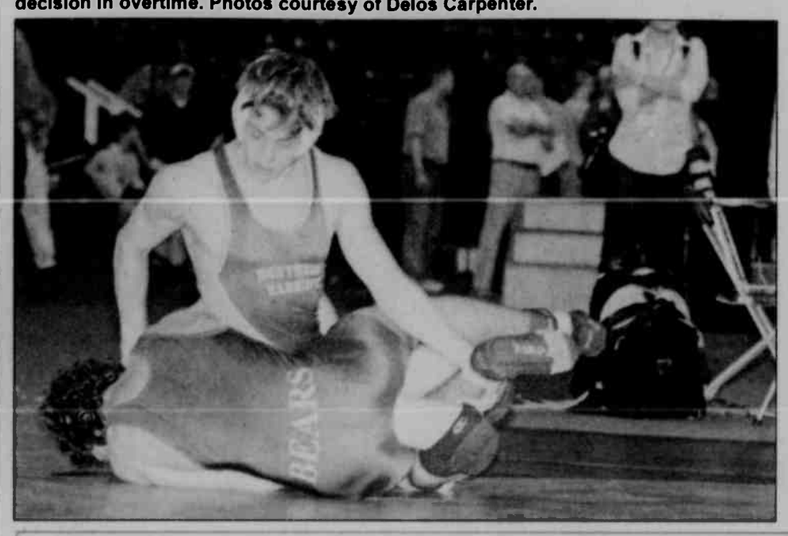
Northern's Moranduzzo began his run for the title in the 135-pound bout with a major decision. He followed that with two more point victories, including an 8-2 win over senior Josh Bathras of North Caroline, to place him in the finals. After trailing 2-0 in his title bout with senior Josh Halper of Hammond, Moranduzzo rallied to tie the score at 2-2, sending the bout into overtime, and ultimately winning by a 4-2 score.

Moranduzzo finished the season with a personal record of 33-5.



Senior Dustin Stough recorded a pin and two decisions before going into the 160-pound final against Patrick Downey of Loch Raven. Downey won via a 6-3 decision. It was the second straight runner-up trophy for Stough, who placed fourth in both his freshman and sophomore years. He concluded his career at Northern with 116 wins – third best in school history – and 32 losses. His record this season was 33-2.

Duckworth started his day in the 130-pound division with a close 9-8 decision win, and then earned a 7-2 point victory before falling to Ozias in his third bout. He was edged in his final match, 3-0, by fourth-place finisher Evan Shebel of River Hill. Duckworth concluded his senior season with an overall record of 27-8.

In reflecting on the season and the championship, Coach Taylor said, "We set up our schedule the way we did for this very reason – to have our kids wrestle the best competition we could find. We faced many of the top wrestlers in West Virginia and Pennsylvania. That's really the only way to continue to improve and elevate your program to this level.

"We have such a great group of good, hard-working kids," he continued, "and I am so proud of them."

With both Scheffels, Ozias, and Bennett back next year, the Rams will likely go into the 2009-10 season ranked among the top two or three teams in the state.

IRS Has $29.9 Million In 2005 Unclaimed Funds

Unclaimed refunds totaling approximately $29.9 million is awaiting over 30,000 Maryland taxpayers who did not file a federal income tax return for 2005, the Internal Revenue Service announced this week. However, to collect the money, a return for 2005 must be filed with the IRS no later than Wednesday, April 15, 2009.

"Especially in these tough economic times, people should not lose out on money that is rightfully theirs," said IRS Commissioner Doug Shulman.

"People should check their records, especially if they had taxes withheld from their paychecks but were not required to file a tax return. They may be leaving money on the table, including valuable tax credits that can mean even more money in their pockets," he said.

The IRS estimates that half of those who could claim refunds for tax year 2005 would receive more than $550. Some individuals may not have filed because they had too little income to require filing a tax return, even though they had taxes withheld from their wages or made quarterly estimated payments.

In cases where a return was not filed, the law provides most taxpayers with a three-year window of opportunity for claiming a refund. If no return is filed to claim the refund within three years, the money becomes property of the U.S. Treasury. For 2005 returns, the window closes on April 15, 2009. The law requires that the return be properly addressed, postmarked, and mailed by that date. There is no penalty assessed by the IRS for filing a late return qualifying for a refund.

The IRS reminds taxpayers seeking a 2005 refund that their checks will be held if they have not filed tax returns for 2006 or 2007. In addition, the refund will be applied to any amounts still owed to the IRS and may be used to satisfy unpaid child support or past due federal debts such as student loans.

By failing to file a return, individuals stand to lose more than refunds of taxes withheld or paid during 2005. Many low-income workers may not have claimed the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC). Generally, unmarried individuals qualified for the EITC if in 2005 they earned less than $35,263 and had more than one qualifying child living with them, earned less than $31,030 with one qualifying child, or earned less than $11,750 and had no qualifying child. Limits are slightly higher for married individuals filing jointly.

Current and prior year tax forms and instructions are available on the Forms and Publications Web page of IRS.gov or by calling 1-800-TAX-FORM (1-800-829-3676). Information about the Earned Income Tax Credit and how to claim it is also available on IRS.gov. Taxpayers who need help also can call the toll-free IRS help line at 1-800-829-1040.

NEW SMART BOARD DONATED TO SHS – The SGHS Alumni Association recently donated a new SMART Board™ to Southern High School. "Each year one of our goals has been to provide financial support to our teachers that will enrich classroom instruction," said SGHS Alumni president Rob Sharps. "This year, we are pleased to provide $1,500 toward the purchase of another SMART Board to benefit future SHS students." From left are Alumni vice president Bill Grant, principal James Maddy, business teacher Lisa Bender, and Sharps. See story for details.

SGHS Alumni Assn. Donates SMART Board

The Southern Garrett High School (SGHS) Alumni Association recently donated a SMART Board™ to the high school to aid in integrating technology into teaching practices. Designed to help make lessons interactive and engaging, SMART Boards allow for touch control of computer applications.

The SMART Board is connected to an LCD projector and a computer. The board allows teachers to highlight documents, use presentation programs to enhance lectures, or display video clips on the 63" screen displayed at the front of the classroom.

"The SMART Board allows me to be a more effective teacher," stated SHS math teacher Ryan Wolf. "I am able to produce accurate diagrams and graphs that can be manipulated to further the understanding of the students." He said that the ability to retain class notes makes its easier to review with students who may have fallen behind. The notes can be saved digitally or printed out for student use.

"It is state-of-the-art technology that is so crucial to teaching in the 21st century," said SHS business teacher Lisa Bender. "I use it every day and am anxious to learn more ways to enhance my lessons. This is truly money well spent on behalf of the current student and future student at Southern."

GOOD REASON TO LISTEN TO MUSIC

Recent research points out what an important role hearing plays in both our physical and emotional lives. When people listen to their favorite music, their blood vessels dilate in much the same way as when they laugh or take blood medications. In fact, this study was prompted by the discovery that laughter literally caused blood to flow more smoothly. After listeners spent an hour listening to favorite recordings, researchers noticed a similar effect. Blood that flows more smoothly is less likely to form clots that cause heart attacks and strokes. All in all, it seems it pays big health dividends to make use of a hearing instrument in the event that you need one and could benefit from wearing one.

If you have a hearing impairment, you are missing more than just the understanding of words. Hearing keeps you in touch with the world, lets you respond to sound, and reassures you of changing surroundings. AUDIBEL offers comprehensive hearing services by a hearing specialist, including evaluations, custom fittings, a full range of hearing instruments, accessories, follow-up support, and repairs.

P.S. People who avail themselves of hearing instruments also lead longer and healthier lives due to increased social interaction.

Free Kidney Health Screenings To Be Available At ACM

The National Kidney Foundation of Maryland, in partnership with area health care volunteers, will hold a free screening for kidney disease on Tuesday, March 24, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the Continuing Education building at Allegany College of Maryland, located along Willowbrook Road, Cumberland.

No appointment is required, and walk-ins are welcome.

"Find out if you or someone you love is at risk for kidney disease," said Carolyn Smith-Kennedy, a director of services for the National Kidney Foundation of Maryland. "The screening is an opportunity to be tested for early markers for kidney disease and includes blood pressure, weight, and blood testing."

The entire screening takes less than 20 minutes, and follow-up results will be mailed to participants within a few weeks, she added.

Diabetes and hypertension are the leading causes of kidney disease.

"If left untreated, the condition may become kidney failure," Smith-Kennedy said. "When kidney disease advances to kidney failure, patients usually require dialysis or a kidney transplant to survive."

For questions, persons may call Smith-Kennedy at 410-533-3075.

SRWA To Meet, Plan To Assess Stream Corridor

The Savage River Watershed Association (SRWA) will hold its regular meeting at the Route 40 Elementary School next Thursday, March 19, at 7 p.m. The guest speaker will be Leah Miller from the Izaak Walton League of America, who will talk about the stream corridor assessment that is planned for the Savage River watershed this spring.

According to an SRWA spokesperson, the association has partnered with the Izaak Walton League of America (IWLA) to perform a stream corridor assessment (SCA) survey within the Savage River watershed. An SCA survey helps to identify environmental problems and develop comparative assessments of different stream reaches throughout a watershed.

Select stream miles will be walked throughout the watershed, and problem sites will be recorded. All problem sites are evaluated and scored by field crews on three separate areas: problem severity, correctability, and accessibility. The survey is intended to provide a rapid method of examining an entire drainage network so future monitoring and management efforts can be better targeted. SRWA plans to use this information in the development of a watershed management plan, which will prioritize restoration efforts on a watershed scale, making them more efficient and effective in the future, according to the spokesperson.

Leah Miller became director of the IWLA clean water programs, Save Our Streams and Protect Our Wetlands, in 2004. Founded in 1922, the Izaak Walton League is one of the nation's oldest and most respected conservation organizations.

"With a grassroots network of nearly 300 local chapters nationwide, the League takes a common-sense approach toward protecting our country's natural heritage and improving outdoor recreation opportunities for all Americans," the spokesperson said.

Miller supervises staff, manages the day-to-day operations of the program, raises funds for all levels of the program, and coordinates and teaches workshops. She has also co-authored the league's Handbook for Stream Enhancement and Stewardship, and coordinated two Webcast series, Wetland-Friendly Backyards and Alternative Practices for Highway Stormwater Management.

In addition, the public is invited to help select the final version of the Savage River watershed visioning statement. The statement will represent the goals, attitudes, and future aspirations of the community toward the Savage River watershed. The selection will be made from several drafts developed with public input at the January 31 "Visioning Session" which was hosted by SRWA. The selected visioning statement will help guide future SRWA efforts in the watershed, according to the spokesperson.

The SRWA is a group of local landowners and other citizens dedicated to preserving and enhancing the rural nature and natural resources of the Savage River watershed. Members assist interested landowners and public land managers with environmental stewardship efforts and educational outreach. Anyone who is concerned about the Savage River watershed is invited to join.

SRWA meetings are held at Route 40 Elementary School on the third Thursday of odd-numbered months, beginning at 7 p.m. The school is located at 17764 National Pike, a few miles west of Frostburg.

For more information, persons may contact SRWA via e-mail at SRWAcoordinator@gmail.com, or by telephone at 301-689-7156. The SRWA is a non-profit charitable organization. Donations may be sent to: Savage River Watershed Association, PO Box 355, Frostburg, MD 21532.

A building under construction goes through many phases. An architect delights in the planning and design process, a builder finds satisfaction in putting it all together, and when it's all built, an interior designer may add the finishing touches. An expert specializes in each part of the plan.

Each of us has a plan; we could use some expert help to carry it out. We can construct our life on faith as solid as the walls of our house of worship; we can design our plan within the guidelines set forth in God's Word. Most importantly, we can pray each day for our Creator's guidance, for truly we are each "under construction."

Primogeniture

Primogeniture is the law of inheritance whereby property passes to the firstborn male of the family. Although this is considered archaic in most modern societies, we still see remnants of this in various practices such as the naming of firstborn males after their fathers, men retaining their last names in marriage (while women often do not), and the doting and attention given to firstborns. What seems objectionable to most of us about primogeniture is simply the unfairness to later-born children and to females. And, we should not be too quick to presume that only primitive societies practice this archaic law of inheritance. Modern socieities may practice primogeniture in more subtle ways. A recent study done in Norway found that firstborns tend to have higher IQ's than later-born children, and they found that this was largely a result of the increased attention that parents give their firstborn children. Some of this increased attention may be unavoidable, given that there are gong to be competing demands on parents' time once there are several children in the family. But, parents should take special precautions so as to not privilege one child over one another, whereas based on birth order, gender, or any other characteristic. We are all God's children, and we should treat everyone like the brothers and sisters that we truly are.

Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!

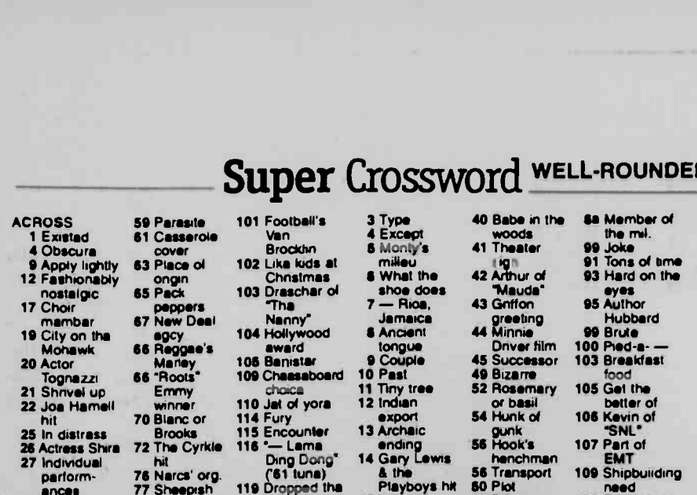
Omega-3 May Help Menopausal Depressive Symptoms

Naturally occurring omega-3 fatty acids are necessary for the absorption of vitamins and brain development. They also appear to have anti-inflammatory properties. Omega-3 fatty acids are found in numerous foods such as fish, fish oil, green vegetables, vegetable oils, flaxseed, and nuts. These acids have been studied in the treatment and prevention of heart disease, asthma, inflammatory bowel disease, arthritis, and osteoporosis.



A recent study evaluated the effect of taking omega-3 fatty acid supplements on the depressive symptoms associated with menopause. During the study, women with significant psychological distress symptoms due to menopause took either a placebo tablet or EPA (an omega-3 fatty acid) 1 gm daily for 8 weeks. At the end of the study, women that took EPA had significantly more improvement in their psychological distress than women who took the placebo tablet. The study excluded women with major depressive disorder since prescription antidepressants are the standard treatment for it.

Reader: Don't Allow House Pets to Breed

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: It never seems to amaze me. I'm talking about the people who do not get their critters fixed. I know some very educated people whose pets have litter after litter. What are they thinking? Where and when will it end?

It is never right or a good thing to allow your critters to have a litter. Never! Take a look at our overcrowded animal shelters. It just breaks my heart at the number of animals they have to put down.

These "educated" people tell me, "Oh, I find homes for all my babies." That's beside the point! If you don't have babies to give away for free, then people will have to adopt a critter from the shelter that is fixed and won't reproduce any more unwanted and unloved animals.

Get all your pets fixed! If you can't afford to get them fixed, find a program that will help you pay for it or take them to your local shelter. Please! — Dee in Palmyra, N.Y.

DEAR DEE: Thank you for making an important point so forcefully. Litters of puppies and kittens are very cute, but they add to an already huge population of dogs and cats, most of which end up in shelters, where they're often euthanized. Unless you're a professional, AKC-certified breeder, you have no business allowing your pets to procreate.

I have heard many excuses from pet owners as to why they don't spay or neuter. "Oh, it would be cruel." "Oh, my Maximilian would lose his confident personality if he were neutered." And of course, "My pet is well-behaved and indoors most of the time, so she'll never get pregnant."

Don't let yourself be swayed by these fantasies. Learn the facts about spaying and neutering.

Strange BUT TRUE
By Samantha Weaver

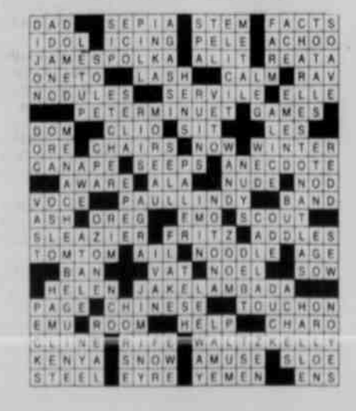
• It was Scott Adams, best known as the creator of the "Dilbert" comic strip, who made the following observation: "Give a man a fish, and you'll feed him for a day. Teach a man to fish, and he'll buy a funny hat. Talk to a hungry man about fish, and you're a consultant."

• Many people believe that 24-karat gold is pure, but that's not true — it has a small amount of copper blended with the gold. The reason is practical: Pure gold is so soft that if you were to find an absolutely pure sample, you would be able to mold it with your bare hands.

• You may be surprised to learn that the third president of the United States, Thomas Jefferson, was more than a revolutionary leader and politician — he was also an inventor. One of his creations was the dumbwaiter

• Do you suffer from misoneism? Quite a few people these days seem to. It's a hatred or fear of change or innovation.

• If you've got extra money on your hands — a lot of extra money! — the next time you're updating your wardrobe, you might take a look at Escada's couture line of jeans, which, with prices starting at $7,500, is the most expensive in the world.



• During the Revolutionary War, the British hired mercenary Hessian soldiers to fight for them against the colonists. The reward for putting life and limb at risk for a cause not theirs? A grand total of 25 cents per day.

Q. I have two flat irons that are at least a century old. I am very interested in selling them and wonder how much you think I can get for them. — Fabiola, Albuquerque, N.M.

A. Flat irons are fairly common, and they generally sell in the $15 to $35 range. There are, of course, exceptions. If the irons you have are extremely ornate or unusual in design, they might sell for more.

Chiklis has turned in his 'Shield' for good

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Michael Chiklis

Q: I cannot believe that "The Shield" hasn't come back. I thought this show should have been given far more acclaim. Please tell me Michael Chiklis and his crew will be back. –John Allen, Whittemore, Mich.

A: Well before the FX police drama's last round began, it was made widely known that it indeed would be the final stand for the show, and it won't be returning (at least not with new installments). And from where we sit, "The Shield" received plenty of acclaim throughout its seven-season run, encompassing a 2002 Emmy win for Chiklis.

Q: On the program "Las Vegas," how was the appearance of A.J. Cooper in the last episode explained after he died in a plane crash? –Charles Sanders, Loxahatchee, Fla.

A: We'll evidently never know, though we likely would have found out if the show had continued. At the point NBC decided to cancel the drama, three scheduled episodes were left to be produced for that season – they were delayed by the writers strike – but instead, the network ultimately decided to call it a day on the series, opting to save the expense.

Tom Selleck, who played Cooper, told us recently that he had hoped for at least a two-hour movie to tie up all the loose ends of the show. Now that doesn't appear to be in the cards, to use a little "Vegas-speak."

Q: I have seasons one and two of "The Fugitive" on DVD, and I have not seen any release dates for the other seasons. Are they coming soon? –Craig Taylor, Milwaukee

A: Actually, you don't have all of the second season yet, since the second volume of that year's episodes is the next collection to be issued by Paramount Home Entertainment. It'll be in stores March 31, and it's hard to predict how soon subsequent releases will come. Up to now, they've been between three and nine months apart, but you can count on the other two seasons of the 1960s David Janssen show making their way to disc. If this much has been marketed already, it's a lock that the series' classic final episode will be released, too.

Q: Is the creator of "Malcolm in the Middle," Linwood Boomer, the same man who played Adam Kendall on "Little House on the Prairie"? –Medea Dieckow, San Antonio

A: Yes, he is.

Transient Ischemic Attack Prevention

A transient ischemic attack (TIA) is characterized by a temporary interruption in blood flow to the brain, caused by a blood clot. The attack usually lasts only a few minutes, with symptoms typically resolving within 1 hour. If symptoms last longer than 24 hours, it is defined as a stroke. Approximately one in three individuals who experiences a TIA eventually experiences a stroke, often in the first year following the TIA. Signs and symptoms of a TIA include dizziness, slurred speech, sudden blindness, and sudden weakness or numbness on one side of the body. Although risk factors such as family history, age, race, and gender cannot be changed, healthier living can reduce the risk of a TIA.

Once a TIA has occurred, treatment is aimed at preventing a future stroke. This can be accomplished with therapies aimed at dissolving the clot. Anti-platelet medications or anticoagulants may be recommended. Aspirin or clopidogrel are recommended for prevention in individuals who have already experienced a stroke. Clopidogrel Is an appropriate alternative for people allergic to aspirin. The combination of aspirin and extended-release dipyridamole also may be prescribed for prevention in individuals who have previously experienced stroke.

SEEING AUTO EXHAUST

by Thomas P. Sheahen

Q. Sometimes in the morning cars on the road seem to be putting out a lot of smoky exhaust. I don't notice it much later on in the day. What causes that?

A. What you are seeing is actually condensation of water. It's really just a lot like "seeing your breath" on a cold day.

Gasoline burns in an auto engine and produces two main gases, H2O and CO2. (There are other gases in smaller amounts, like carbon monoxide, CO; but we'll focus on the major gases.) Those are mixed with nitrogen (N2) from the air and get very hot. As they exit through the long exhaust pipe, the temperature of the gases decreases and at the exit they come in contact with the surrounding air.

Cooling of N2 and CO2 doesn't change them in any way, but when water vapor cools below 100 C (= 212 F), it condenses into tiny droplets – the water molecules stick to each other. Those tiny droplets in turn are just the right size to scatter light – around one micron diameter. That size roughly matches the wavelength of visible light, and when the particle size and the wavelength are similar, strong scattering occurs. Meanwhile, all the gases that don't condense but remain as just molecules don't scatter light and hence are invisible.

The phenomenon is the same whether you're looking at auto exhaust, "seeing your breath," watching steam from a teakettle, driving in a fog, or looking at clouds in the sky. In all five cases, what you're observing is light being scattered by water droplets.

The scattered light looks generally gray to a person looking at it. But it's only steam, not real smoke. When smoke is produced, as by burning wood, there are small, micron-sized particles of soot (unburned carbon) given off. Their size (again about a micron) scatters light just like steam and gives the same gray color.

If you continue to watch a car driving down the road for several minutes in the morning, you'll see the gray color gradually vanish. That's because the car's exhaust pipe is heating up, and soon the gases exiting it are all well above the boiling temperature of H2O. Nothing condenses; the gases just disperse in the atmosphere. "Seeing your breath" doesn't go away over time, because your lungs and throat remain at the same cool temperature.

When a car first starts up in the morning, you can observe this condensation even in the summertime, but it vanishes quicker than in cold weather. In a dry climate with low humidity, it may hardly be noticeable at all. In the afternoon, when people are driving home from work, cars are usually closer to being "warmed up" when they're started, so the condensation of H2O goes away sooner. Looking at a series of cars going by, you're less likely to see it at that time of day

Meanwhile, all the real pollutants are invisible gases (CO, NO2, SO2). Ideally, those are taken out by the exhaust system. You don't need to worry about the gray colored steam you see exiting from the exhaust of a properly tuned car

Dr. Sheahen is a physicist who was educated at MIT. He lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may e-mail them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

RELIANCE UPON THE PRINTING PRESS TO FINANCE ITS OWN DEBT IS A PRIMARY TRAIT OF A THIRD WORLD NATION!

February 20, 2009

Will the current "Stimulus Package" work? Of course not! First of all it is not a stimulus package in any real sense of the term. It is a Party enhancement program designed to promote another forty years (minimum) of one party rule for itself, and thereby, once and for all, superimpose Socialism (or worse) on a Constitution that manifestly proscribes it in every sense of its essence and original intent! Since FDR's first term, we have been living in an evermore-blatant post-constitutional America; where the U.S. Constitution poses no serious threat to our present form of government!

A nation with a totally failed economic policy, wrecked banking systems, fraud-ridden bond markets, corrupted debt rating agencies propping up insolvent banks, insolvent households (and an insolvent nation, which we most certainly are), corporations in extremis, and whole markets in liquidation with economies in near collapse, tend not to be good owners and custodians of the world's only (to this point) reserve currency!

As a result of the foregoing, the United States' credit supply has already been severed and cut almost completely off, which, sad to say, is but a harbinger of much worse to come.

For verification of these horrible facts, Google the recent World Economic Forum held in Davos, Switzerland, last week, which President Obama failed to attend. He sent Timothy Geithner (the Tax Cheat), instead. The greenhorn secretary of the treasury quickly and expectedly developed a severe case of foot-in-mouth disease by stupidly angering China, our biggest creditor, accusing them of manipulating their currency to their own advantage. Talk about the pot calling the kettle...well you know how it goes. In any event, with his other inane statements, he lost global respect instantly...for what it may mean in the economic storms about to consume us. Oh yes, the British did not even send a representative to Davos. In effect, we're both dancing in the dark.

With such dolts, excluding Obama, perhaps (with his ridiculously distorted view of FDR's New Deal that turned what should have been a two-year recession into a double-dip, real, decade long Depression) at the helm, the dollar is essentially dead anyhow...and to its credit, the Davos Forum sounded its death-knell loudly. (Read the speech Vladimir Putin gave from his white horse to steal the show. He gave Geithner a lesson in Free Markets.)

The sad fact is: Nothing is going to even begin to change in the disastrous mess that confronts us; brought on by Democrats in Congress messing with free market forces, especially the housing market, with their Communist inspired notion that everyone has a Constitutional Right to own a home whether he/she can afford one or not! This is the nut of the problem that started it all. It is the genesis of the sub prime slime that began destroying the very foundations of our own banking and financial systems that outright criminals on Wall Street knowingly began packaging through Fanny Mae and pumping into the global financial systems to save their own sorry butts, bonuses and the bottom lines of their criminal enterprises...regardless of the consequences to le grand monde (the world at large). Sub prime mortgages ARE NOT ASSETS! They never were! THEY ARE IRRECOVERABLE LIABILITIES, pure and simple, and have to be written off as such before anything can begin to show even modest signs of recovery!

The Democrats–who just put our beloved country into more unconscionable debt then the world has ever known with nothing but paper backing the dollar and but three Republican votes in both Houses of Congress–are using a bill that hardly anyone had even read for their own nefarious purposes. They know this better than most! But for their Party's sake, they are willing to put the entire nation at risk by trying to spend and inflate their way out of a catastrophe they themselves created using two phony private enterprise entities: Democrat Congresses created: Fanny Mae & Freddie Mac (their own private Piggy Banks, in fact)...and our tax dollars to pay the piper at the entire country's egregious expense.

Remember this simple fact as you ponder all of this: ONLY GOVERNMENTS CAN CREATE INFLATION , the meanest tax of all, and they do it by design!

FRC Team 1629 To Compete In World Competition

The Garrett County High School FIRST Robotics Competition (FRC) team, Team 1629, finished its regular season last weekend at the Pittsburgh FRC Regional held in the Petersen Center on the campus of the University of Pittsburgh. Team 1629 consists of 20 students from Northern and Southern high schools.

Of the 37 teams competing, Team 1629 was ranked fifth at the conclusion of the seed matches and led the fifth seeded alliance to the semi-finals. In addition to its success on the playing field, the team received the Xerox Creativity Award, as well as the Engineering Inspiration (EI) Award.

The EI award is the second most prestigious award presented to a team at a FIRST Robotics Competition and earned the team an invitation to compete at this year's World Championship in Atlanta, from April 15 to 18. Two weeks prior to the Pittsburgh Regional, the team competed at the Washington, D.C., FRC Regional, and was the third seeded team of the 70 teams competing and advanced to the quarter-finals at that event. Superintendent Dr. Wendell Teets, executive director of instruction Sue Waggoner, and Northern High School principal Gary Reichenbecher were all in attendance at the Regional event.

The 2009 season is the team's fifth year. Each year, the team designs and builds a robot to compete in at least two regional events in which the team has six weeks to design, build, and test its robot to play a game with five other robots in a three vs. three situation on a 27 ft. x 54 ft. playing field. This year's robot is named Meshach 5.0.

This year's game is called "Lunacy," in reference to the 40th anniversary of Apollo 8's moon mission. The game was released at the 2009 kick-off on Jan. 8 to approximately 1,500 teams worldwide. All teams must complete and ship their robots in a six-week time period, giving all teams the same amount of time to build their robots.

FIRST is a non-profit organization, which stands For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology, and is in its 18th year of existence. "FIRST's

GC To Host Md. Teacher Of The Year Retreat

Western Maryland and Garrett County will serve as host to the annual Maryland Teachers of the Year Retreat from March 27 to 29. Along with helping to create the itinerary, Garrett County's Teacher of the Year, Jenny Neville, will be leading the retreat.

"We are extremely excited to host this prestigious group in Garrett County this year. After visiting Smith Island in southern Maryland, several of the teachers expressed an interest in visiting this region of Maryland. I was happy to help arrange this event," said Neville. "It's a well-deserved reward for all of the teachers who work so hard, and I'm looking forward to presenting our county to the teachers from across the state."

The retreat will kick off on Friday, March 27, at Frostburg State University. This event has been arranged with assistance from Michaela Linn, Allegany Teacher of the Year. Other O'Malley Allocates $1.25M In Stimulus Funds To Garrett Co.

Gov. Martin O'Malley announced yesterday the second phase of Maryland transportation and highway projects to be funded under President Barack Obama's American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA). Garrett County was allocated $1,250,100 million for local projects.

"With this second phase of projects we have completed the allocation of the recovery funds Maryland will receive for transportation infrastructure," O'Malley said. "Our focus remains on the rehabilitation of our existing roads, bridges, and transit systems. This is all about jobs, and this type of investment allows us to complete more projects, employing more people in more counties and municipalities throughout the entire state."

Statewide, road and bridge projects will receive $137 million in this round of ARRA funding. Local-level transit and road priorities received additional funding in Phase II, with a total of $43 million now available to support transit systems.

O'Malley will direct $62 million of the ARRA highway funding to the counties for local governments to address their own transportations priorities. Of that funding, Garrett County will receive $1,204,000.

Engineer Dwight Emory, Garrett County Roads Department, told the county commissioners yesterday that he plans to attend a workshop to find out which local projects would qualify for the federal money.

Under transit system and transit station Phase II allocations, Garrett County received $141,100 for small-bus replacements and $109,000 for facility upgrades.

In Phase I ARRA funding, the governor allocated $7.3 million for U.S./state roadway resurfacing projects in Garrett County. The money will be used to resurface portions of Rt. 129, Rt. 135, and various other areas.

All totaled, the ARRA will provide Maryland with $610 million for projects, an investment that may support up to 17,000 jobs.

More information about Maryland transportation recovery projects can be found online at marylandtransportation.com.

AARP Publishes Online Essay By Local Dogsledder

Linda Lee Herdering, a local resident and dogsledder, wrote an essay recently and submitted it to the AARP Bulletin Today, an online site. Herdering's writing, along with a just a few others, was selected from a pool of more than 2,000 entries.

Titled "What I Really Know About Driving: Accelerate, Mush, Stop, Whoa!" Herdering's essay makes a link between dogsledding and driving cars, culminating in the harrowing story of a vehicle accident she experienced.

A link is located at the bottom of the story that leads to a video story about Herdering and her husband Mike, who own and operate Husky Power Dogsledding in Accident.

The link to the essay is as follows: bulletin.aarp.org/opinions/know/articles/what_i_really_know_about_drivingaccelerate_mush-_stop_whoa_.html.

Beitzel Advocates Against Governor's 'Anti-Firearms" Bill

Del. Wendell R. Beitzel spoke on the Maryland General Assembly's House floor yesterday in opposition to a set of bills that would, among other things, require an individual to surrender firearms to law enforcement officials and to refrain from possessing any firearm in the issuance of a temporary protective order.

"Though the bill is well intentioned, the practical effects could lead to a major step toward the deterioration of every Marylander's second amendment rights," Beitzel said.

The bill was introduced at the request of the O'Malley administration. It would further require that law enforcement officers be responsible for the safe transport and storage of the firearm.

"This legislation also has an incredible impact on local police departments, who will be charged with making sure that the weapons are protected while in their custody," Beitzel said.

In his presentation against the measure, Beitzel cited recent efforts in Australia to restrict gun ownership. The delegate referred to a report which attributed the increases in reported violence to the Australian measure's enactment.

Conversely, the House also rejected a measure that would allow victims of domestic violence to apply for a handgun, "as a reasonable precaution against apprehended danger." This measure, which was supported by the National Rifle Association, was also supported by the entire District 1 House Delegation.

GC Commissioners Considering Self-Funded Insurance Program

The Garrett County commissioners had a wide range of topics to consider during their weekly public meeting on Tuesday. The main issue was the county's health insurance plan. Also discussed was an electronics recycling grant, sweeper trucks for the Garrett County Roads Department, and a budget allocation for the local arts council.

Consultant Mike Marchini, CBZ Benefits & Insurance Services of Cumberland, reviewed the county's current comprehensive health insurance plan and suggested several changes. Representatives from Garrett County government, Garrett College, and the Board of Education attended the presentation.

Currently, those three entities have a joint full-coverage policy with BlueCross. But the Garrett County group is now considering establishing a self-funded health care plan. Marchini presented the "pros and cons" of that proposal.

"I would probably have the recommendation of leaning toward self-funding, but the whole process here is about the risks and potential gains," Marchini said. "We really have to decide on its own whether or not that makes sense."

He indicated that company size does not always matter when it comes to being self-insured. Marchini said he has clients with 200 employees who are self- finded and clients with 2,000 employees who are covered with traditional insurance companies.

"There's no right or wrong answer with the ability to handle the risks associated with self-funding," the consultant said.

Marchini said BlueCross is projecting a 14.9 percent cost increase with the county group's current health insurance plan in the next fiscal year, which would be a $1.8 million increase in premiums. He noted that claim history is one of the driving forces behind rate increases.

Other reasons for premium increases, in general, include rising medical and prescription costs, an aging population, and an increase in uninsured, Medicare, and Medicaid patients.

Despite the high cost, one of the benefits of having a traditional policy is that the insurance company assumes all the risks in exchange for the premiums.

Marchini said that means no financial or judiciary risks for employers, plus there are no additional premiums above the maximum liability.

"Technically, the contract is between the employee/claunant and the msurance company, not you as the employer," Marchini told the commissioners and group representatives.

With self-funding, how-

Oakland Business Owner Voices Support For '09 Health Care Act

The Maryland General Assembly held hearings this week in Annapolis for the proposed Health Care Affordability Act of 2009. The Senate Finance and Budget and Taxation Committees heard testimony yesterday, while the House Health and Government Operations Committee held its hearing this afternoon.

Oakland business owner Jan Naylor traveled to Annapolis to lend her support for the proposed legislation. She said more than 500 businesses and groups support the act, including the Garrett County Health Council.

"The Health Care Affordability Act of 2009 is a comprehensive plan that not only lowers premium costs, but includes strategies for lowering overall health care costs through evidence-based practices, and includes preventive care to improve an individual's overall health," Naylor told the committees.

Also known as the Maryland Health Care For All Plan, the act's primary supporter is the Maryland Citizens' Health Initiative Coalition. Sen. Verna C. Jones, Dist. 44, introduced the legislation (SB 813) in the Senate. Del. James. Hubbard, Dist. 23A, and 18 other delegates sponsored the act (HB 951) in the House.

Previous legislation, the Governor's Working Families and Small Business Health Care Act of 2007, will eventually provide health care coverage to more than 100,000 uninsured Marylanders. But, according to the coalition, more than 762,000 residents still have no health insurance.

According to the coalition, the 2009 act expands upon the 2007 one and would do the following:

•Make health care more affordable for all individuals and businesses in Maryland.

"On July 20, 2007, the world followed along as the Shared Summits mountaineering team, led by Chris, united with teams from eight other countries on the most successful summit day in K2 history," said Michael Logsdon, director of Garrett College's Adventuresports Institute.

But before they reached the peak, two climbers were dead, a Czech climber lay clinging to consciousness, and another climber had fallen 150 feet.

Local Law Student Wins Award From Virginia State Bar

Miriam Sincell, Oakland, a third-year student at the University of Richmond School of Law, will receive the Virginia State Bar's 2009 Oliver White Hill Student Pro Bono Award for "extraordinary pro bono and other public service work" during her law school career.

VSB's Committee on Access to Legal Services will present the honor April 20 at the state bar's Pro Bono and Access to Justice Conference in Richmond.

Tara Louise Casey, director of the university's Harry L. Carrico Center for Pro Bono Service, described Sincell as "an ambassador of the legal profession and the law school to the Richmond community."

An example of Sincell's impact, Casey said, is her work with the Street Law Project, for which she recruited volunteers to teach disadvantaged youths about basic legal concepts and various misconceptions about the law.

Sincell was one of the first volunteers with the Richmond Child Health Advocacy Program, which addresses legal needs of low-income children who are patients at Virginia Commonwealth University Medical Center.

She also has worked with the Richmond Housing Law Project, the Christian Law Fellowship, and the community service committee of the Public Interest Law Association.

A 2002 graduate of Southern High School and a 2006 graduate of Bucknell University, Sincell plans to pursue a career in public interest law. She will graduate in May.

She is a daughter of Ben and Beverly Sincell, Spring Glade Road.

GCSO Seeking Info On Cyclist Struck By Car

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office is seeking information on an incident that occurred at the entrance to McDonald's in Oakland involving a vehicle and a 16-year-old on a bike.

The female victim was struck by the vehicle at approximately 3:30 p.m. on Saturday. Anyone who may have been involved in or witnessed the incident is asked to contact the GCSO at 301-334-1911.

Driver Found In Possession Of CDS And Paraphernalia

A Crellin area woman was arrested as the result of a traffic stop conducted Saturday by Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Investigation revealed that Bonnie Lynn Meadows, 49, was driving on a suspended West Virginia license. A search led to the discovery that Meadows was in possession of controlled dangerous substances and related paraphernalia.

She was charged with CDS possession of marijuana, CDS possession not marijuana, and possession of paraphernalia. Meadows was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center to await a bond hearing.

Single-Vehicle Accident Sends One To GCMH

A single-vehicle accident on Garrett Highway near Mayhew Inn Road Friday sent one man to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Investigation by Garrett County sheriff's deputies revealed that James Edward Beeman, 31, Oakland, had been operating a 2004 Hyundai SUV south on Garrett Highway. For an undetermined reason, Beeman's vehicle traveled from the southbound lane, across the northbound lane, and into the northbound ditch. The vehicle struck a concrete culvert, causing it to roll over.

Beeman was taken to Garrett Memorial by Northern Rescue Squad for treatment of apparent minor injuries.

Deep Creek Fire Company also assisted at the scene. No charges have been filed by the GCSO.

Food, Foolishness, And Fun Event Slated March 31

Preparations are being made for United Way's Food, Foolishness, and Fun. Pasta, sauces, breads, salads, and desserts will be prepared by several Garrett County restaurants for the Tuesday, March 31, event planned at St. Peter The Apostle Church parish hall in Oakland. The community-wide fundraiser will benefit Garrett County United Way and its affiliate agencies.

"The food will be phenomenal," reported Gloria MacGowan, a United Way volunteer who has been collecting donated food, drinks, and restaurant supplies from community restaurants and grocers. "The pasta is being prepared by Brenda McDonnell and her staff, and the sauces will come from various restaurants. We are also looking forward to having a selection of many of the specialty desserts from area restaurants."

Elaine McDonald, realtor and well-known former restaurateur, will be a hostess for the event, while Wendy Friend of the Four Seasons at the Will O' the Wisp will be managing the dining room. Many of the servers will be wearing costumes loaned by Our Town Theatre.

The costumed volunteers will be competing for tips for their favorite agency. "The costumes are really interesting," said United Way volunteer Bob Stephens. "They range from clowns to mountain men and everything in between. There may even be an appearance by Elvis."

United Way agencies are selling tickets, which will also be available at the door, as well as at Brenda's Pizzeria, Gregg's Pharmacy, and Four Seasons Restaurant at Will O' the Wisp, and the Oakland office of First United Bank & Trust. Ticket prices are $15 for adults and $7 for children, and pre-schoolers are admitted for free. All proceeds will go to Garrett County United Way charities.

UNITED WAY PREPS FOR FOOD, FOOLISHNESS, AND FUN – Brenda McDonnell and Nick Pratt prepare a signature marinara sauce for United Way's Food, Foolishness, and Fun on March 31 at St. Peter's parish hall. The annual event will feature pasta, sauces, breads, salads, and desserts prepared by several area restaurants. Alcohol Policies To Be Phased In By MPS Throughout 2009

The Maryland Park Service (MPS) will be phasing in new restrictions regarding the consumption of alcohol at Maryland state parks throughout 2009.

The park service is informing the public about new policies, which will eventually prohibit the use of alcohol without a permit in state parks except in full service cabins, through multi-lingual signs, multi-lingual brochures, notification on the MPS web site, on-site education by park staff and communication through the reservation service.

The new policies are designed to increase safety in Maryland parks and bring the state's alcohol policy in line with that of parks in neighboring states.

"We want to ensure a quality experience for all state park visitors and protect the family atmosphere of Maryland state parks," said Nita Settina, superintendent, MPS. "This new policy will increase the safety of visitors, state park staff and Maryland Natural Resources Police (NRP) officers."

The initial goal of enforcing the new regulations is to maximize voluntary compliance. NRP officers will monitor all park properties – with a special focus on day-use areas, campgrounds, and other areas, where alcoholic beverages have previously been permitted – to detect and address violations of the new policy and regulations.

Officers will advise visitors in possession of alcohol outside of permitted areas to remove all alcoholic beverages from the park or to secure them in a locked vehicle. Visitors will be allowed to transport alcoholic beverages through a park to areas where alcohol is permitted, such as a boat launch or designated shelter.

Park rangers and other MPS staff will, in the absence of extenuating circumstances like obvious intoxication, disorderly conduct, or other illegal or unsafe activity, make those in violation of the policy aware of the new restrictions and request that they voluntarily comply with the new rules.

The following policy and additional restrictions will be phased in over the course of 2009:

Effective March 31, 2009

•The consumption or possession of an open container of an alcoholic beverage of any kind is prohibited in all Maryland state park day-use areas, beach areas and other areas with picnic tables not associated with a designated shelter or campground area, unless an alcohol permit has been issued.

•Alcoholic beverages are prohibited in youth group camping areas.

•Alcoholic beverages will continue to be permitted in campgrounds, shelters and full-service cabins. Those persons with a valid reservation for a campsite, cabin or shelter are considered to have an alcohol permit.

•Alcohol permits may be issued upon request by the park manager for special events operating under a use agreement.

•A fee of $35.00 will be charged for each alcohol permit.

•The alcohol permit must be displayed on-site.

•An alcohol permit may be revoked for cause by the park manager or designee, or a Natural Resources Police officer.

Effective Nov. 1, 2009

•The consumption or possession of an open container of any alcoholic beverage is prohibited in all Maryland State Park areas, with the exception of full-service cabins, unless an alcohol permit has been issued.

•Alcoholic beverages are prohibited in campgrounds and at non-designated shelters.

•Alcohol permits will only be issued through a reservation for a designated shelter or other facility approved by the superintendent.

•A fee of $35.00 will be charged for each alcohol permit.

•The alcohol permit must be displayed on-site.

•Alcohol permits may be issued upon request by the park manager for special events operating under a Use Agreement.

•An alcohol permit may be revoked for cause by the park manager or designee, or a Natural Resources Police officer.

The phased approach to enacting the new alcohol policy is designed to avoid confusion to visitor expectations, since campsite and shelter reservations have already been made for the 2009 season.

In order to avoid costly visitor notification procedures, visitor complaints, and requests for refunds, the new policy will not be fully implemented until the close of the 2009 state park camping season on Nov. 1, 2009.

Greed and Panic...

Various alternative, clever meanings for the acronym AIG (American International Group) are flowing this week after it was learned a few days ago that some $165,000,000 – bailout money from us taxpayers – was doled out as bonuses to about 150 AIG execs. But the one this writer likes the most is that coined by Maryland U.S. Senator Barbara Mikulski: "Ain't I Greedy."

Mikulski rather vehemently expressed her opinions about the situation on the Senate floor, noting that she is "mad as hell." Aren't we all.

Among the typical excuses for such outrageous use of tax money is that, if bonuses are not paid to their "brightest and best" executives, they will leave the company, to which Sen. Mikulski said, "The very people who helped bring the financial services and structure of the world economy to the brink of disaster now want to give themselves bonuses! Mr. President, that's like saying to the crew on the Titanic, after you hit the iceberg, we're going to give you a bonus for navigation.... If we want bankruptcy modification, let's throw those bums out. Let's make them wear a scarlet 'B.' We need to pay bonuses to get people to stay? Why would we want them to stay?" Right on, Barbara.

The senator then noted that, with the recent $170 billion bailout of AIG, technically, the government – or we – own 80 percent of the corporation.

"They got us into this mess. They show no remorse. And I don't see a lot of competency in getting us out of it. We need to use the power of our ownership. We own 80 percent of AIG. You know what I think an 80 percent owner ought to do? Say goodbye to the people who either don't know how to get us out of this mess or who are unwilling to help us get out of this mess unless they get a lavish bonus." Get 'em, Bobbie.

One of the initiatives supported by Mikulski would tax the bonuses received by the AIG executives at a rate of 90%. That's not good enough, though, as 10% of $1 million is still $100,000, or three or four times what the average American makes in an entire year. Bonuses are supposed to be awarded for exceeding, certainly not falling way short of, a company's goals.

Who's to blame for all of this? Probably a number of people, including both elected and appointed persons in government. But what makes addressing it so difficult is contained in the acronym of Senator Mikulski – greed. It is a basic, inescapable characteristic of the inborn sinful nature of human beings, which simply cannot be eliminated by legislation.

Another part of the problem is the general sense of panic throughout the nation about our economy, because panic often leads directly to hasty decision-making, without consideration of all of the possible ramifications.

Letters to the Editor

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

What has happened to the laws concerning throwing things out along roadways? It seems there is more trash than ever being tossed out along roads as one travels, especially along North Glade Road. The ditches and roadsides are covered with cans, boxes, bags, and what have you. It's very disgraceful to see all the trash.

I know there are other roads throughout the county in the same condition. Doesn't anyone care about keeping our land and state of Maryland beautiful? The people who toss this stuff out surely wouldn't want it in their yard or surroundings.

Let's put our trash where it belongs, keep our grounds clean, and be thankful for our county and state.

Sincerely,
Dorothy Beckman

To the Editor:

The General Assembly recently debated the effectiveness of the death penalty.

Hello? This state has not been immune from wrongfully convicting defendants. Do Kirk Bloodsworth, Michael Austin, Henry "Hank" Myron Roberts, Bernard Webster, Walter "Mandela" Lomax, Eric Lynn, James Owens, etc., ring readers' bells? Each was wrongfully convicted of crimes in geographically disparate sections of Maryland, including the best (Montgomery County) and very worst (Baltimore City, Baltimore, and Dorchester counties, etc.) court systems. Each was later determined to be innocent through DNA or other evidence, police admission of error upon later discovery of the true perpetrator, and subsequently vindicated.

However, for Roberts it was too late – he had died in the Maryland House of Correction before his innocence was determined. And it took 27 years to uncover the perjury of "lead detective" James Russell in the conviction of Michael Austin; if Austin had a death sentence, he would have been executed by the time his innocence was determined. He is alive today only because he had a life sentence and lived to pursue justice in his case.

My own case also shows implementation of the death penalty would assure the death of a wrongfully convicted prisoner. The "lead detective" in my case was the same James Russell involved in the wrongful conviction of Michael Austin!

As documented in my transcript, at my original trial the prosecutors (two of whom are now sitting judges) falsely claimed on the record there was only a two-page missing person's report, and a four-page police report about my arrest, or six pages of police reports. Now, a third of a century later, it's finally been discovered that the prosecutors and police lied to the judge; over 200 pages of exculpatory Brady police reports were withheld from the defense, and only belatedly released in October 2006!

My own case has been in the news of late precisely because the handwriting is on the wall, and a wrongful murder conviction is unraveling from police perjury and fabricated evidence, the same way Michael Austin's case was revealed.

Administration of the death penalty assures the execution of innocent people wrongfully convicted by the criminal justice system every day. In death-row cases alone, more than 220 death-penalty cases have been reversed nationally. Thus, the fact is that the death penalty just sparks more killings of innocent defendants.

To the Editor:

Garrett Mentors Inc. is a nonprofit organization that helps children in kindergarten through the fifth grade, pairing them with a kind, caring adult who meets weekly with them. A mentor is a friend, a good listener, and someone who provides school support. Mentors afford stability in the child's life, as these children often come from homes with challenging family situations.

Garrett Mentors was formed this past summer by all of the former board members of Big Brothers Big Sisters of Garrett County and its executive director, Tricia Cheesman.

We have been asked by our friends in the community about our annual fundraiser at Par-Matt bowling lanes. While we thank Par-Matt and all the bowlers and sponsors who participated in "Bowl for Kids' Sake" in the past, we felt that the Garrett Mentors should try different fundraising options. We have already held a very successful St. Valentine's pancake breakfast and are planning the first Barn Dance and BBQ for September 19.

Mentors "inspire by example," as they instill values and the importance of good grades, share their knowledge and experiences, build confidence and self-esteem, and help the child discover his/her strengths, set goals, and achieve dreams. Currently, there are 51 Garrett County children receiving the benefits of our mentoring program in seven schools. We hope to expand our reach to the three elementary schools not yet receiving services from Garrett Mentors, and to the many children waiting to be paired with a caring mentor.

If you would like to help with our planned activities for our kids, become a mentor or a board member, donate funds, or help us help our children in any other way, please contact Ms. Cheesman at 301-334-1783.

Respectfully,
Stephan Moylan
Board Member

$8,000 Homebuyer Tax Credit

Part of the federal economic stimulus package will benefit homebuyers with tax credits up to $8,000.

Do you qualify for the tax credit?

•Eligible Property: Must be a principal residence. Includes any single family residence, including condos and townhouses.

•Income Limits: Single tax return income not to exceed $75,000; joint tax return income not to exceed $150,000.

•Partial credit available for single tax return income not to exceed $95,000; joint tax return income not to exceed $170,000.

•First-Time Homebuyer Only: A person is considered a first-time homebuyer if he/she has not owned a principal residence in the past three years.

•Effective Date: Completed purchases from January 1, 2009, to December 1, 2009.

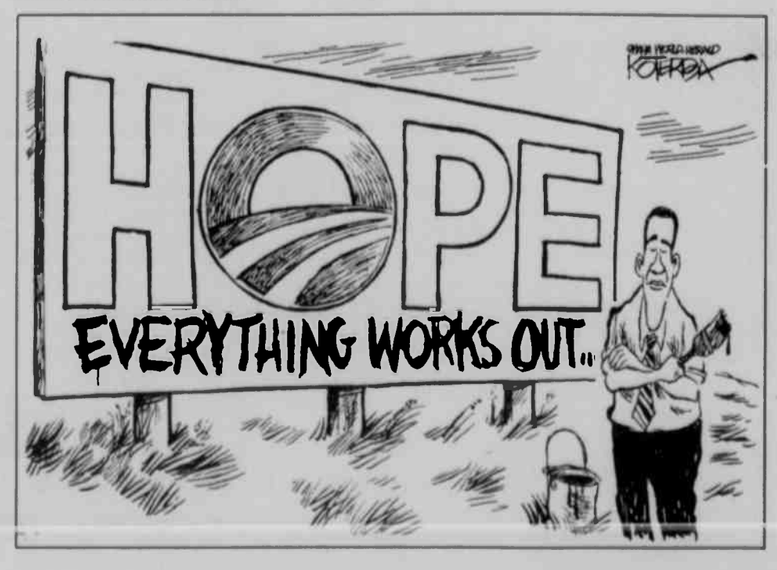
•Recapture: If you live in this home for three years or more, no repayment is applied. If you sell before three years, the entire amount of the credit is to be repaid.

Some Practical Questions

Q. How do I receive the full $8,000?

A. Any home that is purchased for $80,000 or more qualifies for the full $8,000 amount. If the house costs less than $80,000, the credit will be 10% of the purchase price.

Q. How do I apply for the credit?



A. All eligible purchasers simply claim the credit on their IRS Form 1040 tax return.

Q. I haven't even filed my 2008 tax return yet. If I buy in 2009, do I have to wait until next year to get the benefit of the credit?

A. There are three filing options to consider here: 1. If the purchase occurs between January 1, 2009, and April 15, 2009, the $8,000 credit can be claimed on 2008 tax returns. 2. Purchasers can extend their 2008 income tax-filing until as late as October 15, 2009. The IRS grants automatic extensions, but the taxpayer must file for the extension. This can be done via the web at: www.irs.gov. 3. If purchasers have filed their 2008 return before they purchase the home, they may file an amended 2008 tax return on Form 1040X.

Readers are advised to contact their local realtor for assistance with this program. Additional information will be published throughout the next few weeks regarding the First-time Homebuyer Tax Credit.

How to Improve Your Financial Literacy

CONCLUSIONS
(Final in a series)
by William Welch

Over seven articles we looked at the bare bones of financial literacy, which is knowing how to make the best use of your money. Core elements of financial literacy include:

1. Financial literacy is a tool. Results depend on the user more than on the tool. Without the discipline to use the knowledge, financial literacy can't help much.

2. Making the best use of your money takes planning. A financial plan is a "budget." Basic budgets are created subtracting expenses from income. Budgets are short-term plans for long-term financial success.

3. Executing a budget takes discipline. The first rule of life is that things change. The ability to adjust plans as situations change is an important skill in executing a budget. When expenses go up in one area, maybe they need to come down in other areas – one example of making a change as situations change.

4. Understanding credit is important to making the best use of your money. Essential long-use items like cars and homes are efficiently purchased using credit. Repeating regular purchases like electric, water, clothes, movies, are most efficiently purchased without using credit.

5. Using credit adds to the cost of a purchase. Credit has risks to both lender and to borrower. Credit risk is measured by a FICO score. Low-risk borrowers have higher scores and pay lower interest rates. Keeping good credit lowers the cost of credit.

6. Saving is the capstone of financial literacy. Individuals and families successfully committed to saving have more control of their lives than folks without savings. If you save money, then you are doing something right.

Garrett County Community Action Committee can direct individuals and families to sources for advice on financial literacy. Professional advice is available from banks and from accountancies. Always be sure who your advisor represents. Financial professionals get paid, and you want to be sure your advisor works for you and not a third party.

This is the last in this series. Remember that luck is the intersection of preparation with opportunity. Good luck.

Editor's note: William Welch, a manager for Simon Pearce Inc., serves on the board of directors of GC Community Action Committee Inc. and has written this series from expert sources as part of GCCAC's community financial literacy initiative. Individual readers are advised to use these articles as a starting place to find professional advice on financial literacy.

Persons who have questions or suggested topics concerning financial literacy may submit them to Mr. Welch via the e-mail address of this newspaper: newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

Quilt Raffle Held To Benefit New G'ville Firehouse

Jane Benson, owner of Four Seasons Stitchery, recently donated $1,000 to the Grantsville Firehouse Fund. She held a raffle on a quilt pieced by Connie Brantner, a former employee, and quilted by Ruth Overhold. Tickets were sold at her business and also at the Grantsville Senior Center and Starner Hill Apartments. The winner was Susan Towles of Colorado.

Four Seasons Stitchery is located at 116 Main Street in Grantsville in the Casselman Ventures building (the former Grantsville Elementary School). It has been in business for the past 25 years, carrying a variety of apparel fabrics. It has become the largest quilting and needlework shop in the area.

The firehouse is now completed, and the volunteers are working to complete eight apartments on the second floor. The next phase will be to start construction on a new social hall.

The business or individual donating the most to the firehouse fund will have naming rights to the social hall. Currently, three groups are tied for the largest donation at $15,000 each: Grantsville Lions Club, Goodwill Retirement Village, and M & T Bank.

Other businesses wishing to help with the firehouse fund or make a donation may contact the Firehouse Committee at P.O. Box 189, Grantsville, 21536.

A wall of tiles will be placed at the entrance of the new firehouse social hall. Each tile will cost $100, and can contain memorials, honoraria, or other names.

Donations should indicate "new firehouse fund" in the memo section of the check.

GCHD Receives Grant For Care To Wait Program

The Garrett County Health Department has been awarded a five-year, $400,000 grant for a Dare to be You "Care to Wait" Program. The Health Department's grant is part of a larger research grant awarded to Colorado State University Extension's Dare to be You Program and sponsored by the Office of Adolescent Pregnancy Prevention, Department of Health and Human Services.

"This grant award is the result of our prevention staff's history of implementing the Dare to be You Program with success in fidelity in Garrett County for the past seven years," reported health officer Rodney Glotfelty. "The staff has formed a close working relationship with the developers of the Dare to be You Program at Colorado State University that led to our partnership on this research grant."

Each grant year, the Dare to be You "Care to Wait" Program in Garrett County will be offered to two groups of 12- to 14-year-olds, as well as to two groups of parents and youth (family-based group) ages 12 to 14 years.

A family-based group is already under way in Kitzmiller, and another will begin tonight, March 19, and continue each Thursday through June 4, from 5:30 to 8 p.m. at Accident Elementary School. Slots are still open for this session if registration is completed by March 26.

Youth-only workshops are currently under way at Southern Middle School and in Friendsville. A meal is provided at all sessions, and an incentive is awarded at the completion of the program.

The program goals are:

•to increase family relations, monitoring, and communication;

•to increase the involvement of parents in the lives of their middle school youth;

•to increase adolescents' understanding of positive health and emotional benefits of abstaining from sexual activity;

•to give them skills to make and carry out healthy choices and abstinence decision; and

•to determine whether the family-based program has higher impact than the youth-only intervention.

For more information or to register for either program, persons should call the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7730 or 301-895-3111.

MLP Man Indicted With Three Counts Of CDS Violation

The first of two indictments handed down by the March 2009 term of the grand jury has been served, state's attorney Lisa Thayer Welch announced last Thursday afternoon. Cory Thomas Broadwater, 18, Mtn. Lake Park, was arrested after he appeared in Garrett County District Court for a preliminary hearing in the case.

The indictment charges Broadwater with three counts involving controlled dangerous substance (CDS) violations: possession with intent to distribute marijuana, possession of marijuana, and possession of CDS paraphernalia.

Broadwater then appeared before Judge Jim Sherbin for an arraignment on those charges. Broadwater's bond was set at $2,000, and he was later released from the Garrett County Jail when bond was posted.

The charges stem from the execution of a search and seizure warrant by Narcotics Task Force officers at Broadwater's residence last month.

D. Kitis Named MIEMSS Reg. 1 Administrator

Dwayne Kitis, EMT-B, has been appointed the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems (MIEMSS) Region I administrator for Allegany and Garrett counties, effective April 7.

MIEMSS executive director Dr. Robert R. Bass made the announcement last Friday. MIEMSS is the state agency responsible for the coordination of emergency medical services (EMS).

"Dwayne's many years of EMS experience in the field in Garrett and Allegany counties combined with his managerial expertise create a good fit for this position," Bass said.

Kitis, a resident of Frostburg who grew up in Finzel, will provide a liaison between the MIEMSS central office in Baltimore and the local EMS agencies, working closely with local government personnel, training centers, ambulance/fire/rescue service providers, law enforcement agencies, and hospitals.

He will be involved in such issues as prehospital provider training, distribution of grant funds to local EMS programs, quality improvement processes, emergency response exercises, and mutual aid activities.

Kitis will also provide support in the area of planning, coordination, and response for health and medical preparedness for catastrophic events. In addition he will ensure that there are adequate resources and basic training programs available for local EMS providers.

Kitis has been active in EMS since 1995, first with the Eastern Garrett Volunteer Fire/Rescue Department, where he still volunteers, and later with the Frostburg Volunteer Ambulance Service where he worked for 10 years. He is also employed part-time by the Allegany Ambulance Service in Frostburg, a commercial service where he has worked since 1997. He has held numerous elected and appointed positions with the volunteer EMS service.

Kitis holds a bachelor of science degree and has more than 10 years of managerial experience at his current position at North Branch Correctional Institute in Cresaptown.

In Loving Memory of Tiffany Ann Morgan
Nov. 3, 1993 – March 21, 2007

Tiffany we thought of you with love today,
But that is nothing new.
We thought about you yesterday,
And every day before that too.
Tiff, we think of you in silence,
We often speak your name.
All we have are lots of memories,
And your pictures in a frame.
Your memory is our keepsake,
With which we will never part.
God has you in his keeping,
And Tiff, we have you in our hearts.
A million times we've wanted you,
A million times we're cried.
Tiff, if love could only have saved you,
You never would have died.
It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you didn't go alone.
A huge part of us went with you....
Two years ago when God called you home.

We love & miss you dearly,
Love,
Mom, Dad, Brittany

SADIE THE FEMALE TABBY is spayed, housetrained, and ready for adoption at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. Sadie is pictured above at left. "She needs to live in a house without small children," noted a Humane Society spokesperson. Also at the shelter is a black/white tuxedo feline that was picked up as a stray in Mtn. Lake Park. A female black/ tan hound (no photo) was also picked up along Mason School Road. The canine had no collar or tags. These and other dogs and cats are available for adoption Monday through Friday at the county shelter. Recently featured Daisy, an older beagle, was adopted, and 13 cats were taken to a rescue by HART last week. "But then four new dogs and more cats were brought to the shelter," said the spokesperson. "Please remember, when you adopt a pet it is a lifetime responsibility to feed, water, walk, and play with your new pet." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553.

In Loving Memory of Our Dear Mom
Alta G. Schlosnagle
March 24, 1921 - March 21, 2004

We thought of you with love today
but that is nothing new.
We thought about you yesterday
and days before that too.
We think of you in silence
we often speak your name.
All we have now are memories and your picture in a frame.
Your memory is our keepsake
with which we'll never part.
God has you in his keeping
we have you in our hearts.
A thousand times we cried.
If love alone could have saved you
you never would have died.
In life we loved you dearly
In death we love you still.
In our hearts you hold a special place
no one can ever fill.
It broke our hearts to lose you
hut you didn't go alone.
For a part of us went with you the day God took you home.

Shirley, Sandra, Rehecca, & Spencer

Harvey Duo To Preside Over Services In LL

Dr. Frank Harvey will be the guest speaker at Loch Lynn Church of God on Sunday, March 22, and his wife Shirley will host a women's rally at the church on the following day, March 23.

Rev. Frank will officiate at the 6 p.m. service Sunday. He is the founder and bishop of Covenant Life Ministries, an international apostolic network of churches and ministries. He and his wife pioneered New Covenant Church in Clyde, N.C., in 1977. He served as senior pastor there until January 2004.

As bishop of Covenant Life Ministries, he has ministered in hundreds of churches of all denominations throughout the United States and internationally. Dr. Harvey is a member of the Board of Elders of Evangel Fellowship International and North Carolina State Presbyter, and he is a regent and board member of Beacon University in Columbus, Ga. Rev. Shirley began a ladies outreach to female inmates at various jails in 1995, a ministry that continues today. This involved coordinating workers who minister to those who need intensive spiritual help, a spokesperson said.

She speaks at many churches, primarily in the Southeast, as well as internationally. She has ministered in women's conferences in Mexico, Scotland, Honduras, Russia, and Greece.

The Harveys regularly teach and lead couples' retreats and leadership seminars throughout the United States and internationally.

Prof. Skylstad To Speak At Garrett Soil District Dinner

Professor Peter Skylstad will be the featured speaker at this year's annual Garrett Soil Conservation District dinner, scheduled Thursday, April 23, at 7 p.m. in the Bittinger fire hall. The public is invited.

The professor's topic will be "Where Rivers Are Born: The Scientific Imperative for Defending Small Streams and Wetlands."

Skylstad is a graduate of Texas Tech University. He has a master of science degree in biology and a minor in geographic information systems (GIS). He joined the Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology Program at Garrett College in 2000 and has since been involved in many natural resource projects in the region.

Before he moved to Garrett County, Skylstad worked with Site-Specific Technologies of Stillwater, Okla. This company works with USDA's Agricultural Research Service to develop innovative applications for GPS and GIS technologies for precision agriculture.

Since arriving at Garrett College, he has worked closely with state and federal agencies to help preserve and restore critical headwater wetlands in Garrett County, especially the upper reaches of the North Branch of the Potomac in southern Garrett County and the headwaters of the Casselman River system in the northern part of the county.

In addition, Skylstad has worked in Mexico, Costa Rica, and Nicaragua with the Organization for Tropical Studies and La Suerte and Ometepe biological field stations to develop undergraduate biological research programs in neotropical environments.

He is currently working with the Ministry of the Environment and Ometepe Biological Field Station in Nicaragua to develop a plan to map, assess, and prioritize the conservation of biological corridors on Isla de Ometepe in Lake Nicaragua.

The professor is also involved in developing plans to reintroduce rare species of plants and animals in the Sarapiqui region of northeastern Costa Rica.

Estate Planning Course Slated At Outreach Center.

Garrett College will offer "Estate Planning: The Importance of Wills and Trusts" at the Northern Outreach Center, Grantsville, on Mondays, April 6 and 13, from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

"Estate planning is not just for the wealthy," said a Garrett College spokesperson. "An estate plan provides the legal mechanism for disposing of property upon death in a way that recognizes your wishes and the needs of your survivors, while minimizing taxes. For many, it can mean planning for the handling of affairs in case of disability, and the personal medical choices to be made as life nears its end."

This two-part course will address the common questions regarding wills and trusts. Part one, held on April 6, will center on wills and probate. This class will focus on such issues as: What is a will and what does it do? What does it take to draft a will? How does one choose an executor and what percentage of one's assets do they take as a commission? What is the probate process and is it necessary for one's estate?

Joseph DiSimone, register of wills for Garrett County, will instruct the first class. Assisting will be Rita Watson, chief deputy register of wills, for anyone who may need one-on-one assistance.

Part two, held the following Monday, will focus on trusts. Included in the discussion will be trust basics with a definition of terms and its variations.

Some other topics will include comparing living trusts, testamentary trusts and wills, disposition of property outside of probate, some related tax issues and specialized trusts, and estate planning tools.

This portion of the course will be instructed by local lawyer Gary C. Harriger, who practices in the areas of estates and trusts, real estate, municipal law, and business and employment law.

For additional information, persons may contact Terry Beachy, Northern Outreach Center coordinator, at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu. To register for the course, persons may call the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

Ask Sheila

Decorating Dilemma?
Sheila offers helpful advice.

Dear Sheila:

I love color. I noticed your pink and green windows and fell in love with them all over again. Are pink and green in again? Can I use these in my ADULT apartment? I plan to be here several years and I want to feel happy in my space, but I am not allowed to paint the walls or change the floors. PS: I am 35 years old. Am I too old for pink?

Miss Pinky

Dear Miss Pinky:

NO WAY IS ANYONE EVER TOO OLD FOR PINK!

IT IS A DIVA COLOR AND FACE IT, WE ARE DIVAS TILL THE DAY WE DIE!

It is very simple to create the feel with bedding, lamps, throw pillows, rugs. We are the Divas of Pink!

Stop in and let us put you in the pink!

We are going to start a "Shirt Club." More details coming very soon.

We are going to offer limited home pick-up & delivery for the elderly or disabled. Again, more details will be coming very soon.

We haven't forgotten our account holders. We have a special treat for all of you that fit into this category. Again, more details will be coming very soon.

We have heard you loud and clear therefore we are going to a new partner and will ensure that customer satisfaction is achieved.

Finally, we recognize the importance of using and supporting all our local businesses because we, as a community, must support one another through these turbulent economic times. It is the local businesses that support our local youth organizations, our local charities, our local service organizations, our local volunteer fire & rescue squads and finally, it keeps our tax dollars here in the local area.

We look forward to better days ahead! Please stop by anytime!

Woman's Day Accepting Stories About Value Of Libraries In "Tough Times"

Woman's Day magazine, along with the American Library Association (ALA), the Ruth Enlow Library, and other libraries across the country, wants to know how women have used resources and services at their local libraries during this tough economic time.

Women over the age of 18 can submit their story in 700 words or fewer to womansday@ala.org. The deadline for submissions is Monday, May 18. Four stories will be featured in the March 2010 issue of Woman's Day, which has more than 4 million readers. Official rules are available at womansday.com/ala.

"The public library plays an important role as Americans face tough economic times, whether that means providing free Internet access, facilitating job searches, or lending books, CDs and DVDs," said Ruth Enlow Library director Cathy Ashby.

Information about free resources at the Ruth Enlow Library can be found online at relib.net.

The story initiative was developed by Woman's Day and the ALA's Campaign for America's Libraries, which is ALA's public awareness campaign that promotes the value of libraries and librarians.

FSU Dept. Of Dance To Give Spring Concert

Student choreography and a performance by a Broadway artist will highlight the Spring Dance Concert at Frostburg State University on Friday, April 3, and Saturday, April 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center's Drama Theatre, presented by the FSU Department of Theatre and Dance.

Performed by the FSU Dance Company, the concert will feature original choreography and dances highlighting a variety of styles by company members and director Jamie McGreevy. The concert will also present a new piece by guest artist Jeff Shade.

Shade is a dancer, choreographer, teacher, and dance therapist. He has performed on Broadway in plays such as Sweet Charity, served as dance captain for Chicago, and has toured with Crazy For You. Shade has also taught at Harvard University, the Boston Conservatory, Point Park University, and STEPS on Broadway. He also operates a volunteer organization, House of Roses, which helps participants to build self-esteem and self-confidence through dance.

Seniors Jessica Seminerio and Daniel Durr will choreograph and dance in their final concert at FSU. A spokesperson said Seminerio created a contemporary piece that explores the taboo love between two young adults from different worlds, while Durr's piece investigates the complex concepts of life and death through contemporary movement.

For reservations and more information, persons may contact the University Theatre box office at 301-687-7462, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. and again from 1:30 p.m. until 4 p.m. Tickets are $6 for students and $12 for general admission.

To request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, persons may call 301-687-4102 or use a voice relay operator at 1-800-735-2258.

Dance Team Achieves Non-Profit Status; Local Dance Teacher Serving As Exec. Dir.

The Art and Style Dancesport Competition Team, Pittsburgh, has recently organized and achieved non-profit status to advance Latin and ballroom dancing in the greater Pittsburgh and tri-state region.

Jennifer Christophel, owner and operator of the Balanced Body Studio and Wellness Center at Deep Creek Lake, has been named the executive director of the new group. She is a professional ballroom teacher and competitor, and a nationally PMA certified Pilates instructor, fitness therapist, and sports conditioning specialist.

The team was established in February 2009 by regional ballroom dance teachers, amateurs, and professionals, dedicated to international Latin and ballroom dance education and performance. The team is based at the Art and Style Dance Studio in Pittsburgh, under the direction of the studio owners Rozana and Terry Sweeny.

According to a spokesperson, a primary goal of the team is to support dancers of ages and levels, and help them secure advanced coaching, training, and grants so that they may compete on regional and national levels.

"Already, the hard work and dedication of the team has resulted in many members receiving scholarships for workshops and special competitions," said Christophel.

The Art and Style Dancesport team will provide benefit performances and dance lessons for other organizations in the area as part of its mission. Officers and a volunteer board direct the team.

New team members will be accepted through audition or invitation. For more information, persons may call 814-242-6418 or contact the Art and Style Dance Studio at 412-418-7462.

ROUGH ENOUGH

There is life at the surface to be faced,
Full of facts and some fiction, it is laced.
Don't hesitate to look, just turn the page.
When one is young or maybe not 'til old,
Each deriving his own needed message.
To change with the ages is sometimes not enough.
So be it; at times the road of life will be rough.
It's impossible to know to what extent
Until the journey and chances are spent.
For all that can happen cannot be foretold,
So maybe you'll grow up before growing old.
But whatever you do, forget not who
From deep within you really are,
And in life, that one can travel far,
Striving for the positive, the whole trip through.

Five Reasons to Be Bullish about Financial Markets

During a long downturn in the financial markets, it's hard for some people to be cheerful about their prospects for investment success. And that's not surprising, because a daily diet of bad news can take its toll on investors' outlooks. Yet if you look beyond the headlines, you can actually find some reasons to believe that brighter days lie ahead.

Here are five of these potential causes for optimism:

1. Recovery may be near. The financial markets obviously are connected to the overall U.S. economy, so it makes sense to keep an eye on how the economy is doing. As you know, we've been in the grip of a long and painful recession — hut that may change fairly soon. In fact, the recession is likely to end in the second half of 2009, according to a majority of the economists surveyed by the influential National Association for Business Economics. And since the stock market has historically anticipated an economic recovery by about six months — and begun responding favorably — now may not be the time to abandon your long-term investment strategy. Of course, past performance is not a guarantee of future results.

2. Market rallies can happen quickly. No one can predict the exact moment a sustained market rally will begin — but history has shown that rallies can start quickly and take off sharply. Consider this: In the first year of a recovery, investors have received an average of [illegible] the entire [illegible] according to [illegible] since 1932, the S[illegible] has gained an average of 46 percent in the year after stocks have hit bottom. Keep in mind, though, that we have experienced a larger-than-usual drop in the market, so you shouldn't necessarily expect a rally to produce these results. Still, if you are out of the market when it does rally, you are likely to miss some of the strongest returns.

3. Low prices may mean good opportunities. By almost any traditional measure of value, investments are now very attractively priced. And when prices are low, returns over the long term tend to be higher. Keep looking for quality investments — like other investments, they've been hurt by the downturn, but if their fundamentals are still sound, they could offer the greatest potential for long-term rewards.

4. The Treasury and Fed are working overtime to support the U.S. financial system. While the problems of resuscitating our financial system are enormous, and the solutions are not clear-cut, the Department of the Treasury and the Federal Reserve are working hard to support the credit markets, boost liquidity, lower mortgage rates and take other steps that can ultimately benefit the economy and the investment markets.

5. Low inflation can help boost "real" returns. Inflation, as measured by the Consumer Price Index, is currently close to zero. As an investor, you have reason to welcome a low inflation rate, because when inflation is high, it can erode the "real" returns of your investments. Consequently, you may be rewarded by investing in vehicles that, for the moment, are producing only modest returns.

Keep the above factors in mind when you make investment decisions. Remember, if you're going to help achieve your long-term goals, you will likely need to keep investing in even the gloomiest of markets — and, as we've discussed, there might be more than a few rays of light ready to pierce the clouds.

Coach Carr Says Huskies Must Reload To Defend Top Position

Looking to defend their second straight Area championship, as well as their third consecutive Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference (AMAC) title, will be the members of the Northern High School varsity baseball team, who will open their 2009 campaign next Tuesday at Keyser.

For the 20th season, the Huskies are being led by head coach Phil Carr, who holds an all-time record of 225-140, including a 17-2 mark last season.

It will be somewhat of a rebuilding year for the Huskies, who will look to replace six team-leading seniors lost to graduation last spring. Among them were Area Player of the Year ace Matt Sisler, Northern's all-time win leader on the mound and now playing for Garrett College.

Also lost were first-team All-Area players Pat Brady from the outfield, and first baseman Justin Rosenberger. Brady batted .333 last season, while Rosenberger had a .396 average.

Infielder Jeff Smith, who led the Huskies at the plate last year with a .444 average, veteran catcher Ben Diehl, and Ryan Finzel were also members of the 2008 graduating class.

Coach Carr said his team will once again depend upon the strength of its veteran pitching staff and solid defensive skills.

Returning to the mound will be first-team All-Area senior Trey Beasom, who was 5-0 last year with an outstanding 1.60 ERA and 50 strike-outs in 35 innings of work.

Back with a 3-0 record from last spring is senior Brandon Beachy, along with senior Kyle Gillum, who was also 3-0 last year, but is currently nursing a shoulder injury from football.

Others expected to see time on the mound will be senior Dan Warnick, juniors Andy Umbel, Andrew Sisler, and Dylan Miller, and sophomore Steven Holtschneider.

When not pitching, the following will be starters at the other positions: Warnick at centerfield, Beachy at third, Gillum at second, and Beasom at shortstop.

Warnick hit .358 with seven doubles and 19 runs scored last season; Beachy drew a team-high 17 walks; Gillum hit .302 and led the team with 22 RBI, three homers, and seven stolen bases; and Beasom hit .365 and led the team in hits with 23.

Other projected starters will be seniors Thomas Holtschneider at first, Matt Watson at catcher, Zach Lipscomb in right field, and junior Teddy Linton in left field.

Others who will see action in the outfield will be senior Tim Miller, and juniors Brian Umbel and Dylan Miller. Expected to get playing time in the infield will be juniors Andy Umbel, Andrew Sisler, Mike Rugola, and sophomore Steven Holtschneider. Junior Alex Smith will back up Watson behind the plate.

"Championships are hard to defend, and we know that all too well," said Coach Carr. "We know we will have to work extra hard because everyone will be out to beat us."

Carr said that the weather has been more cooperative than usual this spring, allowing his team to be outside more and affording the opportunity for two scrimmages.

"Offensively, we will need for some guys to pick it up a little," he said. "Hopefully we can manufacture some runs with bunting and our good team speed. My biggest concern will be our lack of overall varsity experience."

The Huskies will play their first five opponents on the road. After next Tuesday's opener at Keyser, they will travel to Frankfort next Thursday, and then have games at Mountain Ridge, Allegany, and Hampshire (doubleheader) before finally playing their home opener against county rival Southern on April 6.

"I'm sure that the AMAC will be very competitive this year, with Mountain Ridge, Allegany, and Southern all looking strong," Carr said. "We will try to improve each and every game as we move through our schedule."

The Huskies' only two losses last year were to Mountain Ridge, the second being a season-ending, 3-2 defeat in the quarterfinals of the 1A West Region tournament.

Assisting Carr with the coaching chores this season are Jamie Workman, Ed Carr, Jeff Carr, and Kris Carr.

Standing are: Zach Lipscomb, Brian Umbel, Mike Rugola, Thomas Holtschneider, Kyle Gillum, Dylan Miller, Matt Watson, Steven Holtschneider, and Andy Umbel. Lakers Named To Region XX All-Star Teams

Two members of the Garrett College men's basketball team have received All-Region XX recognition, according to Dennis Gibson, head coach of the Lakers.

Francis "Mo" Gunn was selected to the first team, and freshman point guard Rodney Clark was a second-team honoree.

Gunn led the Lakers to the Region XX championship game, as he recorded 28 points in a 94-86 defeat of host Hagerstown CC. A transfer sophomore, he led the Lakers in scoring, averaging 15 points and four rebounds per game.

In the Region XX championship against Allegany College, Gunn was saddled with fouls, but managed to score 17 points in just 15 minutes of play.

"If Mo would have not been called for some touch fouls, I think we could have kept our lead and won the game," Coach Gibson said. "When he came out, our rotation was not the same. He was playing like a big-time player and scoring whenever we needed it."

Clark, a true freshman, was second on the team in scoring with 13 ppg, and also led the Lakers in assists with 5.3 per game and in steals with an average of 2.1. In the semifinal against Hagerstown, he scored 24 points and handed out eight assists.

"Rodney was really the catalyst for our team offensively," said Gibson. "He can find the open man and plays very well in an up-tempo game. I think it was very deserving that he was recognized as one of the top players in Region XX."

Lakers Win Five Of Eight This Week To Even Record At 8-8

The baseball team of Garrett College split a Maryland JUCO doubleheader with host Essex last Friday afternoon before heading out for a week of spring break games in Myrtle Beach, S.C.

The Lakers were blanked in the first game vs. Essex, 6-0, but came back to win the second, 5-1.

In South Carolina, the Lakers rolled to a 12-4 victory over Westmoreland on Saturday, but then fell to Iowa Central, 10-0, and Southeastern (Iowa), 15-3, on Sunday.

In yesterday's games, Garrett cruised to victories over both Sullivan, 10-0, and Iowa Central, 11-3.

The result left the Lakers with an even 8-8 record.

In Friday's first game against Essex, the Lakers were held to just three singles by winning pitcher Greg Ross, who struck out nine batters in tossing a complete game.

Alex Anderson stroked two singles for Garrett, and Brian Milleman hit the third.

Essex scored three runs in the bottom of the third, and three more in the bottom of the fourth, with Jeff Bihy leading a six-hit effort with a double and a single.

Garrett's Carlos Jimenez and Corey Carr combined on a five-hit win in the second game, as the Lakers scored all five of their runs in the first two innings.

Amed Martinez had two of the Lakers' six hits, while Ricardo Cordido provided a two-run single in the second inning.

Martinez was also the leading hitter for the Lakers in their 12-4 win over Westmoreland at Polo Grounds, Myrtle Beach, on Saturday. He rapped a two-run homer in the fourth inning to go with two singles, as the Lakers pounded out a dozen hits for their dozen runs.

Garrett Rogers also had three hits for Garrett, including a double, and he also scored a pair of runs. Teammate Clint Whitman smacked two singles for two RBI.

Former Southern High standout Jason Ashby tossed a pair of scoreless innings before getting into trouble in the third and giving up three unearned runs. John Opincarne took over in the fourth, and Rogers tossed the seventh inning.

The Wolfpack was held to just four hits by the Garrett trio on the mound, with Casey Teagarden getting a double.

Brett Mitchell went the distance for Iowa Central against the Lakers on Sunday, recording the one-hitter, striking out four, and walking three.

Martinez was the only Laker who managed to connect off Mitchell, recording a harmless single in the fourth inning.

The Lakers got only four hits against a pair of Southeastern pitchers in Sunday's second game, with one of those being a two-run double by Clint Whitman in the fourth.

Meanwhile, Southeastern's Angel Rosa rapped a sixth-inning grand slam to pace his team to the 15-3 win. Five GC pitchers allowed a total of nine hits.

The Laker bats finally came alive in Tuesday's 12-0 win over Parkland, while Will Jagemann and Kevin Leitzel held Parkland to five hits and no runs.

Ashby was the big hitter for Garrett, going 4-for-4 with two doubles and two singles for four RBI.

Jagemann pitched the first five innings for the Lakers, recording seven strikeouts in the process, and Leitzel took the mound in the sixth to maintain the shutout and earn the save.

Against Southeastern, the Lakers were down 10-1 before rallying for six runs in the top of the sixth. Ashby again paced Garrett at the plate, recording a double and a single for two RBI.

Southeastern finished with a 11 hits off four Laker pitchers.

Jason Ashby, who had a total of six hits in the two games on Tuesday, was the star on the mound against Sullivan yesterday, as he fired a five-inning no hitter. The game was called after five innings because of the 10-run mercy rule.

Ashby struck out three batters, walked three, and upped his personal mark on the mound to 3-0. He has yet to allow a run in three starts.

The Lakers recorded eight hits against a pair of Sullivan pitchers, including a three-run homer by Brett Martin in the first inning. Amed Martinez contributed a double and a single, and Zach Nair provided two singles.

In the win over Iowa Central, Martinez had two more doubles, and Corey Carr stroked three singles in a nine-hit attack.

Carlos Jimenez allowed nine hits in six innings, but most were scattered. He had five strike-outs and forced 11 ground-ball outs.

The Lakers are slated to face the County College of Morris (N.J.) this afternoon, and St. Louis (Mo.) Community College this evening. They will wrap up their spring break run with a game against Ulster CC (N.Y.) on Friday.

Coach Eric Hallenbeck's Lakers will travel to Winchester, Va., on Saturday to play a doubleheader against the Shenandoah University junior varsity, play their first home twinbill on Sunday against Allegany College of Maryland, travel to Frederick CC for a pair of games next Tuesday, and play a single game at Potomac State College in Keyser next Wednesday.

Md. Lawmakers Hope To Spread "Spirit Of Doing"

by Leonard Sparks
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON – A funk settled over Winnefred Frolik as she worried about global warming, poverty, and hunger. But after graduation from the University of Pittsburgh, Frolik found a cure: a five-month stint as a parks volunteer in New Hampshire followed by three years volunteering with AmeriCorps.

"I decided, intead of feeling bad about everything, why don't I try and do something productive about it?" said the 28-year-old Silver Spring resident, who works with disabled adults in Rockville.

That spirit of doing is at the heart of a major rewrite of national volunteer programs approved by the House on Wednesday, 321-105. The bill is called the GIVE Act – Generations Invigorating Volunteerism and Education Act – in the House. In the Senate it's known as the Serve America Act.

Legislators acting on President Obama's call for a rededication to service are enhancing programs, including those for disadvantaged youth, and adding veterans' service. They say the legislation will triple the number of AmeriCorps volunteers and re-energize a country dispirited by the flagging economy.

Supporters gathered outside the Capitol Wednesday to urge passage of the House version of the bill. Among them were key lawmakers and dozens of volunteers from around the region.

"He (Obama) has inspired another generation of Americans to do what John Kennedy asked all of us in my generation to do – to ask not what our country can do for us but what we can do for our country," said House Majority Leader Steny Hoyer, D-Mechanicsville.

"We can and we must recognize that spirit, help it grow and direct it toward the most productive outlets, especially now, when the talents and enthusiasm of Americans is essential to helping us end an economic crisis."

The bill's supporters estimate that it will more than triple – from 75,000 to 250,000 – the number of volunteers with AmeriCorps, a national service program providing volunteers for constructing affordable housing, mentoring, tutoring, and maintaining parks and streams, among other things.

The proposal also creates fellowships as an incentive for baby boomers and retirees to enter service and establishes a summer program that rewards middle and high school students who volunteer with $500 toward college.

The revamping also includes new service corps in four policy areas: improving access to health care, increasing graduation rates, improving services to veterans, and promoting energy efficiency and conservation.

Sen. Barbara Mikulski, D-Md., expects the full Senate to vote on its version next week.

"We have the makings of really getting something done," Mikulski said.

California Rep. George Miller, chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, said the legislation builds a "continuum of care."

"We know what service to America means. We know what AmeriCorps means. We know what the Conservation Corps means," Miller said. "In fact, they showed up at Katrina before the government. They came to the Iowa floods this last year and gave over 800,000 hours of volunteer time."

Rep. Carolyn McCarthy, a New York Democrat who is the bill's chief sponsor, predicted that the proposal would unite communities if approved.

"People are going to get to know each other," she said. "They're going to get to know their neighbors better."

Retired Army Capt. Scott Quilty, who lost his right arm and leg to an explosion in Iraq, said the support he received from volunteers "saved his life."

The New Hampshire native is now U.S. programs manager for the Washington, D.C.-based Survivor Corps, whose work includes peer support for veterans returning from Iraq and Afghanistan.

"I know firsthand that no one survives alone," Quilty said. "Service doesn't have to end when we hang up the uniform."

For Frolik, service did not end after the parks assignment, despite the mosquitoes and the bronchitis she fought the first week on the job. AmeriCorps placed her with YMCA Youth and Family Services in Montgomery County from 2007 to 2008. She now works with the Jewish Foundation for Group Homes in Rockville, where she assists adults with developmental disabilities.

The work brings her in contact with "amazing people," Frolik said. "It gives you a greater sense of community," she said. "More of a perspective that we're all in this together – that it's not just about you."

Owner Voices

•Allow small businesses and individuals to pool their numbers and resources to get better health care deals.

•Protect all Marylanders from catastrophic health care costs that "bankrupt families and ruin lives."

•Prevent insurance companies from wrongly denying coverage or charging "unfairly" high premiums to patients, especially those with chronic health conditions.

•Expand coverage in the private sector and Medicaid for those who "truly" cannot afford any other coverage.

•Increase access to core services that keep people healthy, such as preventive screenings.

•Invest in public health strategies and fully fund programs to reduce alcohol, drug, and tobacco addiction.

•Guarantee that everyone has access to the quality, affordable health care they need and deserve.

But, as opponents point out, the legislation also calls for businesses and individuals to pay, in the coalition's words, "their fair share." Businesses would have to provide revenue for the plan through a new 2 percent payroll tax. Uninsured individuals would also be required to purchase health coverage if "quality, affordable coverage" is available to them.

"I am willing to pay the 2 percent payroll tax," Naylor told the Senate and House committees, "because our business and others that now provide full health care coverage for their employees will save money under this plan. It will ensure that our employees receive the same quality care that larger businesses are able to negotiate."

She added that the 125-year-old A.D. Naylor & Company is successful because of its employees. Naylor noted, however, that increasing insurance costs has forced the company to reduce health care benefits. As a result, some of those valuable employees have left for jobs that provide better benefits.

"I do not want to continue losing skilled workers," she told the committees. "This is a key reason I support SB 813/HB951."

Naylor also supports the bills for her workers.

"This plan not only benefits businesses, but all residents of Maryland," she said. "I want our employees to have quality health care and a high quality of life."

In addition to the payroll tax revenue, the Health Care For All Plan would be funded through increases in alcohol and tobacco taxes.

Persons wanting to voice their support for or opposition to the plan may contact Del. Peter Hammen, Health and Government Operations Committee chair, at 1-800-492-7122, ext. 3772, or peter.hammen@house.state.md.us; Sen. Ulysses Currie, Budget and Taxation Committee chair, extension 3127 or ulysses.currie@senate.state.md.us; or Sen. Tomas Middleton, Finance Committee chair, extension 3616 or thomas.mclain.middleton@senate.md.us.

Naylor will give a presentation about the plan to the Greater Oakland Business Association on Tuesday, April 21, at 5 p.m. at the Oakland Town Hall meeting room. The public is invited.

Jennings Randolph Lake Recreation Season Under Way

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers has initiated the 2009 recreation season at Jennings Randolph Lake, as the boat launch on the Maryland shore of the lake opened yesterday, March 18. This launch is managed by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources, and is located along Mt. Zion Road off Route 135, near the salt shed on Backbone Mountain.

The Maryland DNR service charge will be $5 for launching a boat. The 2009 Maryland State Forest and Park Service All-Season Pass can be purchased for $75 for Maryland residents, or $100 for out-of-state residents. The pass can be purchased at all Maryland state parks.

This pass offers free day-use entry for everyone in a vehicle (up to nine people) to Maryland's state parks, free boat launching at most facilities, and a 10% discount on state-operated concessions and boat rentals. For parks with honor box systems, the pass covers entry service charges.

The West Virginia shore boat launch will be opened on Wednesday, April 1, at 8 a.m. The launch is located along Howell Run, just off West Virginia State Route 46, three miles north of Elk Garden, W.Va.

The Corps charges visitors a $3 fee for launching a boat from the ramp. An annual pass that will allow an unlimited number of launches at all Corps parks is on sale for $30 at the park office, which is located on the West Virginia side of the lake. Persons should follow the signs from W.Va. Route 46E.

Holders of the Golden Age Passports (for senior citizens 62 and over), America the Beautiful Senior Passes, America the Beautiful Access Passes, and Golden Access Passports (for the physically challenged) are allowed to purchase an annual boat launch pass for half price or to pay $1.50 per launch at the Corps boat launch only.

Both the annual pass and the Maryland All-Season pass are valid at either boat launch on Jennings Randolph Lake.

Chamber Plans 2009 Membership Forum, Luncheon

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce has issued an invitation to all chamber members to attend its annual Membership Forum and Luncheon, slated for Wednesday, April 8, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., at Will O' the Wisp at Deep Creek Lake.

"This annual event is a terrific way to receive feedback from our membership," said Charlie Ross, chamber president. "We encourage all chamber members to attend since this forum gives the membership a chance to discuss their involvement with the chamber and the chamber's involvement with their businesses."

The forum will include a review of the annual chamber board retreat and a "State of the Chamber" presentation, which will offer an overview of current projects. Then the group will break into sessions focused on individual chamber committees, including the Autumn Glory, Vacation Guide, Art & Wine, Marketing Roundtable, Member and Business Services, Ambassador Program, Business After Hours, Mountain Maryland Green Committee, and Legislative and Civic Involvement committees.

After lunch, the group will reconvene for an overall committee discussion, and will take nominations for two new Membership Committee awards: Over the Top Customer Service and Young Entrepreneur of the Year, which will be awarded at the chamber's annual dinner in June.

Chamber members should RSVP by April 3 to Jessica at 301-387-4386, ext. 16, or by e-mail at jessica@garrettchamber.com.

Frostburg Lions Planning All-Star Basketball Game

The Lions Club of Frostburg has set Sunday, April 19, as the date for the 29th annual Maryland/West Virginia All-Star High School Basketball Tournament, to be held at Cordts Arena, Frostburg State University.

"This is a major annual tournament," said Frostburg Lions president Lion Bill Munck. "It is probably the best kept secret in regional high school basketball."

The Frostburg Lions, who have sponsored the event since its beginning, want to change that.

"We want everyone who enjoys high school basketball, to support these young men and women," commented Munck, "and do some yelling for their favorite school, and players.

"This is the only tournament of its kind in the region," Munck added. "We always have a pretty good crowd, but these young people play their hearts out, and they need more friends and family cheering them on."

Over the years the tournament has involved some 2,000 students, allowing rivals to play together to defend their state. "No other regional tournament affords the team spirit and camaraderie that this annual event does," said Munck.

The tournament began in Westernport and relocating to Frostburg State University in the 1990s. It has been a staple youth program of the Frostburg Lions Club, as well as a major fundraiser.

Lots of bleacher seating is available for the game, and tickets can be purchased at the door on game day. Admission includes both the boys' and girls' games. For more information, persons may telephone 301-687-0212.

Insurance Prog.

ever, risks and liabilities shift to the employer, he noted.

One of "pros" of self-funding is the possibility of saving money. But self-insurers need be in it for the "long haul," at least four or five years, to realize a savings, Marchini indicated.

"You need to go in for a multi-year commitment because you will have highs and lows in claim payments every year," Marchini said. "The volatility is there."

He said over the last four years the county group has paid $44.3 million m premiums. When claims, $37.1 million, and carrier expenses, $4.8 million, are subtracted from the premium amount, it leaves a $2.4 million surplus that BlueCross has kept in reserve.

Marchini noted that this money could have been used by the Board of Educate, college, or county government for capital projects.

Negative aspects of self-funding include the need for someone to devote time to oversee the insurance program, cash flow challenges, and the need for reserves to cover claim fluctuations.

Marchini noted that it is beneficial to have stop-loss insurance to handle very large claims that are not covered in the self-funded health insurance plan.

"This is definitely something to look at at budget time," Commissioner Fred Holliday said about self-funding.

Commissioner Denny Glotfelty asked Ervin Fink, director of finance and personnel for the Board of Education, what he thought of the proposal.

"Overall, I think we'll save money," Fink said. But the director noted that he would have to check with BOE employees to see what they think.

The county group's contract with BlueCross expires on July 1. Marchini said the county representatives, therefore, need to talk to the insurance carrier as soon as possible to discuss the self-funding issue further.

Also on Tuesday, the Garrett County commissioners accepted a proposal by recycling coordinator Kim Madigan to apply for a Maryland Department of the Environment grant. The funding would enable the county's electronics recycling program to continue.

"It's been so successful, we would like to keep it running," Madigan said.

Unlike other recyclable products, however, the county does not receive money from electronics. It actually costs the county money to recycle electronics, which is why the grant is needed.

"But it's still worthwhile," Commissioner Ernie Gregg said.

Madigan agreed. Since the program began in July 2007, she noted, more than 73.32 tons of electronics have been diverted from the landfill.

The commissioners also accepted a proposal by the Garrett County Roads Department to purchase three used road sweeper trucks at a cost of $21,000 each. The vehicles will be used to sweep up/recycle anti-skid from county roadways.

General roads superintendent Jay Moyer estimates that the county could recycle 20 percent of the anti-skid that is applied each winter. One sweeper will be stationed at each of the county's roads garages.

The commissioners also heard a budget request from the Garrett County Arts Council. Board members asked the commissioners to allocate $12,500 in fiscal year 2010. The volunteer organization has received this amount from the county each year since FY 2007.

Council board members expressed their appreciation for the county's previous funding and noted that an FY 2010 allocation would be most helpful, given state funding cuts.

"You all do a great job," Commissioner Fred Holliday told the members. But he noted that county was also being affected by state cutbacks and had asked its departments to submit "flat" budgets for FY 2010.

The council operates an art gallery, sponsors workshops and demonstrations, sponsors Art in the Park at Deep Creek Lake, holds fine and performing arts shows, and supports local artists, artisans, actors, singers, musicians, and writers in a wide variety of ways through a grant program.

The county is still working on the budget for the new fiscal year, which begins July 1. County officials will announce the FY 2010 budget allocations in late May or early June.

Special Education Advisory Comm. To Meet April 7

The Garrett County Special Education Citizens Advisory Committee (SECAC) will hold a meeting on Tuesday, April 7, at 4:30 p.m. in the Board Room of the Garrett County Board of Education building.

SECAC, established in 2003, serves in an advisory capacity to the county superintendent and BOE on issues affecting the education of students with disabilities.

The committee's mission includes advocation for all students with disabilities or special needs; promoting community and citizen awareness of issues relating to disabilities; and providing a forum for county-wide citizen input on special education programs, related services, and relevant issues.

All interested parents or community members are invited to attend this meeting. Persons may call 301-334-7658 for more information.

Funds Available For Floodplain Easement Land

The Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) in Maryland has announced that conservation funding is available to eligible landowners nationwide through the floodplain easement component of its Emergency Watershed Protection (EWP) Program. The funds will be used nationwide to restore an estimated 60,000 acres of frequently flooded land to its natural state and create jobs.

Eligible landowners can sign up for these easements until Friday, March 27, at their local NRCS Office located at 1916 Maryland Highway, Suite C, Mtn. Lake Park, 21550. The phone number is 301-334-6951.

Any easements purchased would be permanent easements. The landowner would retain ownership of the land and any applicable mineral rights. The easements would not be used to establish public access, and the landowner would retain the right to control access to the land.

Landowners who place flood-prone land into EWP easements can convert environmentally sensitive lands into riparian corridors and wooded bottomlands that are vital for fish and wildlife habitat and to mitigate downstream flooding. Trees and native grasses will be planted in the easement area, and the hydrology of the floodplain will be restored.

Funding for this conservation program was obtained from the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 and includes both technical and financial assistance to restore the easements. All funds will be spent on targeted projects that can be completed with economic stimulus monies. The goal is to have all floodplain easements acquired and restored within 12 to 18 months.

The EWP Program's floodplain easement component allows USDA's NRCS to purchase easements on lands damaged by flooding. The restored floodplain will generate many public benefits, such as increased flood protection, enhanced fish and wildlife habitat, improved water quality, and a reduced need for future public disaster assistance. Other benefits will include reduced energy consumption when certain agricultural activities and practices are eliminated and increased carbon sequestration as permanent vegetative cover is re-established.

Interested landowners should contact their local USDA Service Center for more information about the EWP Program floodplain easements during the signup period, which ends on Friday, March 27. Information about EWP Program floodplain easement is available at www.nrcs.usda.gov/programs/ewp/Floodplain/index.html.

FSA Allocates Funds Through Recovery Act

USDA's Farm Service Agency recently announced that it will immediately use $14 million of the $173 million provided in the Recovery Act for its Direct Operating Farm Loan Program, which will give 2,042 farmers direct loans from the agency. Nearly 50 percent are beginning farmers and 10 percent are socially disadvantaged producers.

"These loans will be used to purchase items such as farm equipment, feed, seed, fuel, and other operating expenses, and will stimulate rural economies by providing American farmers funds to operate," said Cheryl Walker, farm loan chief for USDA's FSA in Maryland.

All remaining funding will be allocated through approved loans until all available funds have been expended. Applications are considered on a first come, first served basis, with special emphasis placed on beginning and socially disadvantaged applicants. The maximum loan amount is $300,000.

In keeping with the president's goal for the Recovery Act, this loan funding is intended for proper investment into the agricultural sector, to benefit both family farmers and rural economies. The Recovery Act was designed to preserve or create millions of jobs throughout the country, and these loans help ensure that recipients remain financially viable and local agribusinesses benefit from direct purchases.

Gov. O'Malley Calls For Tighter Restrictions On Death Penalty

by Michael Frost
Capitol News Service

ANNAPOLIS – With his hope of repealing the death penalty likely dashed for this year's legislative session, Gov. Martin O'Malley called Tuesday for tighter restrictions on the use of capital punishment in Maryland, even as opponents argued the proposed legislation went too far.

O'Malley urged the House Judiciary Committee to pass a bill that would require biological or DNA evidence, videotaped voluntary confessions or video linking defendants to a crime in order for cases to be eligible for the death penalty. O'Malley had lobbied hard for a full repeal of the death penalty before the Senate replaced repeal with these restrictions.

"I continue to believe that the day will come that we repeal Maryland's death penalty, even if we recognize that that day might not be here, yet," O'Malley said.

O'Malley acknowledged that the bill was short of the repeal that he and many others had hoped for, but said it still represented progress over "a very flawed current status quo."

Delegate Sandy Rosenberg, D-Baltimore, lead sponsor of the House bill, spoke in favor of the bill despite his preference for full repeal. He said it would significantly reduce the likelihood of executing an innocent person.

"The political reality is that we have a significant step forward with this legislation," he said.

Some death penalty supporters worried that the bill is too restrictive, citing numerous examples that would not be covered by the legislation.

Scott Shellenberger, state's attorney for Baltimore County and a member of the Maryland Commission on Capital Punishment, testified against the bill. He said it did not make sense to legislate judicial standards, and that doing so inevitably created loopholes.

"This is what happens when you legislate in a vacuum," said Shellenberger, a death penalty supporter.

Attorney General Douglas Gansler agreed with this sentiment in a telephone interview, calling the bill "ill-conceived, ill-thought- out, and awkward."

Gansler expressed concern about the qualification of photographs, ballistics evidence and non-videotaped confessions in capital cases, which are not directly referred to in the wording of the bill.

"Even if you stand on top of someone and unload your gun into a person, you can't get the death penalty," he said.

Gansler added that such a case would not be eligible even if the crime was captured in a photograph and the suspect confessed on audiotape in front of several witnesses. He also said the legislation would not allow fingerprints to qualify a case for the death penalty.

Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr., who also supports the death penalty, did not share the same concerns.

As written, "it's clear fingerprint evidence is admissible," he said after Tuesday morning's Senate session.

Miller has expressed opposition to holding any more votes on the bill in the Senate. He said that other bills could be used to clarify that fingerprint evidence would be included under the statute if questions remained.

Only one of the five inmates currently on death row, Heath Burch, would have been eligible for capital punishment under the proposed legislation. Raquel Guillory, a spokeswoman for Gansler, said in an e-mail. Burch's case included DNA evidence.

Five men have been executed since the death penalty was reinstated in Maryland in 1978. A de facto moratorium has been in place since 2006, when the Maryland Court of Appeals ruled that the state's lethal injection protocol did not comply with state law.

If the General Assembly passes a bill that maintains the death penalty, O'Malley has indicated that he will help implement regulations to allow executions to resume in the state. But that doesn't mean his opinion has changed.

"The so-called civil taking of human life is not just," he said.

HAVE AN ESCAPE PLAN

Selling a home has its challenges, some of which go beyond the obvious aspects of determining an asking price and developing a marketing plan. Just trying to keep your home in immaculate condition while living there is no mean feat, not to mention being prepared for showings at any given moment. However, experience proves that there are some basic steps to take to alleviate these stresses.

First, be prepared with a large plastic storage tub for each room. When an agent and buyers are on their way for a showing, quickly unclutter each room by placing toys, personal items, and knick-knacks in the tubs and putting them in the closet. Then it's easy to replace everything once your visitors have left.

Also have your "escape plan" determined. Decide in advance where you'll run off to for thirty minutes while your home is being shown. Maybe you'll go down to the park or the local coffee shop, but it helps to know where you'll go before you hop in the car and start driving around aimlessly waiting for prospective buyers to clear out of your home.

Finally, and perhaps most importantly, be flexible in your scheduling, as restrictions on your home's availability can make marketing the home difficult for your representative. With a little preparation, you can be ready for anything, particularly that full price offer! If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

Currently, she is owned by Tom Mecuro from Hagerstown and Richard Green from Delaware.

Occasionally, Paul shows Holsteins at the Garrett County Fair and neighboring county shows. Once every three years, he goes to the World Expo.

Two years ago, Paul had a grand champion Holstein at the Garrett County Fair that went on to be reserve champion in Harrisburg, Pa. She finally placed second at the World Dairy Expo.

Currently, about 10 percent of Paul's herd is red and white. He explained that the red hair color is merely a recessive gene.

"There are certain bloodlines that carry this red gene," he said. "Forty years ago, when a black and white Holstein cow had a red calf, the normal thing to do was destroy the calf, because nobody wanted a red calf from a black cow. In fact, the normal concept was that if you had a black cow that had a red calf, she probably got bred on the sneak to the neighbor's bull.

"Later on, they began to realize that there must be a red and white Holstein, so that started paying a lot of attention to where these few red calves were coming from. They finally got to the DNA era, and started to realize that this is a recessive gene. People started mating the two recessive gene carriers hoping to get a red one."

Paul noted that it's very simple today to determine if a black and white cow carries the red gene. By pulling a few tail hairs and sending them to the lab in Wisconsin, they can know within a week if the cow is a red carrier or not. From there, they can make a judgment on how to mate her.

"Probably half of the dairy farmers in Garrett County have a red and white animal or two, but two of my brothers-in-law and I are doing more work with the red and white," Paul explained.

Currently, about 15 percent of Paul's cows carry the recessive red gene.

The Yoders plan to have a merchandising auction on June 13 that will include 80 to 90 lots of embryos and cattle.

"What that means is that we're selling cattle that someone will probably want to use as foundation animals to build their own herd and might want to merchandise, too," Paul said. "In a general farm auction, whoever buys the cows will just milk them until they are no longer valuable as an asset to the milk herd. That's very different from one where someone wants to buy cows to have a family from and sell offspring as another means of income."

Approximately 25 percent of the animals sold at the sale will be consignment animals sold by other farmers.

Paul noted that the average milk cow today is worth about $1,200. At the time of his last sale in April 2007, the average was about $1,800. At that time, his cattle and embryos sold to 14 states, Canada, and Germany, with a top price of $20,000 and an average price above $4,400.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

RADIO RECEPTION

Q. Deep in the basement of an underground parking garage, my car radio doesn't get anything at all, but my cell phone still works. Why is that? Don't they both work on transmitted signals?

A. You're right that they're both transmitted signals, but they're of entirely different frequencies, and that makes all the difference.

Radio broadcast signals have a carrier frequency near 100 Mhz (100 megahertz = 100 million cycles per second). The wavelength of such signals is about 3 meters, nearly 10 feet. In an underground parking garage, there are metal beams here and there: pilings, supporting posts, ceiling I-beams, reinforcing rods inside the concrete, and so forth. The collection of all that metal forms a sort of "cage." In electrical engineering, it's called a Faraday cage, after the 19th century scientist Michael Faraday. It's able to trap electromagnetic signals that have a wavelength comparable to or greater than the spacing between the metal "bars."

You can walk (or drive a car) right through that cage, because the "bars" aren't very close together. But they're close enough to affect radio waves. Down in the basement levels of the parking garage, that Faraday cage captures all the electromagnetic waves carrying radio broadcast signals. Drive up to the first floor, near the exit to the street, and your radio can be heard once again.

Your automobile itself is an enclosed metal object, and it too acts as a Faraday cage. The antenna for the radio is outside the vehicle, sticking up in the air. If it weren't, you wouldn't hear a thing even out on the road away from buildings. To verify this, you can grovel around under your dashboard, reaching up to unplug the antenna wire from your radio. All you'll hear is static.

On the other hand, cell phones work on much higher carrier frequencies, in the microwave range. The word microwave refers to the very short wavelength of the signals – much less than a centimeter. Such short wavelengths can sneak right through the cage effect of the metal in the garage. And they come through the glass windows into your car.

Another factor is that cell phone conversations are transmitted digitally, meaning a series of ones and zeros, so extremely faint signals can be recognized out of the background noise. The band of frequencies that must be picked up is very narrow, unlike a radio broadcast.

As a science experiment you can do in your kitchen, put your cell phone into a metal pot and put the lid on, so it's completely surrounded by metal. Then have somebody call you up. The call won't go through, because the metal blocks the transmitted signal.

Dr. Sheahen is a physicist who was educated at MIT. He lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may e-mail them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

Daily Chores At Cherry Kreek Farm Include Milking, Science, Technology, And Producing World Champions

by Brenda Ruggiero

The words "science" and "technology" do not usually come up in a normal conversation about dairy farming. However, they are very much a part of the farming process, and are especially important to certain aspects. One example can be found at Paul Yoder's Cherry Kreek Farm in Oakland.

Last fall, a red and white Holstein that got her start as an embryo transplant at Paul's farm was named grand champion at the World Dairy Expo in Madison, Wis. Her name is Cherrie-Kreek Beulah-Red ET (meaning embryo transplant).

"This is really a milestone in the Holstein industry in Garrett County," Paul said. "There may be horses or beef animals that were grand champions at a major show, but this is the first Holstein that has ever been grand champion at such a prestigious show. It's not only an honor to us, but really a first for the county."

The World Dairy Expo is the largest and most prestigious dairy show in the world. Last year, there were 88,000 visitors viewing 3,000 of the finest dairy cattle from the United States and Canada, including 2,200 international visitors representing 54 countries.

Paul and his wife Naomi have been milking Holsteins at Cherry Kreek since 1979. They have six children, and five of them still work on the farm with them.

"The two youngest ones work with the cattle every day, and the older ones live on the farm, but have off-farm jobs," Paul said. "They help out in a pinch as we need them."

Paul explained that there are actually two farms side by side, together totaling 250 acres. They milk about 100 cows. Their "home" farm is Cherry Kreek; and he other farm is the General Kelly Farm, also the site of the Gortner Airport.

"There is a tremendous amount of Civil War history attached to the General Kelly Farm," Paul noted. "That is really something that the area people know little about, but that's another story."

Paul grew up on a dairy farm in the Oakland area, but noted that his family had a commercial herd rather than registered cows.

At one point, Paul noticed that red and white Holsteins were growing in popularity. Because of their red hair color, they were becoming somewhat of a novelty. Naomi suggested that they get one, and so they purchased one in 2000. They immediately started doing embryo transplant work, hoping to merchandise her offspring.

"She was in a stage of lactation where we could harvest embryos from her within 30 days after we got her," Paul said. "We began taking embryos from her and doing the transplants right away."

Paul explained that, until recently, there was only one facility in the United States that does invitro fertilization, sorting of semen, and cloning of animals. It is located in western Iowa.

"What we have been doing is sending the donor mammas to western Iowa, and they harvest the embryos and do the invitro fertilization," he said. "It's pretty simple if you understand the process. It's like if you have a kernel of corn, and you need to decide if you want to plant it in my garden or your garden. It has nothing to do with the genetic make-up of the corn. A kernel of corn is just like an embryo waiting to grow. In the same way, it doesn't matter if a surrogate mother is a beef cow or a Holstein. It doesn't affect the genetic make-up of the offspring."

He explained that the process involves flushing ovocytes, which are unfertilized embryos, off the ovary. They are then placed in a Petri dish with sorted semen. This means that the semen is sorted to control whether the resulting calf will be male or female.

The Petri dish then goes into an incubator for seven days. At that time, the ovocytes are checked to see if they have been fertilized, and those that were fertilized are implanted into surrogate mothers.

Paul noted that the process typically generates from two to 10 fertilized, or "good," embryos.

The surrogate mothers at the facility consist of a herd of 1,800 to 2,200 head of Angus cows. Once the surrogate mothers are pregnant, they are purchased and taken to the donor's farm. The entire process costs between $2,500 to $3,500, including about $2,000 for each surrogate mother purchased.

"This same facility has just started a new facility in Hagerstown, and also another one in Texas," Paul explained. "Now, we're taking our donor mothers to Hagerstown. It's much closer and, on top of that, we can take our own surrogate mothers to Hagerstown to put the embryos in, so we don't have to buy other animals. We can use lesser quality animals for surrogate mothers."

Paul noted that, although the procedure is expensive, there are several advantages to producing calves in this way.

"In our situation, we want females rather than males," he explained. "Females are the ones who produce the milk and the ones who are used in shows. You need only a small number of males in the herd. Using semen collection, one bull can service up to a million cows (through artificial insemination) in his lifetime. "That makes it very obvious," Paul said. "You don't need half as many bulls around as you do females. When you have males that you don't use for breeding purposes, they become meat animals."

IT'S A FAMILY AFFAIR – Diversification is often the key to success in almost any business, and the Paul Yoder family of Gortner has found this to be true in farming. Their Cherry Kreek farm along Blue Ribbon Road is now known for producing some of the finest Holstein cattle anywhere in the world through the relatively new technology of embryo transplant technology. Every member of the family, pictured above, is involved in the operation. Paul and his wife Naomi are pictured front center. At left and right are daughters Heidi and Paula, respectively. In the back, from left, are daughter Geneva and sons Kristoph, Jonathan, and Mark.

In addition, one can produce many more calves from an elite animal in a short period of time by using this method.

Paul explained that an elite animal is a very valuable one.

"In the Holstein breed, there is a number system that is in the Holstein Association's records," he said. "They will have a list of the top 2,000 cows, the top 10,000 cows, and so on. You can pull information from their web site as to who has a special cow."

Paul noted that they are in business to do two things. One is to produce milk, and the other is to merchandise cattle.

"We try to have elite animals that are desirable across the world," he said. "From these elite animals, we produce either calves or embryos, and can sell these embryos in the United States, Germany, Japan, anywhere across the world. The embryos that we don't put in surrogate mothers are frozen for future use, and can easily be shipped anywhere in the world."

Paul noted that at least 50 percent of his young female Holsteins are implanted with embryos on his farm. The other 50 percent are either artificially inseminated or bred to a bull on the farm.

Paul explained that Beulah was actually sold as a "pick of flush" before she was born.

"We had nine pregnancies from the mother, and in a merchandising sale in Georgia, we consigned her as a pick of flush. This is very common in merchandising sales today. You may have five pregnancies or you may have 10 pregnancies, and someone buys the pick of flush on the day of the auction. They pay 25% down that day, then the 75% remaining balance when the calf is 4 months old. At that time, the buyer goes to the farm to pick a calf from the entire group," he said.

Beulah was bought by Luke Coblentz in Kentucky via cell phone, based on her pedigree. He later sold her on a half-interest basis to Paul's brother-in-law.

"They owned her together until she calved as a 2-year-old," he said. "She then came back to my farm, and I milked her for several weeks. At that time, we started realizing the potential that she had as a show animal, so we contacted some major show people. They came and bought her and worked with her from

Climate Change And You...

by Liz McDowell

It has been a long, cold winter in Garrett County, though not as snowy as many cross-country skiers would like. With such cold winter weather, it's not uncommon to hear people at the office or in the check-out line snicker, "so much for global warming."

But don't confuse weather (day to day atmospheric conditions) with climate (long-term weather conditions). Several days of higher than normal temperatures is not a sign of global warming, but several decades most certainly is.

Regardless of the extra cold winter we've had this year, our climate is undoubtedly warming. This in and of itself is not news, since climate is always changing. What's different now is that humans are very likely responsible for the change. As such, two questions come to mind: What will this ultimately mean to us, and what if anything can be done to prevent this?

Everyone has heard about the impact of higher temperatures on Arctic sea ice because the decline has been so rapid. On top of natural year-to-year variations, there has been a slow and steady decline of about 10% per decade in summer sea ice coverage over the past 30 years, very likely the result of human-induced global warming (see figure).

The Arctic's native people and wildlife such as polar bears are bearing the brunt of this rapid warming trend, which is twice the global average. In the not-too-distant future, the people, plants, and animals of Garrett County will also be impacted by climate change. By the middle of the 21st century the mid-Atlantic is projected to experience warming that will impact human health, agriculture, and the forest industry

According to a recent report by the Union of Concerned Scientists, suitable forest habitat for species such as maple, black cherry, and hemlock will shift north. It's also anticipated that many wildlife species will be impacted as suitable forest habitat is lost, especially ruffed grouse, white-throated sparrow, magnolia warbler, and yellow-rumped warbler. Aquatic species in this region identified in this report as most sensitive to changing climate include native brook trout and smallmouth bass.

"Most scientists agree that the warming in recent decades has been caused primarily by human activities that have increased the amount of greenhouse gases in the atmosphere," states a 2008 report by the National Academies (a non-government, non-profit organization established to provide independent scientific and technological advice to the nation). Greenhouse gases that very likely resulted in the recent warming include not only carbon dioxide, but also methane, nitrous oxide, ozone, and halocarbons.

But the situation is not hopeless. Dr. Raymond Najjar, associate professor in the Department of Meteorology at Pennsylvania State University, has been studying climate change in the mid-Atlantic region for over 10 years. His research shows that the possible climate futures faced in the mid-Atlantic region are sensitive to our current greenhouse gas emission choices.

"The effects of CO2 emissions are long lasting because CO2 is not easily removed from the atmosphere and because the climate system has a lot of inertia," Najjar explained. "That means that the amount of warming we experience by the middle and the end of this century depends strongly on emissions over the next few decades."

People have the ability to reduce the amount of greenhouse gases emitted into the atmosphere. Not too many years ago, through a concerted international effort, we did something similar. When it was realized that chlorofluorocarbons (CFCs) were destroying the ozone layer, they were banned. Since then, CFC levels in the atmosphere began to decline and have continued to do so.

But it is unnecessary to wait for the state or federal government to take appropriate action to reduce greenhouse emissions. According to the National Wildlife Federation, individuals can take simple steps right now to influence the rate of global warming, including:

•Change or clean furnace and air conditioner filters regularly to keep heating and cooling systems running efficiently.

•Recycle aluminum cans, glass bottles, plastic, cardboard, and newspapers to reduce the energy needed to make new products.

•Check car tire pressure regularly (poorly inflated tires waste gas and cause extra pollution), carpool, and use mass transportation whenever possible.

•Set your water heater to a lower setting.

•Replace burned-out incandescent lights with compact fluorescent bulbs, which reduce energy use by up to 75 percent.

•Buy only home appliances and electronics that display the "Energy Star" label; for more information, go to www.energystar.gov •Purchase the most fuel-efficient car or truck that meets your needs, to reduce gas consumption, cut carbon dioxide pollution, and save money at the pump; compare the fuel efficiency of different models at www.fueleconomy.gov.

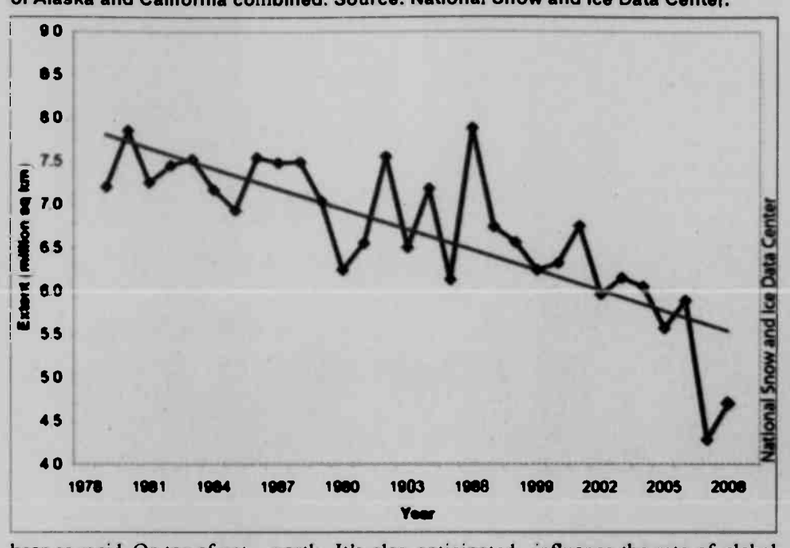
•Install a timer on thermostats to save heating and cooling energy at night and when no one is home.



So on the next cold day you hear someone scoff about global warming, politely inform them that they're missing the point. The earth really is getting warmer, and this will have dire consequences for future generations unless we act now.

But don't take my word for it. First educate yourself... not with AM talk radio and pseudo-scientific articles in the popular press, but by reviewing the scientific evidence. (See sidebar information.) Then share what you have learned with your neighbors and encourage them to join you in taking the simple steps listed above. In time our government will eventually follow the lead of its citizens, and initiate other changes that, it is hoped, will slow climate change and protect our fragile home planet for our children and grandchildren.

The long-term trend (straight line) indicates a decrease in area over 30 years greater than the areas of Alaska and California combined. Source: National Snow and Ice Data Center.

Reliable Sources of Information about Climate Change and its Impacts

Introduction

There is an almost endless amount of information about climate change on the Internet. Unfortunately, much of it is unreliable because there is no quality control – just about anyone can put almost anything on the Internet. The most reliable sources of information are scientific journal articles, because these are subject to peer review (i.e., evaluation by other scientists). Though not perfect, peer review often filters out bad science. The journal literature, however, is often difficult for non-specialists to cull through, so there have been numerous efforts to bring peer-reviewed science to more general audiences. Following are some Internet sources that are based on the peer-reviewed scientific literature and are relatively easy for the layperson to understand. Included are some regional impact assessments.

International

The Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) – http://www.ipcc.ch/.

This organization has put out four assessments of global climate change based on the scientific literature since 1990. A good place to start is the Summary for Policymakers of the AR4 (Fourth Assessment Report) Synthesis Report.

United States

U.S. Climate Change Science Program (CCSP) – http://www.climatescience.gov/.

This organization is similar to the IPCC, but relies mainly on U.S. scientists to create climate assessments. Recently the CCSP created 21 synthesis and assessment products, each concerning a specific aspect of climate change.

The National Academy of Sciences – http://dels.nas.edu/basc/index.shtml.

The academy is the major source of scientific advice to the nation. Within the academy is the Board on Atmospheric Sciences and Climate, which has published numerous reports about climate change. A good place to start is the recently published booklet Understanding and Responding to Climate Change.

Climate change in the Mid-Atlantic and Northeast

Northeast Climate Impacts Assessment (NECIA) – http://www.northeastclimateimpacts.org/.

The most recent climate assessment of the northeastern U.S., NECIA covered states from Pennsylvania to Maine. This was a collaboration between the Union of Concerned Scientists and 50 independent scientists. A report dedicated to Pennsylvania emerged from NECIA research, and can be found at this site.

Maryland Commission on Climate Change – http://www.mdclimatechange.us/index.cfm

A committee charged with developing an action plan to address the causes of climate change and to address its impacts on Maryland.

Climate change tree and bird atlases of the eastern U.S. – http://www.nrs.fs.fed.us/atlas/.

Developed by scientists at the United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) Forest Service, this web site presents current and projected distributions of 134 tree species and 147 bird species at 20-km resolution throughout the eastern U.S.

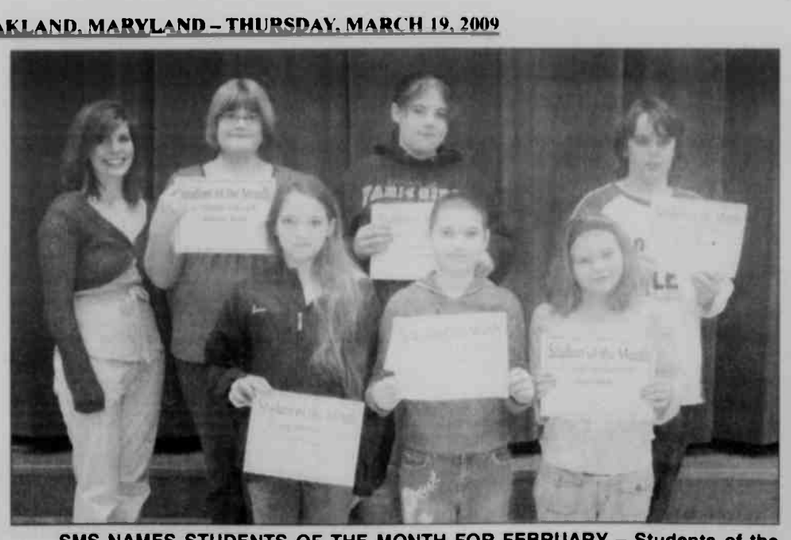
Hospice of Garrett County will sponsor training classes for patient care volunteers beginning April 4 and running through April 18. Classes will be held Saturdays from 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Hospice office.

Hospice is in need of patient care volunteers who provide companionship to terminally ill patients and their families. The volunteers may be asked to sit with the patient, run errands, or help with meals or housekeeping needs.



More volunteers are also needed for bereavement after-care. The Hospice bereavement team stays in touch with the family for one year after the death of a loved one.

The first class will begin with Brenda Butscher, executive director of Hospice, presenting an overview of Hospice. Debbie Workman, volunteer coordinator for Hospice, will present "Working with the Volunteer Coordinator." Cheryl Scheffel, director of clinical services, will speak on confidentiality, HIPPA and patient privacy, documentation, universal precautions, infection control and safety, signs and symptoms of approaching death, personal care, and sexual abuse.

Nancy Elizabeth Nimmich, MSW, social worker for Hospice, will teach listening skills, family dynamics, and stress management on April 11. Spiritual aspects will be presented by Pastor Randy Richardson, Hospice chaplain, that same day, and a tour of Newman's Funeral Home, Oakland, will take place in the afternoon.

The volunteer training classes will be completed on April 18, with Transfer Skills taught by Audrey Kennedy, PT from Garrett Rehab. Shirley Fitzwater, First United Bank and Trust, will speak about legal and financial planning, and Millie O'Haver, bereavement director, will speak on grief counseling skills.

For more information or to register, persons may call the Hospice office at 301-334-5151 or 1-800-521-5252.

USDA Home Loans At 4% Now Available

U.S. Department of Agriculture Rural Development announced that the interest rate for homeownership loans is at 4 percent and is expected to remain low in the coming months.

"With home prices at their lowest levels in years and combined with a great rate, it is a good time to purchase a home," said Kathy Beisner, public information coordinator for USDA Rural Development.

The USDA Rural Development home loan program is available to individuals and families in rural areas. Last year, Rural Development staff helped more than 150 homebuyers secure financing in rural Delaware and rural Maryland through their direct homeownership program.

Rural Development housing programs help fam-ilies and individuals in rural areas improve their economic security through affordable home loans and homebuyer education opportunities, Beisner explained.

In most cases, Rural Development home loans are available without a down payment. Depending on the applicant's income, monthly payments may be based on an interest rate as low as 1 percent. Loans are typically made for 33 years at a fixed-interest rate. Monthly payment assistance may also be available for those who qualify.

Eligibility for assistance is based on family income, and varies by county. Rural Development staff will help applicants calculate their adjusted family income and complete the application process.

To schedule an appointment or obtain more information, persons may visit the following web site: www.rurdev.usda.gov, or telephone the Rural Development office in Mtn. Lake Park at 301-334-6972.

GCMH To Recognize Poisnn Preventinn Week, March 15-21

Garrett County Memorial Hospital will recognize National Poison Prevention Week, March 15-21, with an informational display in the hospital's lobby. Since 1961, the third week in March has been designated National Poison Prevention Week, focusing national attention on the dangers of poisonings and how to prevent them. This year's themes are "Children Act Fast, So Do Poisons", and "Poisons Span a Lifetime."

"By educating Garrett County citizens on preventive steps to take against poisonings, we are keeping families safe," said Jeannie Miller, RN, GCMH Wellness Department. "It is very important that people arm themselves with basic knowledge on poison prevention in the home, such as keeping chemicals and medicines out of the reach of children, and carefully reading the labels and dosages on all products."

More than 2 million poisonings are reported each year to the 61 Poison Control Centers across the U.S. According to the American Association of Poison Control Centers, approximately 90 percent of poisonings happen at home, and over 50 percent of poisoning exposures involve children under the age of 6. The majority of fatal poisonings occur among adults, especially older adults.

National Poison Prevention Week was established by the U.S. Congress, and is commissioned by the National Poison Prevention Week Council, an organization made up of public and private partners who are committed to reducing unintentional poisonings and promoting poison prevention.

To learn more about ways to help prevent poisonings, persons may visit the web site at PoisonHelp.hrsa.gov, which provides resources for poison prevention. In case of an emergency, individuals can contact the Poison Help number at 1-800-222-1222.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Navy Seaman Recruit Brianne Burdett, daughter of Jacyne F Burdett of Delmar and Thomas W. Burdett of Friendsville, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Burdett completed a variety of training, which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, firefighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis was also placed on physical fitness.

The capstone event of boot camp is "Battle Stations," an exercise that gives recruits the skills and confidence they need to succeed in the fleet. According to a Navy spokesperson, "Battle Stations" is designed to "galvanize the basic warrior attributes of sacrifice, dedication, teamwork, and endurance in each recruit through the practical application of basic Navy skills and the core values of honor, courage, and commitment."

Burdett is a 2006 graduate of Delmar High School.

NHS Student Accepted Into Leadership Prog.

Trace Livengood, a student at Northern High School, has been accepted into the People to People World Leadership Forum, where he will join a select group of students from April 13 to 19 in Washington, D.C., to study leadership and explore some of the United States' monuments and institutions.

Livengood will examine the characteristics of American leadership during times of national challenge and prosperity, with locations starting from Capitol Hill to the Smithsonian Intitution, and from Gettysburg National Military Park to the International Spy Museum.

According to a spokesperson, forum delegates will also participate in small-group discussions and exercises to experience first-hand how successful leaders develop strategies, make decisions, build consensus, and foster change.

Livengood was nominated and accepted for the honor based on outstanding scholastic merit, civic involvement, and leadership potential.

Livengood is the son of Ed and Krista Livengood, Accident. He is the grandson of Irvin and Sandy Livengood, and John and Barbara Allen, all of Frostburg.

BOYS SCOUTS PRESENT "WINTER WARMIES" – Boy Scout Troop 57 members from Swanton are learning the importance of helping their community by participating in service projects. For their "winter warmies" project, the Scouts collected hats, scarves, and gloves for House of Hope clients. The boys recently presented the clothing to Art Lake, House of Hope representative. Pictured, left to right, are Hunter Metcalfe, Sam Thomas, Brandon Tichnell, Logan Bever, Zach Virts, and Lake.

The program is coordinated by People to People Leadership Programs to fulfill the vision President Dwight D. Eisenhower had for fostering world citizenship when he founded People to People during his presidency in 1956. For additional information, persons may visit the web site at www.wlfleaders.org.

Cathy Arnold, HIS LOSING HAIR (CELLS)?
The delicate, bristly cells that line the snail-shaped chamber of the inner ear (cochlea) known as hair cells are responsible for converting incoming sound waves into the electrical impulses that the brain uses to create our perception of sound. However, hair cells are vulnerable to noise. Simply listening to an hour of blaring rock music can wither thousands of hair cells for the rest of an afternoon. Fortunately, they often revive, along with hearing. On the other hand, a single explosive blast louder than 160 decibels can instantly destroy hair cells by splitting open the membranes upon which they sit. More commonly, prolonged exposure to milder levels of noise has a cumulative effect that may result in permanent hearing loss.
Unfortunately, many people don't realize they have exposed their hearing to dangerous sound levels until it is too late. Fortunately, today more than ever, people from all walks of life are learning more about their hearing and the ways to protect it. If you or a loved one has suffered hearing impairment due to excessive noise, injury, disease, or the aging process, remember, you've got a friend at AUDIBEL.
P.S. As hair cells bend in response to detecting sound, much like a field of wheat bends in the wind, internal changes in the hair cells create electrical signals that go to the brain.

"A stitch in time saves nine." This old saying is timeless and wise advice.

Do you ever feel as if your life is coming unraveled? Misfortunes can increase until it seems like nothing is going your way.

There's a way to patch things up! Allow God to help you regain optimism. Experience the peace of mind that comes from unconditional trust in His power. Let Him repair your problems.

Trust God and make regular worship a part of your life. With His help, your life can be "all sewn up".

Visit the Sick

Those suffering with illness or injury are often doubly afflicted, suffering the primary pain or discomfort of their illness or injury as well as the secondary pain of being isolated or cut off from normal human contact. When we know of someone who is sick or injured, one of the first things that we can do to establish contact is to send them a card or a brief note to simply let them know that we are thinking of them and that we care. Then, find out if they want to have visitors, and when it would be convenient for us to visit. Before visiting, ask if there is anything that they need, and when we visit, consider bringing a small gift, such as a magazine or the newspaper. During our visit, especially if it is crowded or there are others waiting to see them, we should not stay too long. In addition, we should not be afraid to talk about the person's illness or injury, unless they signal that they would rather not talk about it. If they are in the hospital for a long time, we could visit them periodically and we should not forget about them after they go home. Like every corporal work of mercy, visiting the sick is about attending to the needs of those less fortunate than us, so we should be attentive to those needs, and ask the person what they need. Finally, pray for the sick, and even offer to pray a short prayer with the sick person.

And the prayer of faith will save the sick man, and the Lord will raise him up; and if he has committed sins, he will be forgiven. Therefore confess your sins to one another, and pray for one another, that you may be healed.

Aloe Vera May Slow Cancer Growth

Aloe vera is a tropical plant found in many places throughout the world. Historically, the natural gel from the leaf of the plant has been used topically to treat burns, wounds, and psoriasis. Dried latex from the lining of the leaf has been used as a laxative. In 2002 the United States Food and Drug Administration ruled that aloe taken orally is not generally safe or effective as a laxative. However, Aloe does have anti-inflammatory and anti-oxidant properties. This is probably due to aloe's ability to reduce the formation ofthromboxane, a substance involved in the inflammatory process.

Some studies suggest that aloe modifies the immune system and may slow the growth of cancer cells in a laboratory test tube. Aloe contains many components; some of these include acemannan, aloeride, and DEHP. These components may be responsible for aloe's immune-modulating and anti-cancer properties. The ability of aloe to slow the growth of cancer cells in humans has not been studied. Topical use of aloe vera is considered safe. Gels or creams containing aloe vera may be used on the skin to treat minor burns.

Josh Duhamel

Q: I enjoy watching the reruns of "Las Vegas," and Josh Duhamel – who plays Danny – kind of resembles the actor who plays Ryan on "All My Children." I do not think Ryan is played by Josh, but a woman I work with does. Who is right? –Kristine MacMillan, Saginaw, Mich.

A: You are: Ryan is played by Cameron Mathison on the ABC serial, but Duhamel did have a role on the show prior to his "Las Vegas" run. The husband of music star Fergie portrayed Leo du Pres over several years (1999-2002).

Q: NBC recently showed the two-part miniseries "XIII." It ended with the feeling that there should be, or would be, a sequel. Do you know if, or when, the sequel will air? –Dwaine Braddy, Bothell, Wash.

A: We feel reasonably confident in advising you not to wait for, nor to expect, a sequel. The ratings for the Val Kilmer-starring suspense drama were, to be charitable, not great; in fact, one assessment that we saw called them "strikingly awful."

Q: Could you tell me what happened to "MADtv"? It just disappeared. –Vera Hudnall, Arlington, Texas

A: Fox announced in November that the sketch comedy show would be ending after 14 seasons. The network is still running it, though, so you might want to check with your local Fox affiliate if you're not seeing it. Also, "MADtv" repeats from past years continue on Comedy Central, which reportedly has the option of ordering new episodes; as of this writing, that hadn't happened.

Q: Lt. Andy Flynn on "The Closer" is played by Anthony John Denison, who also was on the Michael Mann-produced 1980s series "Crime Story." On that show, Denison portrayed Ray Luca, who left an impression on me as a nasty villain, but I can't recall much more than that. Can you add any more info on the character? –Paul Moratto, Gambrills, Md.

A: In the NBC show, Luca was a Chicago mobster who ultimately was sent to Las Vegas to keep an eye on casino interests there – and managed to survive the atomic bomb blast that capped the first of the series' two seasons. Lt. Mike Torello (Dennis Farina, who had been an actual Chicago cop) tailed Luca.

Reader Scolds Dog Owner's Dad

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I am very disappointed by your lighthearted response to the letter written by Rod S. ("How to Correct a Pet Owner"). You start out by blaming the breed of the dog! As if all small dogs get ill-tempered and neurotic, excitable and energetic. Like that's the issue at hand. It clearly is not.

You went on to say that the dog's owner has some issues, but that there are no clear signs of abuse or neglect. You're wrong! Clearly there is abuse! You told him the best thing to do is lead by example. So by not telling his son to knock it off and ignoring the real issues here is a good example?

You told him not to "preach" to his son. That's about the only thing I agreed with you on. Heck no, I wouldn't preach either. I would tell him straight out he's wrong and if he keeps it up, I would take the dog and give it to someone who doesn't have dominance issues and the need to control.

Rod needs to "step-up" and tell his son just like it is. Be a real man, Rod! When something makes you uncomfortable and you think it's wrong, then it most likely is. — Disappointed in New York

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: I wrote that the son's "discipline" (flipping Junior on his back and scolding him) was a terrible way to correct a dog.

But we'll have to agree to disagree on how the owner's dad should approach the situation. Confronting his grown son and making him angry could cause the son's treatment of Junior to become worse, if he is in fact harming the dog. I am with you on the possibility of abuse — Junior's behavior is a big warning sign — but unfortunately there was no clear evidence given in the original letter.

You quite rightly point out that if something feels wrong, then it most likely is. If the father feels this way, he needs to investigate further.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q. I have a bottle of Jim Beam, still sealed, that was originally purchased almost 40 years ago. What is it worth? — Anita, Hermiston, Ore.

A. Bernie V. Durrance is an expert, and he can help you. His contact information is B.V.D. on Bottles, 1008 North Star Drive, Colorado Springs, CO 80906; and 719-577-9033. His Internet addresses are bvd30@hotmail.com, and ww.worldcollectorsnet.com/jimbeam/bernie4sbeam.html. P.S. Durrance says on his Web site that collectors are only interested in the bottle, not its contents.

Q. I have 10 small cards that appear to be fairly old. They depict world scenes and sports figures and were published by Pan Handle Scrap. What do I have, and are they worth anything? — Richard, Wolcott, N.Y.

A. To find an answer to your questions, I contacted an expert: Paul Davis, 308 Landsende Road, Devon, PA 19333. Davis, who collects trade cards of tobacco companies and is a recognized expert in this field, said the Pan Handle Scrap tobacco company issued your series of cards during the early years of the past century. He adds that they are of little interest to collectors and — depending on the condition — would sell for only a dollar or two each.

Recognized For Lifesaving Effort

Lindsay Crawford, a local 12-year-old, was recently able to help a friend in distress thanks to the Safe Sitter® course offered by Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Safe Sitter graduates learn how important it is to always stay safe, always stay clam, and always provide comfort.

Crawford was with a friend during class having a snack of pineapple chunks, when her friend who was laughing at a classmate began to cough. When her friend's face turned red and her coughing slowed and eventually stopped, Crawford said she knew she needed to do something to help.

She remembered her training and she stayed calm. She performed the abdominal thrusts needed to dislodge the pineapple from her friend's airway.

"She thanked me over and over," said Crawford. "It felt really good." Safe Sitter also recognized her on a national level through the March monthly newsletter.

Anyone interested in future Safe Sitter classes may contact the Wellness Department at Garrett County Memorial Hospital by calling 301-533-4366.

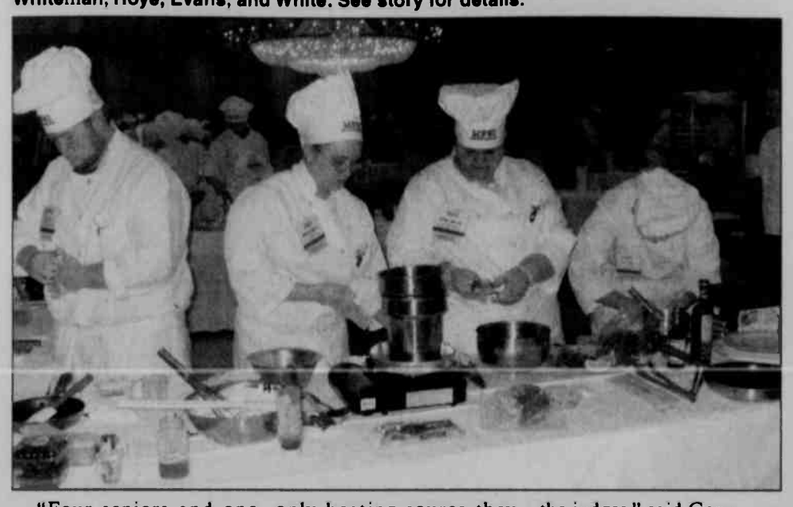
Five SHS Chefs Compete In State Culinary Comp.



Five Southern High School students recently attended and participated in the 2009 Maryland ProStart Student International Culinary Competition.

The event was held at Martin's Crosswinds in Greenbelt, and this was the first year Southern has had an opportunity to participate in the statewide competition. The entire competition hosted 22 schools and over 110 students for the events.

Tyler White and Allen Whiteman prepared the entrée. Miranda Evans prepared the appetizer, and Natasha Hoye prepared the dessert. Jordan Goodge attended the competition as an alternate. The students had to prepare two identical meals of their choice. One plate was delivered to the chef judges for taste and the other plate was on display to be judged on appearance. All steps of the meal are to be completed within an hour, which Southern also accomplished.

"Four seniors and one junior are currently in the Foods III Program," said instructor chef Patrick Gary. "Because I incorporated ProStart with Foods III, these students were permitted to compete." Students normally prepare for the event in early fall, and Southern High School students started in January. Southern was ranked 11th of 22 schools by the end of the competition.

"They would possibly have been closer to third place had they corrected some areas in food preparation and quality," said Gary.

Along with the time constraint, competitors were also limited by the appliances and tools they could use. No electrical appliances could be utilized, and the only heating source they could use were two portable propane burners.

"Although they did not place, the four students that competed did remarkably well and received praise and constructive criticism from the judges," said Gary.

All participating student were given a $1,000 scholarship to Stratford University Culinary Program. The new ProStart culinary program will start in the fall of 2009.

Scholarship Fund Established For Veterinary Majors

The Joyce Colbert Veterinary Scholarship Fund provides scholarships for students from Garrett, Tucker (W.Va.), and Preston (W.Va.) counties who are planning careers in rural veterinary medicine. High school seniors and graduates must apply for scholarships by April 1.

The Joyce Colbert Veterinary Scholarship Fund is administered by the Tucker Community Foundation.

"Over $20,000 was contributed to the fund in 2008," said Robert Burns, the foundation's executive director. "Students may download application forms from the foundation web site at tuckerfoundation.net."

The scholarship was established in the memory of Dr. Joyce Colbert, a livestock veterinarian for the many farmers and ranchers of Garrett, Preston, and Tucker counties, and a longtime resident of Deer Park. Colbert died on November 7, 2007.

Loar Auxiliary Names Volunteer Of The Month

The Loar Auxiliary of Garrett County Memorial Hospital has named Jim Croston as its Volunteer of the Month for March.

Croston has been a volunteer with Garrett County Memorial Hospital since 2000. He serves in both the Loar Auxiliary and VIVA (Volunteers in Various Areas at the hospital).

In his capacity as a Loar Auxiliary volunteer, Croston is the food manager in the gift shop and also manages the food vending machine located near the hospital cafeteria.

"Jim is in the building every day, sometimes twice a day, stocking, ordering, loading the vending machine, pricing, and anticipating the daily food needs of the employees, volunteers, and customers of GCMH," said Denise Shay, gift shop manager.

She added that Croston takes special interest in finding and stocking items requested by the customers and spends many evenings helping to unpack and receive new inventory for the gift shop.

As a VIVA volunteer, Croston works every Monday and helps to process the hospital's outgoing mail.

The Loar Auxiliary is a volunteer organization of Garrett County Memorial Hospital. Although its main function is the management and staffing of the hospital gift shop, the Loar Auxiliary has branched out to include oversight and management of the Cup O Joe vending area.

Additionally, the auxiliary hosts special vendor sales, sponsors bake sales, and holds various other fundraisers that all ultimately benefit the hospital.

Anyone interested in volunteering for the Loar Auxiliary may call the hospital's Volunteer Services Department at 301-533-4041.

Nutrition Fest Scheduled At Senior Center

The Grantsville Senior Center will hold a Nutrition Festival on Thursday, March 26, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The event will begin with a welcome, food demonstration and tasting, and food safety bingo.

Featured speaker Abbi Kifer, a registered dietitian, will present "Cancer Prevention Through Healthy Lifestyle" at 11:15 a.m. and will explain the importance of food choices, physical activity, and maintaining a healthy weight. She will also discuss a few specific recommendations for a diet to prevent cancer and easy lifestyle habits for everyday life.

"You will leave this session with information that may shock you and save your life," said an Area Agency on Aging spokesperson. "By following a few simple guiding principles, we all have the ability to decrease the risk of developing cancer."

After lunch, an event summary will be presented, prizes awarded, and Nintendo Wii exercise games demonstrated.

Deer Park Man Sentenced Ta One Year For DUI, Driving On Revoked License

The following cases were heard recently in Garrett County District Court with Judge Leonard J. Eiswert presiding. Of those cases was one of Clarence William Collins, 60, Deer Park, who was handed a guilty verdict for charges of driving under the influence (DUI) and driving on a revoked license, and for both charges was sentenced to one year, with 11 months suspended, two years of supervised probation, to be served concurrently, and $115 in fines.

Collins' charges stemmed from November 2008 when Garrett County sheriff's officers responded for a reported vehicle collision. Collins was found to be intoxicated while operating a tractor that had hit a car.

Officers found that Collins' license was revoked in the state of West Virginia, and he failed the field sobriety tests. He was placed under arrest and taken to the Garrett County Detention Center. He was not prosecuted on charges of failure to drive right of center, DWI, driving an uninsured vehicle, and endangerment by intoxication.

In an unrelated case, Marc William Burns, 23, Oakland, was found guilty for a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) possession not marijuana charge, and was sentenced to 60 days with 30 days suspended, 18 months of supervised probation, and $57.50 in fines.

Burns was charged in September 2008 when members of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force and Garrett County sheriff's officers executed a search and seizure warrant of his residence. The search revealed a bag of marijuana, digital scales containing marijuana residue, plastic bags, wax paper bags containing heroin residue, spoons containing heroin residue, an aluminum foil smoking pipe containing burnt marijuana, a mirror with unknown CDS residue, and a straw with unknown CDS residue.

Based on the amount of substance found in Burns place of residence, it was enough for officers to indicate an intent to distribute marijuana. He was not prosecuted on charges of CDS possession of marijuana and CDS possession of paraphernalia.

In another district court hearing, Jason Dean Turner, 31, Holtwood, Pa., was found guilty for a CDS possession of marijuana charge and was sentenced to 30 days with 30 days suspended, one year of unsupervised probation, and $307.50 in fines. He was also charged for driving on a suspended out of state license, with the charge being placed on stet with conditions being to obey all laws.

Turner was charged after Maryland State Police initiated a traffic stop in July 2008. Upon contact with Turner and a routine license check, officers found that his license was expired and was currently suspended. He was placed under arrest for driving on a suspended out-of-state license.

A search incident to arrest revealed a bag of marijuana and a smoking pipe with marijuana residue. Turner was not prosecuted for charges of CDS possession of paraphernalia, driving at a speed exceeding the posted speed limit, failure to display a license on demand, and driving with an expired license.

Stephanie Renee Small, 19, Mt. Olive, N.J., was charged in July 2008 for CDS possession of marijuana, two charges of CDS possession not marijuana, and CDS possession of paraphernalia. Her case was put on stet, with conditions being to complete 40 hours of community service. Her charges came from a traffic stop by GCSO and GCNTF.

Terry Lee Grimm, 40, Oakland, was charged with assault in the second degree. The case was put on stet with conditions being to have no violent contact with the victim of assault. He was charged in October 2008 for an altercation with an adult.

Barry Lynn Anderson Jr., 25, Terra Alta, W.Va., was charged with violating an out-of-state protective order. His case was placed on stet with conditions being to complete 40 hours of community service. He was charged in September 2008.

Loretta Ann Sisler, 28, Mtn. Lake Park, was charged for disorderly conduct in October 2008 after causing a disturbance at a local business. Her case was placed on the stet docket.

Clifford Fran Armel III, 25, Allison, Pa., was not prosecuted for a May 2008 charge of stealing another's credit card.

Scott William Brown, 31, Oakland, was not prosecuted for a December 2008 charge of theft of $500 plus value.

Richard Linden Fries, 52, Oakland, was not prosecuted for an unauthorized removal of property charge from June 2008.

DUI/DWI CASES

The following driving while under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI) cases were heard in recent Garrett County District Court proceedings, with Judge Eiswert presiding.

Timothy William McDaniel, 25, Md., pleaded guilty to a DUI per se charge from August 2008, was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) verdict, and was sentenced to 30 days with 30 days suspended, one year of unsupervised probation, and $307.50 in fines. He was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DWI.

John Gerard Brohawn, 56, Md., was handed a PBJ after pleading guilty to a DWI charge from January 2008, and was sentenced to 30 days with 30 days suspended, one year of unsupervised probation, and $307.50 in fines. He was not prosecuted on a charge of DUI.

Jeffrey Scott Smith, 52, Texas, pleaded guilty to a DWI charge from August 2008, was handed a PBJ and was sentenced to 30 days with 30 days suspended, one year of unsupervised probation, and $250 in fines. He was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DUI per se.

David A. Lipscomb, 44, W.Va., was handed a PBJ after pleading guilty to a DWI charge from September 2008, and was sentenced to 24 months of unsupervised probation and $100 in fines. He was also given conditions of attending AA meetings for 13 weeks, 35 hours of community service, and total abstinence from the use of alcohol and illegal CDS. He was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DUI per se.

Phone Volunteers Needed To Assist Local Sr. Citizens

The Garrett County Area Agency on Aging is seeking volunteers to help elderly individuals who are homebound, without immediate family in the area, or in need of a "little friendly" conversation.

"If you could set aside just a few minutes of your day to help another Garrett County resident without ever leaving your home, would you be willing to volunteer?" asked an agency spokesperson.

AAA has a program to assist with this request, the Telephone Reassurance Program, but it is dependent on community volunteers. At present there are not enough volunteers to handle the requests for phone calls, according to the spokesperson.

"We receive requests from county agencies and family members who live out of the area," she said. "They just need someone to telephone their loved ones on a regular basis. These brief phone calls are not only a morale booster for the senior citizen, they also provide a way of checking on the overall well-being of the older person on a regular basis."

AAA will provide basic training before assigning the volunteer to a senior citizen.

"Volunteers are not expected to visit, run errands, make referrals, etc., just make the telephone calls and submit a simple record of calls made," the spokesperson noted. "If you think that is possible for you, then please consider volunteering as a telephone reassurance volunteer."

For further information, or to volunteer for the program, persons may call Beverly Carvell at 301-334-9431, ext. 137.

Systemic Lupus Erythematosus Treatment

Lupus is an autoimmune condition characterized by chronic inflammation that may affect the skin, joints, kidneys, heart, and or lungs. Systemic lupus erythematosus (SLE) is the most common and a serious type of lupus. The immune systems in individuals with this condition attack both foreign substances in the body as well as healthy tissues. Signs and symptoms of SLE include depression, fatigue, easy brusing, and or joint pain. Symptoms of lupus typically occur as periodic flares, with intermittent remissions.

Individuals affected by SLE are encouraged to lead a healthy lifestyle so as to minimize the impact of the symptoms, including regular exercise, a healthy diet, and adequate rest. For mild to moderate symptoms, non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs such as ibuprofen and naproxen are available over the counter or with a prescription for the treatment of inflammation and pain. Anti-malarial medications, such as hydroxychloroquine, may be prescribed for the prevention of SLE flare-ups, although there is no relationship between malaria and lupus. Corticosteroids, such as prednisone, work to reduce inflammation although are typically only used for short-term treatment.

We extend a compassionate helping hand.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

I'm sure happy for my Caitlin, because she joined some fellow WVU students and Mario Vallano, also from Bittinger, but a student at Frostburg State University, on a trip to Costa Rica. Caitlin really wants to see and learn about other cultures. But it is so very sad for me that she's not coming home for spring break.

I can't wait for spring to really get here. So far, I have heard of no one who has seen any good signs of spring, except it has been several weeks since we had any snow. That is plenty good news, and the endless ice is gone, too.

Spring break is a great time for college students and their professors. It is as much a break for the teachers, who are busy playing catch-up with grading papers and exams. In an ordinary semester, I collected about 500 papers and exams. Since each one took about half an hour to grade, that was quite a lot of time, especially for English professors. However, even psychology professors at Frostburg State University are fully booked for work this week.

Some students do school work during spring break, mostly trying to get ahead for the big push at the end of the semester. But some just take it easy. I remember one great spring break when the season was far enough along to allow me to put in my early garden.

It's nice to have my niece and nephews around. Blakely Glotfelty and Matthew and Scotty Bass deserted College Park for home in Bittinger.

The Terrapins are playing the semi-final game of the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament, facing the always formidable Duke Blue Devils. Although I was pleased that in the first half Maryland opened a five-point lead, I seriously doubted it could last. The rest of the game was close all the way, but the final score was Duke over Maryland by about five points. So this year, there is no ACC championship for Maryland unless the women's team wins their tournament, which is very possible.

Even after this disappointing loss, the men should still get the NCAA tournament bid after Friday's strong victory over Wake Forest, a top-20 team. They may meet the other team with a big group of followers in Bittinger led by Bill Southerly, the West Virginia Mountaineers, who also will probably go to the "Big Dance."

Like Maryland, they were stopped in the semi-final of the Big East Conference by Syracuse. But even a late exit in the ACC and Big East tourney will not prevent a team with a solid season to go on to the national tournament, especially teams from the powerhouse conference like ACC and the Big East.

The last couple weeks, I have been convinced I am developing diabetes. I hear that a common major symptom is extreme thirst. Logically, following the thirst also comes excessive urination. Another symptom is extreme fatigue. I have been even more tired than usual, and I am tired lots of times mainly because I don't sleep well. Also, diabetes does run in my family, big time.

My Glotfelty grandmother Emma had only a mild case, but my Buckle grandmother Linnie and her daughter – my mother Ruth – had/have full-blown cases. My daughters have a high risk because their Sussman grandmother had it, and her brother and nephew each lost a leg from it. So I am very nervous about it, and I'm glad I finally got a doctor appointment on Monday to get a blood test.

I just want to know what's wrong with me. I hate to think I might need insulin like my mother and her mother, and take a daily shot.

I was surprised to learn that Bill Southerly has diabetes. He can control it with just taking some pills. But it is a serious disease with some bad long-range effects – risk of heart attack, amputation, and even severe kidney disease.

A good friend has it, and she is facing either dialysis or a transplant. In case I do have it, the sooner I find out, the better. I want treatment to prevent those serious effects and to feel better, because for the last month or so I have been so tired; actually exhausted. Right now, it is almost 9 p.m., pitch dark, and it feels like midnight to me.

I was able to visit my mother last Sunday afternoon, courtesy of a ride from brother Barry. She is hanging in there pretty well, but her treatment is on hold until they do a scan. She is enjoying having the Glotfelty kids around while they are on spring break. She wants to say "thank you" for all the visitors, cards, and flowers. They mean very much to her.

I was wrong about no one seeing any signs of spring. I learned that Sheila Southerly saw skunk cabbage blossoms along their pond. Last week, she heard some robins, and they were on her lawn today. My bird feeder station is pretty busy, but just with birds that overwinter here.

In the last week, I hit my lowest point in terms of my mood. I don't feel like I have any real friends anymore. After I left messages on several "friends'" machines and got no return calls, I felt almost totally alone.

But then this Sunday morning I got a call from my friend Mike, my former physical therapist. I called him because I am having some problems and thought maybe he could help me. Believe it or not, he actually came over. Then in the late afternoon, my old good friend Cissy VanSickle came to see me. So thank God I do still have a few friends.

It's hard to believe that AIG is still paying millions of dollars in bonuses to its executives. AIG is saying that those bonuses were promised a while ago in contracts, and it would cost money to break those contracts. Those are "sacred," but the government demands that the car companies break their contracts with their workers – not bonuses, just wages.

It's nice hearing about new aid to small businesses instead of just big financial companies.

Don't forget about the Parish Youth Group's spaghetti dinner at the fire hall this Friday, March 20, from 3 to 7 p.m. Instead of a set price, there will be a free-will offering for the dinners.

Naomi and Denver Beitzel visited their son Terry and his family last week. Then they headed south to Alabama so Denver could do a bit of wild turkey hunting.

Lottie Brenneman had to spend a few days in the hospital in Cumberland for some breathing problems, but she is home now.

Pastor Randy Richardson is in Tennessee with his cousin, believe it or not, to do some wild boar hunting with dogs. He will be back in time for this Sunday's service.

Kim Powell's mother is out of the hospital and into a Kingwood nursing home, luckily where her husband is staying. That will be nice, as they can be together before they both can go home to Terra Alta.

One thing for sure, it is very dreary around Bittinger... cloudy, foggy, and a light rain is falling.

I agree with Mary Brenneman Frey 100% – Everyone will feel much better when sunshine returns and spring arrives. Of course, spring officially arrives this Friday, but that doesn't mean much weather-wise.

St. Mark's To Host GriefShare 13-Week Series

A new 13-week series of GriefShare meetings will begin on Tuesday, March 24, hosted by St. Mark's Lutheran Church, Oakland. GriefShare is a non-denominational Christian support and therapy program for those in the grieving process.

Led locally by veteran lay leader Dick Schrock, the series is designed to help those who have lost loved ones, especially a child or spouse. There are thousands of GriefShare grief recovery support groups currently meeting throughout the United States, Canada and in 10 other countries, Schrock said.

Each session features a 30-minute video presentation highlighting one or more aspects of the grieving process, followed by guided individual and group discussion. While the weekly sessions do relate to each other, they are not interdependent, Schrock noted.

"Those who miss a session or two will not feel left out," he said.

St. Mark's is offering the program to the community free of charge. The sessions are scheduled on Tuesdays at 7 p.m. in the church's basement fellowship hall, located at 6 S. Second Street, across from the library. For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-2668.

The planned trip to Nashville needs more participants. No more shopping trips will be made until April besides the March 26 trip to eat lunch at the Terra Alta Center. Those interested in attending this trip should make reservations and meet at the Aurora United Methodist Church on March 26 for a 10:30 a.m. loading time.

Pickup And Bus Collide Head-On; Truck Driver Dies

An Accident man was pronounced dead at the scene of an head-on collision involving a school bus and a Ford pickup truck yesterday afternoon. The accident occurred in the area of Garrett Highway, just north of Keller Road, Accident. Garrett County sheriff's deputies were the first to respond to the 3:45 p.m. scene.

Robert Charles Biers, 63, was identified as the driver of the 1998 Ford truck. He had reportedly been traveling northbound while the 2005 Thomas school bus, driven by Samuel Jackson Thomas, 64, Accident, was traveling south carrying 23 juvenile passengers.

For undetermined reasons, the pickup reportedly crossed the center line and collided with the bus. Biers succumbed to his injuries at the scene of the accident.

Also responding to the scene were Accident and Deep Creek Lake fire companies, Northern and Southern rescue squads, Maryland State Police, and the Maryland State Highway Administration.

The 23 passengers and Thomas were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for minor injuries.

The investigation is currently under the direction of the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

House Economic Matters Committee Rejects Beitzel's Wind Turbine Bills

The 426th session of the Maryland General Assembly is winding down in Annapolis. But with just a little more than two weeks left, numerous bills introduced by local lawmakers have either not yet been acted upon or died in committees.

All of the wind turbine related bills introduced by Del. Wendell Beitzel received unfavorable reports from the House Economic Matters Committee last week. The bills would have provided local and statewide standards for commercial turbines.

The District 1A delegate noted that the development of wind farms has been an issue of "great importance" to the people of Garrett and Allegany counties since the O'Malley administration proposed in 2008 to put turbines on state property.

"It has been very clear ever since the Department of Natural Resources hearings from last year that some regulations need to be in place to ensure that Garrett and Allegany counties afford some protection to property owners who live near proposed wind turbine development sites," Beitzel said yesterday.

He noted that the Garrett County commissioners lack the authority to adopt regulations specifically for wind energy development without enabling legislation from the General Assembly, but the Board of Allegany County Commissioners is currently in the process of adopting wind turbine zoning requirements for Allegany.

Beitzel's HB 604 would have enabled the Garrett County commissioners to enact ordinances regulating the setback of commercial wind turbines.

HB 750 would have required the PSC and the Department of the Environment to develop general performance standards for turbines that are erected in the state, including generating capacity, turbine type or model, tower height, the number and size of blades, rotor diameter, noise, and setbacks.

"We cannot simply give a green light and a blank check to wind turbine developers," Beitzel said. "The goal is simply to provide some controls on the approval process."

His HB 605 would have repealed a provision that exempts public utility companies from having to obtain a certificate of public convenience and necessity for a generating station that produces electricity from wind under certain circum-

Friendsville Man To Spend Two Years In DOC

In Garrett County Circuit Court proceedings this week, Donald Lee Glass Jr., 53, Friendsville, was sentenced to two years in the Division of Corrections for manufacturing a controlled dangerous substance, in this case the growing of marijuana.

Noting that Glass's residence has been seized for forfeiture, Judge Jim Sherbin elected not to impose a fine.

Glass was indicted during the September 2008 term of the grand jury for the manufacturing and related charges.

Officers with the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force had executed a search and seizure warrant at Glass's residence in August and located 28 marijuana plants on the property and numerous items within the residence used to assist in the growing venture.

Glass had pleaded guilty in February.

In an unrelated case from last week, charges against Roger Lee Strawser Jr., 42, Oakland, were not prosecuted in open court by order of the state's attorney.

Strawser had been charged by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office with second degree burglary, theft, and malicious destruction of property

The charges stem from a break-in that occurred during the morning of Feb. 20, 2008, at the Deer Park VFW Post. According to court records, someone damaged a door valued at more than $500 to gain access to the post and removed a cash box and money bag containing $1,112.

In an unrelated case, Gage Thomas Welch, 21, Frederick, admitted in Garrett County Circuit Court last Wednesday to violating his probation. Judge Daniel Moylan, who had originally heard the case, accepted the plea, revoked Welch's probation, and reimposed the suspended sentence of 14 months in the Garrett County Jail.

Welch had originally pleaded guilty to possession with intent to distribute cocaine in October 2007. After serving time in the Garrett

In addition to prom dresses the shop also features bridal party attire. Dove Center staff member Brenda LeMay is shown modeling one of the new wedding dresses that will be available when the shop reopens. LeMay said the staff felt the shop was a great way to combine raising funds for the center with providing an affordable venue for women of all ages to shop for special occasions. The shop is located in downtown Oakland at 121 S. Second Street. The hours will be 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. on April 2 and 3, and 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on April 4. Garrett County Memorial Hosp. Will Open Wound Care Center

Officials at Garrett County Memorial Hospital have announced the opening of their new Wound Care Center in the Community Services building, located on the hospital campus. The center will open next month.

"We are very excited about opening this new wound care center," said Kendra Thayer, RN, director of wound care services at GCMH. "This is a much needed service to the community. Patients needing this service will benefit from the most current treatment options available."

Wound Care centers specialize in the care of patients with chronic wounds. Typically, this includes people with diabetes, circulation disorders, lymphedema, obesity, and mobility problems. All of these conditions can contribute to the development of ulcers and wounds that fail to heal with conventional treatment.

Wound Care centers also see patients with pressure ulcers or post-operative wounds that have failed to heal by normal intervention or patients who require follow-up care for burns or

Two Charged With Heroin Possession, Intent To Distribute

Garrett County state's attorney Lisa Welch, spokesperson for the Garrett County Narcotics Tack Force, announced the arrest of two local women for controlled dangerous substance violations.

Vicki Lee Curtis, 27, Grantsville, and Jenny Lynn Wilburn, 29, Westernport, were arrested after a traffic stop was conducted on their vehicle along Interstate 68.

Members of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force, assisted by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office K-9 Unit, conducted a stop on a 2000 Nissan Xterra that was traveling westbound on I-68. As a result of the investigation and positive K-9 alert, a search of the vehicle was conducted and revealed a quantity of heroin, Darvocet, hypodermic needles, and digital scales. The 2000 Nissan was also seized.

Curtis was charged with possession with intent to distribute heroin, possession of heroin, and possession of CDS paraphernalia. She was taken to the Garrett County Jail to be held on $25,000 bond.

Wilburn was charged with possession with intent to distribute heroin, possession of heroin, possession of Darvocet, and possession of CDS paraphernalia. She was released from the Garrett County Jail after posting $5,000 bond.

Sex Offender Found Dead In GC Jail Cell

An inmate at the Garrett County Detention Center died in his cell on Friday, March 20.

Harold Leroy Crowe, 87, Finzel, had been serving an 18-month sentence that began Jan. 5 of this year. Crowe had pleaded guilty in November to committing third degree sexual offenses on three minor victims and to committing sexual abuse of a minor on a fourth victim. A pre-sentence investigation report had been completed for the sentencing hearing.

Crowe was arrested by Maryland State Police in March 2008 after the victims made reports to police and protective service workers from the Department of Social Services of events that had occurred over the last few years.

He was sentenced in Circuit Court by Judge Jim Sherbin to 18 months in the Garrett County Jail on each of four sexual offenses. The sentences were to run concurrently. He was said to have been in poor health since the start of his incarceration.

The body was transported to the Office of the Chief Medical Examiner in Baltimore for an autopsy. Preliminary investigation revealed Crowe is suspected to have died of natural causes.

THE THREE BEARS – NO, MAKE THAT FOUR – ARE ESCORTED OUT – A black bear sow decided that the secluded spot under a local family's porch was a great place to settle this spring, and she proceeded to give birth there to her three cubs. Karen and Chris Myer, owners of the home located in the Beckman's Peninsula area, were not entirely unsympathetic to her plans, but did know her presence there with her offspring posed a very real danger. The Department of Natural Resources was called in, and officials tranquilized the 323-pound sow, checked her over as well as her cubs, and relocated the family to a much safer site. The bears were all deemed healthy, and in fact gained yet another cub in the process. The youngster had been abandoned by its mother, but this sow was reportedly content to adopt it. So now she has four. The public is advised to stay far away from cubs they may come upon in the wild. Mother bears are extremely protective and can be very aggressive if they detect any threat. The tranquilized sow is shown above with her previous landlords. Pictured from left are Karen, Chris, Teri, and Tim Myer. The Myers are shown below as they experience the rare opportunity of cradling black bears. After such handling, the cubs are treated with a substance that blots out the human scent. Otherwise, the mother may reject them. Photos courtesy of the Myer family.

Oakland Woman Handed One Year For Second Degree Assault Charge

In recent Garrett County District Court hearings, Charlene Renee Brun, 39, Oakland, was found guilty by Judge Leonard J. Eiswert for second degree assault. She was sentenced to one year with 10 months suspended and 19 days of credit for time served, plus two years of supervised probation, and fines were suspended.

Brun was charged in February after allegedly assaulting an adult. Officers were checking in on the victim at the place of residence, and upon making contact, officers noticed that both eyes of the victim were black and swelled shut.

After an investigation, it was reported that Brun had attempted to assault a minor, who proceeded to get behind the chair that the victim was sitting in. Brun then assaulted the victim. A warrant was placed for her arrest.

In an unrelated case, Clint Allen Artice, 36, Friendsville, was handed a guilty verdict for a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) possession of marijuana charge, and was sentenced to 60 days with all being suspended, one year of unsupervised probation, and $357.50 in fines.

Garrett County sheriff's officers and members of the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force initiated a traffic stop in September 2008 on Artice for reported traffic violations. An external K-9 scan of the vehicle was done resulting in a positive alert for the presence of drugs.

The defendant and a passenger in the car were asked to exit the vehicle, and officers proceeded to perform an interior search of the vehicle. The search revealed a smoking pipe, an envelope with marijuana, and a bag of marijuana. Artice stated that all the items were his. He was placed under arrest and transported to jail. He was not prosecuted on a CDS possession of paraphernalia charge.

In another district court hearing, Edward Scott Moats, 24, McHenry, was found guilty for a CDS possession of marijuana charge and was sentenced to 30 days, and fines were suspended.

Moats' charge stemmed from December 2008 when GCSO responded to his place of residence on the strength of a Maryland Circuit Court failure-to-appear bench warrant.

Moats was located in the residence, and after contact with officers, he was placed under arrest. During the search incident to arrest, officers located a bag of marijuana in one of Moats' pants pockets. He was not prosecuted on a CDS possession of paraphernalia charge.

David Allen Mayne Sr., 27, Oakland, was found not guilty on a second degree assault charge. He was arrested in December 2008 after a domestic dispute with another adult.

Patrick Sean Murphy, 42, Grantsville, was not prosecuted on charges of second degree assault, reckless driving, negligent driving, driver spinning wheels, and driving a vehicle in excess of reasonable and prudent speed on a highway. His charges were from September 2008.

Damian Ryan Duvall, 28, Vienna, Va., was not prosecuted on charges of CDS possession of marijuana and CDS possession of paraphernalia. He was charged in July 2008 after officers executed a search and seizure warrant of the defendant's residence.

DUI/DWI CASES

The following driving while under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI) cases were heard in recent Garrett County District Court proceedings, with Judge Eiswert presiding.

Michael Wayne Wil-burn, 47, Md., was found guilty for an April 2008 DUI per se charge and was sentenced to 3 years, to be served concurrently with other charges. He was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DWI.

Jessica Lynn McCleary, 23, Pa., was found guilty for a DWI charge from July 2008, and was sentenced to 30 days with 26 days suspended, 18 months of supervised probation, and $257.50 in fines. She was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DUI per se.

Ronald Joel Rosoff, 51, Md., was found guilty for an August 2008 DUI charge and was sentenced to 60 days with 60 days suspended, 18 months of unsupervised probation, and $307.50 in fines. He was not prosecuted on a DWI charge.

Patrico Regalado Jr., 43, Fla., pleaded guilty to an August 2008 DWI charge, was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) verdict, and was sentenced to 30 days with all being suspended, one year of unsupervised probation, and $307.50 in fines. He was not prosecuted on a DUI charge.

Amanda Ruth Rausch, 27, Md., pleaded guilty to a DWI charge from July 2008, was handed a PBJ, and was sentenced to 30 days with all being suspended, one year of unsupervised probation, and $257.50 in fines. She was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DUI per se.

Zachary Roy Bittinger, 26, Md., was handed a PBJ after pleading guilty to a DWI charge from April 2008 and was sentenced to 30 days with 30 days suspended, one year of supervised probation, and $357.50 in fines. He was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DUI per se.

Laura Catherine Ritchie, 26, Md., pleaded guilty to a January 2008 DWI charge, was handed a PBJ, and was sentenced to 30 days with all being suspended, one year of supervised probation, and $307.50 in fines. She was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DUI per se.

Jennifer Lynne Strickland, 23, Va., was handed a PBJ after pleading guilty to a DWI charge from December 2007 and was sentenced to 30 days with all being suspended, one year of unsupervised probation, and $307.50 in fines. She was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DUI per se.

Keith Joseph Upchurch, 44, Md., pleaded guilty to an April 2008 DUI per se charge, was handed a PBJ, and was sentenced to 30 days with 30 days suspended, one year of unsupervised probation, and $357.50 in fines. He was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DWI.

Robert Frederick Wiland, 26, Md., pleaded guilty to a DUI per se charge from April 2008, was handed a PBJ, and was sentenced to 30 days with 30 days suspended, one year of unsupervised probation, and $357.50 in fines. He was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DUI per se.

Kirk Ritchie Forman, 47, Md., was charged in July 2008 for DWI, DUI, and DUI per se. His charges were put on stet with no conditions given.

Brett Wayne Fratz, 29, Md., was not prosecuted on charges of DUI and DWI from October 2008.

Two Arrested After GCSO Investigate Suspicious Vehicle

Garrett County sheriff's deputies were dispatched to the Underwood Road church for a report of a suspicious vehicle. The investigation resulted in the arrest of a 21-year-old male and a 17-year-old female, who were both reportedly found passed out in the vehicle.

Seth Edwin Feather was charged with possession other than marijuana, possession of paraphernalia, inhaling a harmful substance, driving on a revoked license, and driving without a license.

The juvenile was charged with possession other than marijuana, possession of marijuana, possession of paraphernalia, inhaling a harmful substance, and [illegible] and alcohol.

Feather was taken to the Garrett County Jail to be held on $4,000 bond. The juvenile was released to her mother.

Friends Of DCL Seeking Waders To Test Water

The Friends of Deep Creek Lake organization will operate a Stream Waders program over the first three weekends in April. Volunteers are being sought to help collect samples of micro-invertebrates in selected Deep Creek Lake tributaries to help determine the "health" of the water.

Stream Waders is a program sponsored by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR). The DNR provides training to volunteers, who in turn lead other volunteers in collecting and recording samples taken from the streams. These samples are then sent to the DNR lab scientists for evaluation. Members of the Friends of Deep Creek attending training in Clear Spring at the end of February, and are prepared to lead other volunteers in the testing.

The sampling dates are April 4-7, April 10-11, and April 17-18. Interested persons may sign up to help with Friends of Deep Creek Lake by going online at friendsofdcl.org to register, or call 301873-1519 for more information.

If mayflies and hellgrammites are found, the stream is healthy because these are highly pollution-sensitive organisms. In poor quality streams, pollution tolerant organisms such as leeches and non-biting midges predominate.

There have been two previous Stream Wader assessments done at Deep Creek Lake, one in 2004 and the other in 2006, according to Barbara Beeler, head of the Friends of Deep Creek. She reported that a total of 31 sites were sampled.

"Of these sites, 80% were found to be rated either 'poor' or 'very poor,'" Beeler said. "Only one site was found to be 'good.' This was in the upper reach of Pawn Run, but just below this site another sample determined the water quality to be 'poor.' The site at the state park on Meadow Run Creek was found to be 'very poor.'"

Much of the water quality testing done at Deep Creek Lake takes place in the actual lake. The information generated by the Stream Waders program is the only data on the watershed water quality and therefore is of critical importance in understanding the water quality decline at the lake, Beeler noted.

ASK SOME POWERFUL QUESTIONS

A home's electrical system is its bloodstream, and when you're buying, you want to know that the flow is strong and safe. While an inspection should be required in your offer, knowing just a couple basics will help you in making your choice.

Recently built homes have 220-volt service, meaning two 110-volt wires run into the house, below or above ground. Large appliances need that power, and you should pay attention if you're looking at an older home that hasn't been upgraded yet. Get an estimate from an electrician before moving forward.

Important question: "Where is the main panel, and does it contain fuses or circuit breakers?" Both cut the flow of electricity when the system overloads, but in very different ways. Circuit breakers are more convenient, because they just need to be flipped back on when they "trip," but fuses found in older homes have to be replaced when they "blow."

Looking at a pre-1960's home? Ask if the main panel has been upgraded to accommodate breakers instead of fuses. And, if you're buying a very large house, or want to renovate an older one, make sure the panel can handle 200 amps for all your appliances and electronics.

Any electrical system can be upgraded, but consult with your agent and an electrician before making any purchase or improvement decisions. You've got the power! If you are thinking of buying or selling a home but feel "out of touch" with real estate, give me a call today.

Editors Give Sen. Cardin's Nonprofit Newspaper Proposal Mixed Reviews

by Maren Wright
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON – Sen. Benjamin L. Cardin gave the faltering newspaper industry a boost Tuesday, introducing a bill to keep communication open in towns by allowing their papers to become nonprofits.

The Newspaper Revitalization Act proposed by the Maryland Democrat would allow 501(c)(3) status for newspapers as educational endeavors, making advertising and subscription revenue tax exempt.

"This is not going to be an option that a lot of papers will choose," Cardin said in a Senate session, indicating that larger, for-profit news organizations will be unlikely to opt for nonprofit status.

The federal government won't lose tax revenue, either, Cardin said. Profitable papers won't choose the option, and papers operating at a loss aren't paying taxes, he said.

Choosing nonprofit status would prohibit newspapers from making political endorsements, but they would be allowed to report on political issues and campaigns.

Yet even this government intrusion into the realm of First Amendment free speech doesn't sit well for some.

"I think it really puts the role of censor or critic with the IRS," said George Rahdert, legal counsel for the St. Petersburg Times. "So the IRS would be able to say, 'This isn't fair or critical reporting.'"

The Florida newspaper was donated to the Poynter Institute, a nonprofit school for journalists. The Times still pays taxes on its profits, so it has no governmental restrictions on what it can print.

Rahdert said the last thing a newspaper wants is to have the government involved in judging the content of a news report and whether it can be considered an endorsement for an issue or candidate.

Kenneth Rossignol, editor and publisher of southern Maryland's St. Mary's Today, was the subject of governmental restriction of free speech and won a First Amendment case against the St. Mary's County Sheriff's Office in 2003.

Rossignol said political endorsements are an essential service to readers, and this proposal is asking newspapers to stop acting like newspapers for a tax break. The financial reprieve isn't worth it.

'People always have a thirst for news," Rossignol said. "And someone will be there to quench it. We don't need the government to step in."

Roy Peter Clark, vice president of the Poynter Institute, is more ambivalent.

"It's hard to imagine a viable newspaper fulfilling its journalistic mission without the ability to editorialize, to investigate deeply and to act as a political watchdog," Clark said.

But Clark also acknowledged that losing 10 percent of the paper, in the area of political endorsements, is perhaps better than losing the entire paper to bankruptcy.

The loss of local news content and venues prompted Cardin to introduce the measure. He cited the bankruptcy filing by the Tribune Company, owners of the Baltimore Sun, and the closing of the Baltimore Examiner in February (although its sister paper, the Washington Examiner, continues to publish).

The bill might give groups interested in running a paper a chance to purchase a failing paper out of bankruptcy, Cardin said.

Papers will still be able to editorialize, said Cardin, pointing to IRS cases and public broadcasting models that have defined the boundaries of political advocacy.

"You can express opinions – opinions are fine," Cardin said. "There are pretty clear lines as to what is specific advocacy for a candidate."

Rick Edmonds, media business analyst of the Poynter Institute, said Cardin's bill is probably a good thing. For Edmonds, endorsements are part of newspaper history, not a part of their future. The bill creates options for those interested in running a newspaper, he said, but it's not a panacea.

As the industry looks for answers, some are ready to embrace new policies.

"Options are good," said Brent Jones, Newspaper Guild vice-chairman at the Baltimore Sun. "Certainly, at this juncture, anything that would help newspapers to thrive we would support."

The executive director of Maryland-Delaware-DC Press Association, Jack Murphy, said the nonprofit model has worked for the St. Petersburg Times, but it would require a lot of change where adopted.

"I don't know if it would work for others or not," Murphy said. "If I knew the answer to how newspapers could best save themselves, I'd make a lot of money."

GCSO Responds To Motorcycle Accident Sunday

He was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released. He was also cited for operating an unregistered vehicle and displaying tags issued to another bike.

In addition, HB 749 would have required the issuance of a surety bond or other securities to be established so that when wind turbines are decommissioned, funds would be available for the removal of those structures and the restoration of the sites if the projects are abandoned by energy companies. Beitzel said this measure has been deferred to summer study.

The Senate Finance Committee held public hearings for the same four pieces of legislation that were introduced as companion bills by Sen. George Edwards. But as of this morning, the Senate committee has not announced any decisions on those bills.

"I believe the House committee recognized the need for performance standards for wind energy development, but due to the perceived need to encourage alternative energy development, the administration does not want to put restraints in place," Beitzel added. "Our legislation mirrored current statute that is required of those engaged in the mining of coal."

He and Edwards plan to continue their legislative efforts to regulate wind turbine development in future sessions, Beitzel said.

The House Environmental Matters Committee also recently rejected Beitzel's Black Bear Damage Reimbursement Fund bill. This proposed legislation would have enabled farmers to receive more money for damages caused by bears to their beehives, crops, and livestock.

Edwards' companion bill, SB 293, also received an unfavorable report from the Senate's Education, Health and Environmental Affairs Committee.

The local lawmakers' Hoye Crest legislation was recently heard by committees. But the House Health and Government Operations Committee rejected Beitzel's HB 335, and the Senate Education, Health and Environmental Affairs Committee has not acted on Edwards' SB 294.

The legislation would officially designate Garrett County's 3,360-foot Hoye Crest as Maryland's highest point.

Senate and House committees have also rejected Edwards' and Beitzel's SB 291/HB 333. This legislation would have allowed persons who have easement arrangements with the Maryland Agricultural Land Preservation Foundation to drill for natural gas.

The House Environmental Matters Committee, however, did approve Beitzel's HB 748. This proposed legislation, in part, would define the term "mineral," would authorize property owners to terminate mineral interests under certain circumstances, and would require a mineral interest to be identified in a certain manner.

Edwards' companion bill, SB 775, was reviewed by Senate committees, but no action has been announced.

Senate and House committees gave favorable reports to bills that would allow bow hunting for deer on private property during open season on the last three Sundays in October and the second Sunday in November.

Senate lawmakers then voted in favor of Edwards' bill, SB 652, which would allow the Sunday hunting in Garrett and Allegany counties.

House lawmakers unanimously approved Beitzel's companion bill, but they included an amendment that would also allow Sunday hunting in Cecil County. The Senate must now review the House bill, and the House must now consider the Senate version of the proposed legislation.

Hearings still need to be conducted for several other bills introduced by local lawmakers, while numerous pieces of legislation are still being reviewed by committees.

The 426th session of the Maryland General Assembly will end April 13.

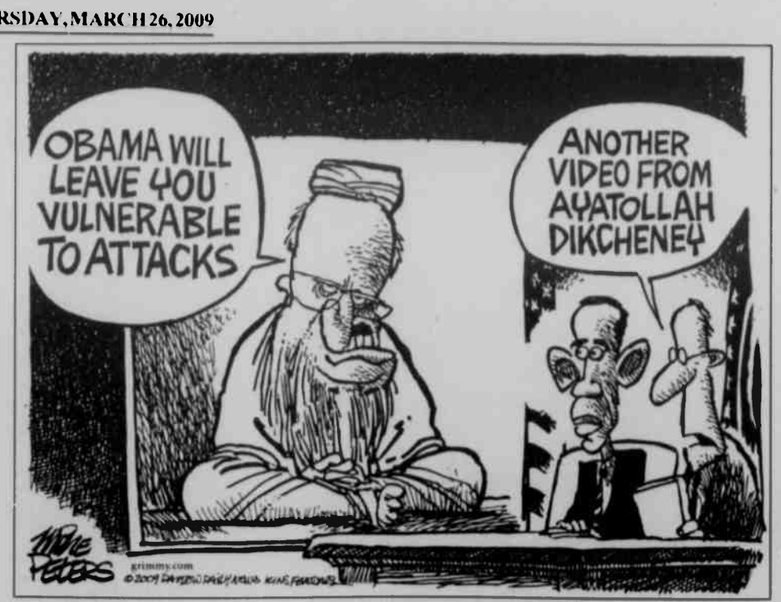
Thanks for Nothing...

It has been a rather pathetic year for Garrett County in the 2009 Maryland General Assembly, as virtually every piece of legislation proposed by Senator George Edwards and Delegate Wendell Beitzel has been shot down, several failing to survive even at the committee level. (See front page story for details.)

All of the pieces of legislation aimed at state regulation of and protection from wind turbines went down in flames. Even the lame bill submitted by the Garrett County commissioners that would require setbacks of wind turbines was rejected, as was Beitzel's own bill that would have authorized the Public Service Commission and the Department of the Environment to establish regulations as to the location, size, and other standards pertaining to wind turbines. Another bill that was not outright rejected, but "deferred to summer study," was one that would require bonding by wind industry companies that would pay for the removal of defunct, decommissioned turbines.



It is apparently true that the state of Maryland, and others, may well face a significant energy shortage within the next decade or so, and, of course, "going green" is all the rage right now (as it should be). So the production of power via the wind, at least on the surface, appears to be right in line with what it means to "go green." However, as noted ad nauseam in this column, the monster turbines are not remotely as "harmless" as proponents would have one believe.

The coal mining industry, meanwhile, is regulated to the hilt, and for good reason. In the early days of that industry, the resulting pollution was horrendous, because – guess what – there were almost no mining industry regulations in place at the time. The goal was simply to get as much coal out of the ground as possible because the nation needed it to meet the rapidly growing energy needs. It was later, after tremendous, unexpected damage had been done, that our lawmakers decided that regulation was needed. Could this be "deja vu all over again"? As Delegate Beitzel put it, the wind industry has virtually been handed a blank check by the Maryland state government.

Another bill that was slam by the House of Delegates was one that simply officially designated Garrett County's Hoye Crest as the highest point in the state. Un-stinking-believable. Oh, and also killed was a bill that would have provided additional reimbursement to farmers whose crops and property are damaged by bears. (Well, most Garrett County farmers are among our wealthiest citizens anyway, right?)

The only bone that was tossed to Garrett County was the passage of a bill that will allow bow hunting for deer on private property during open season on the last three Sundays in October and the second Sunday in November. Whoopee!

Please excuse the probable overuse of sarcasm in this corner today, but to Senator Edwards and Delegate Beitzel, thanks for trying. To Maryland's other "downstate legislators," thanks for nothing.

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

I am sure most readers have heard the term "Going green." I think we should do all we can to help reduce our carbon footprint. I have tried to do this by installing efficiency bulbs, timers, and motion sensors on lights, solar garden lighting, etc. However, my electric bill continues to increase, despite my decreased energy use.

Do you know there are bills in Congress to cap and trade carbon emissions? What does this mean? Essentially, it is a tax on everything that moves. Every time you drive your car, turn on a light switch, or turn on anything that uses carbon-based power in any way, you will be taxed.

This way of "going green" will make most of us have very little green left in our wallets. The economy will suffer even more if these regulations go into effect. These regulations hurt those of us in Garrett County and western Maryland the most because most of us have to travel to our job, and public transit is just not an option. We also have very cold winters, and most us heat our homes with gas, electric, wood, coal, and other carbon based fuels. I don't know about you, but my heating costs have already tripled m the past few years. Can you afford another triple-fold increase in your heating costs?

In Annapolis, there is actually legislation that would triple the cost of home septic systems. This bill also makes all homeowners who have septic systems upgrade them or face a fine of up to $1,000 a day. This is an unfair bias against rural citizens since nobody living in the city has a septic system. Can you even imagine having everyone in western Maryland being hooked to a public sewer system? It is impossible.

So, I know we all have to do our part, but at what costs? What is the point of cleaning up the planet, while impoverishing its inhabitants? God help us all. So next time you hear "think green," think of what that really means.

Ed Clemons Jr.
Mtn. Lake Park

To the Editor:

There's no doubt our economy is in its most challenging situation in a generation or more. It is affecting businesses and consumers alike. But as Americans I always find a way to roll up our sleeves, work together, and solve whatever problem we are facing. We will rebuild confidence in our economy and American businesses through a return to old-fashioned values that made the U.S. a world leader.

Those values – investing for the future, hard work, and ingenuity – never really went out of style. As a small-business owner, it is how I've always operated. Some multi-national companies which started out as small businesses also are staying true to those values. One example is Ford. It made the difficult choice to pare its workforce and close underused factories. It then invested more than $22 billion in new technologies like hybrids, plug-in vehicles, and new engine designs. That investment was done the old-fashioned way. It was done with Ford's money – no government loans.

The investment is now paying off. Sure, our economy is in weak shape, and the American auto industry has been hard hit. But, to paraphrase Mark Twain, the death of the American auto industry "has been greatly exaggerated."

As a fourth-generation car dealer and a small-business owner, I see encouraging signs pointing to a resurgent economy and a stronger auto industry. We'll weather this economic storm together, because it's always been the American way.

Sincerely,
Greg Diehl

To the Editor:

In August of 2007 I wrote a letter and told you that some United Methodist church members had decided to start having monthly prayer meetings to pray for our military men and women. At that time over 3,600 of our soldiers had lost their lives, and around 12 billion dollars a month was being spent on the war in Iraq and Afghanistan.

Since that time we have continued to meet for prayer, but not just in UM churches. We have come together to pray in Brethren churches, Assemblies of God, and the Church of the Nazarene.

Last year with the upcoming election, we decided to make our prayer focus on both our military and our nation. And today when you look at what is going on in our nation, I think most would agree that we definitely need prayer.

With the massive losses the stock market has faced, the huge amount of money being spent on the stimulus package, and the rising unemployment numbers, to mention just a few concerns, no one knows exactly what our future might hold.

In the editorial last week you mentioned that Senator Barbara Mikulski said that an acronym for the AIG bank could be "Ain't I Greedy." I laughed when I read that and thought she sure is right about that.

But it really isn't funny how the greed and mismanagement of a few will hurt so many. You can't pass laws that will make people honest.

Our prayer service this month will be held on Tuesday, March 31, at the Bloomington United Methodist Church. We don't have one scheduled yet for April, so if your church would like to take part in a community prayer service, please give me a call in the evening at 301-387-2659. Hope to see you there.

To the Editor:

I wrote a letter a few weeks ago about getting Maryland television in Garrett County. I have since read other letters to the editor about the same subject. If your readers feel it is time to get Maryland television in Garrett County, I would like to encourage them to call the Garrett County commissioners' office and demand that they petition the local cable companies to give us Maryland television, not Pittsburgh television.

It would be nice to get Maryland weather, news, and information pertinent to where we live, not where the Nielsen marketing group says we should get. It is just a matter of programming the proper ZIP code into the cable TV box and having the cable companies' computers send us Maryland TV instead of Pittsburgh TV.

If you bring a set top box from the eastern half of the state to Garrett County, you will get Maryland TV, not Pittsburgh TV.

How long do we the bill-paying customers have to put up with this? Please call the county commissioners and ask them why.

Thank you,
Charles McLaughlin
Oakland

To the Editor:

Barbara Mikulski is, in fact, a left-wing liberal, as you are, the author of her praises. The greed and panic is all in your court, as you and your ilk, along with Senator Mikulski and the Messiah Barack Obama (LOL) lead us to socialism/communism.

My guess is this letter will not be published.

Sincerely,
James Burns

To the Editor:

The Little Yough Summer Music Festival committee is beginning to look for donations to its free concert series. They will be having only 6-7 concerts this year at a cost of nearly the cost of last year for 12 concerts. Last year's concert series drew larger crowds and raised larger funds than ever before. The wisdom of this year's concert committee is to reduce the number of concerts, but not half the cost.

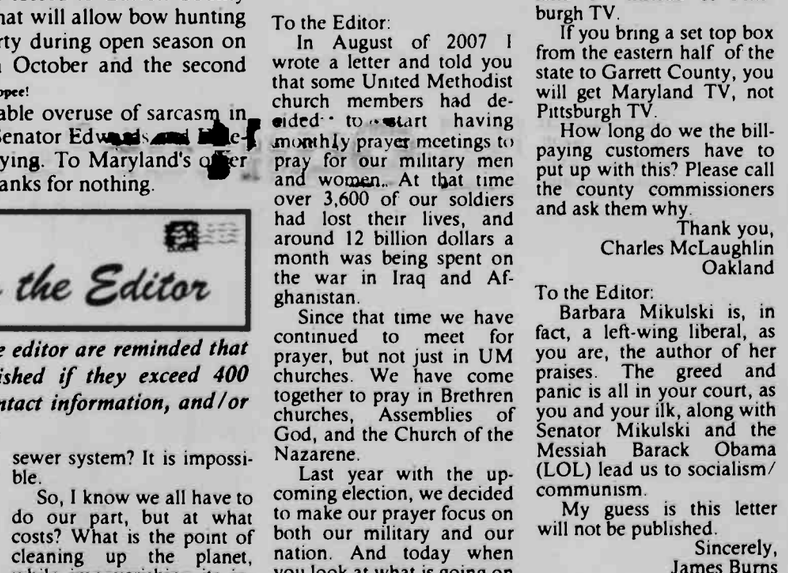
They cry about the economic conditions of the area, but are out to raise funds for groups that are not the cheapest. Some of the groups have not even been seen or heard, but instead contracted from an agent's listing on the Internet by a member of the committee.

I tried to inform the committee of the following numbers, but was uninvited to the post-concert meeting to reconcile finances.

There was a surplus over $3,000, of which the committee failed to collect on over $1,500. The $1,500 collected was deposited in the Greater Oakland Business Association treasury and may very well be spent on other things versus being set aside in a separate account for this year's concerts. The other $1,500-plus at this point has not been collected, and they will have the nerve to ask for more funds for this year. It's hard to ask for last year's donation and then follow up with a request for one this year!

It is financial irresponsibility like this that has gotten this country and local governments in trouble, take from one purpose and then use for another one.

This year the free concert series will be even more significant, seeing that entertainment is one of the first to suffer in cutbacks. Who holds this committee accountable for your donations? Or washes your donation through other non-profits? Is that legal?



Sincerely,
Jack Cougle

NEW CROSS BLESSED AT ST. ANN – Members of St. Ann Catholic Church, Grantsville, gathered recently for the blessing of a cross that will top the new church building, located along New Germany Road. Currently under construction, the new church will replace the previous structure which was destroyed by fire just prior to Christmas 2006. The cross was donated by Patricia Schroyer of Grantsville and her children, Thomas Jr., Connie, and Michael, in memory of her late husband Thomas Schroyer. The ceremony took place following the regular Sunday mass held at Newman Funeral Home, Grantsville. Fr. Jim Hannon, pastor, was joined by Deacon Fred Passauer and members of the Saint Ann parish community for the service of blessing. Connie Schroyer read from scripture for the brief service, and each family member and members of the congregation sprinkled the cross with holy water. "Today's mass was offered in memory of Tom Schroyer. We are thankful for the generosity of the Schroyer family and the generosity of other members of our parish family," Fr. Hannon said. The doors of the new church building will open on May 3 with an official Dedication Mass, presided by Edwin O'Brien, archbishop of Baltimore. Pictured in the front row, from left, are Amanda Edgar, Nicole Schroyer, and Hannah Schroyer. Behind them are Connie Schroyer, Patricia, Michael, and Marta Schroyer, and Fr. Hannon. (Thomas Schroyer Jr. was not included in the photo.)

proud. We had a great time, made new friends, and learned a lot about the sport of bowling and working as a team. None of that would have been possible without the efforts of Ms. Newton and Dr. Teets, both huge proponents of the program.

From the beginning, this endeavor was not an easy one. It involved gaining approval, finding start-up money, learning new rules, teaching new coaches about fundraising do's and don'ts, scheduling and rescheduling transportation and matches, lending support to solve whatever day-to-day glitches might have arisen, and numerous other problems of which we were never even aware. We, as a team, realize all the work that went into this, and we are grateful. It is a good program and hopefully, next year, we will continue to grow as community interest in this new team grows.

Again, thanks so much for all your support! We'll keep trying to make you proud.

To the Editor:

I am writing in concern about the proposed mine located on the Casselman River in Grantsville. The Casselman is just recovering from the acid-mine runoff from the previous mining operations involving one of the same landowners.

The Maryland Department of the Environment is considering a permit to place another 3,040-acre mine at virtually the same location. I, as well as many other concerned citizens, am afraid that this mine, if approved, could undo the healing process that the Casselman has undergone over the past 10 years.

I am also worried about how much water the mine company is planning to withdraw from the surrounding area, especially when the county is suffering from a drought. This could affect well-water levels throughout the area. The mining company is requesting permission to place the mine and haul-road activity next to the Casselman River. This would require the destruction of sensitive wetlands that border the river basin.

In addition to these concerns about the well-being of the Casselman, there are also general concerns about the amount of truck traffic that will accompany this mining activity. The mining company, as well as MDE, has confirmed that they expect up to one mining truck traveling our roads every 10 minutes.

As a concerned citizen of this county, I am very worried about the amount of truck traffic on our county and state roads in this area.

In years past there was a coal truck accident involving the same stretch of road, which resulted in the loss of a county residence. It is my fear that the traffic from this mine, at this location, could result in further risk to the citizens of Garrett County.

I am asking concerned citizens having an opinion on this subject to consider attending the April 2, 1 p.m. hearing located at the Bureau of Mines office in Frostburg. I believe it is the personal responsibility of any concerned citizen to express his or her opinion on a matter that could potentially place our environment and public safety at risk.

To the Editor:

I would like to discuss the Surrender of Firearms Bill (Senate Bill 267), which was discussed in last week's issue.

This bill could save the lives of victims of domestic violence, and protect them from intimidation and threats of harm that lead to extreme trauma. It makes it mandatory for the respondent of a Final Protective Order to surrender to police any firearm in the respondent's possession, and to refrain from the possession of a firearm for the duration of the order.

Delegate Beitzel is concerned that this bill may "lead to the deterioration of every Marylander's Second Amendment rights." What about the rights of victims of domestic violence to live safely within their own homes, without threats, physical harm, or possible death?

This bill is designed to hold abusers accountable for their actions. It is simple: Threaten to harm, or harm, your partner, lose your guns. Don't threaten to harm, or don't harm your partner, don't lose your guns. It is the abuser's choice to make. I do not see the temporary surrender of firearms to be an aggressive punishment, especially considering what the victim has likely lived through. In fact, it is disturbing to me that the guns will eventually be returned.

The article discussed the impact on local police departments and police officers who will be responsible for safely transporting and storing the weapons. Delegate Beitzel expresses concern over police departments being "charged with making sure that the weapons are protected while in their custody," describing this as an "incredible impact."

It seems to me that a police officer's responsibility to ensure the protection of a victim is far more important than the responsibility to ensure the protection of an abuser's firearm. This bill will give police officers the ability to protect victims. Transporting and storing firearms is a minor issue compared to that of saving lives.

This bill received a favorable report, but with amendment. The amendment proposed is that Senate Bill 586, expediting handgun permits for victims of domestic violence, would be included in Senate Bill 267. This amendment defeats the premise inherent in Senate Bill 267, which is that domestic violence and firearms should never be combined.

I encourage the support of Senate Bill 267 without the inclusion of Senate Bill 586. For help or information, contact the Dove Center at 301-334-9000 or 301-334-6133.

Adorable Adoptables

THESE TWO FEMALE HUSKY MIXES were dropped off at the Garrett County Animal Shelter this week. "So, we don't know much about them; perhaps someone found them running at large," said a Humane Society spokesperson. Also at the shelter is Dinah, a 12-year-old tortoiseshell feline. She is spayed and has been a housecat her whole life, but her owner had to move into a nursing home. "Cats can live to be quite a few years older than Dinah, so would you please give her a new home?" asked the spokesperson. Last week's longhaired mix and the chow and shepherd mixes that had been at the shelter for several weeks were all taken to rescues by HART. Thirteen cats were also saved and taken to a rescue downstate by HART. "Please do not feed feral/stray cats unless you plan on having them spayed or neutered," said the spokesperson. "Otherwise, in less than a year, two cats will reproduce and that will result in over two dozen cats. Please trap them humanely and bring them to the shelter so they don't have to live in the wild searching for food and shelter and reproducing more homeless cats." For more information about these and other pets, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the facility is open Monday through Friday.

The bride-elect is employed by Garrett County Community Action Head Start. The prospective groom is employed by Mettiki Coal Corporation.

The couple will wed Saturday, May 2, at Kitzmiller Assembly of God Church. Family and close friends will be invited.

Pamela and Gary plan to honeymoon in the Smoky Mountains of Tennessee for a week and then return to their home in Kitzmiller.

Julie Lewis Weds Michael Pifer At Crellin United Brethren Church

Julie Ann Lewis and Michael William Pifer exchanged wedding vows in a double-ring ceremony on Dec. 27, 2008, at Crellin United Brethren Church. Rev. George Tichnell, great-uncle of the bride, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Larry and Sharon Elliott, Eglon, W.Va. The groom is the son of Clarence and Colleen Pifer, Aurora, W.Va.

Julie was escorted to the altar and given away by her father and a special uncle, Joe Fike.

The bride wore a white, floor-length gown with a full skirt and a fitted bodice adorned with beads and crystals. She wore a crystal tiara, complete with a finger-tipped veil adorned with crystals, made by her grandmother, Ladonna Lewis. The bride's jewelry consisted of pearls belonging to her grandmother, Betty Elliott. Julie carried a bouquet of white roses.

Staci Myers, friend of the bride, served as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Stephanie Bittinger, friend of the bride, and Melissa Elliott, sister of the bride. The women wore baby blue floor-length gowns, made by Shirley Snyder, and each carried a bouquet of blue and white flowers of her choice, adorned with silver accents and ribbons. All flowers were made by Margie Holland, grandmother of the bride.

Flower girls were Rennee Dawn, cousin of the groom, and Sydney Casteel, daughter of the maid of honor; both girls wore tea-length white and silver dresses and carried baskets of baby blue rose petals.

Clarence Pifer served as his son's best man, while Matthew and Mark Pifer, brothers of the groom, served as groomsmen. The men wore black suits, white shirts, and matching blue and silver ties.

The ring bearer was Joseph Fike, cousin of the bride. Devin Fike, cousin of the bride, carried the bride's childhood Bible. The ushers were Ruben Fike, cousin of the bride, and Ian Smith, friend of the couple. All wore black pants, white shirts, and navy vests, made by Wanda Rhinehart, friend of the family.

Ashley Biser, friend of the bride, was in charge of music during the ceremony, while Virginia Tichnell, great-aunt of the bride, served as pianist, playing the traditional wedding march.

Following the wedding, a reception was held in the Terra Alta Community Building. The building was decorated with a white and baby blue decor, complemented with snowflakes and white lights.

The staircase-style cake was made by Elaine Malcolm, friend of the family.

The food was organized and served by Sandi Lewis, aunt of the bride, along with her daughters Dana, Krista, and Lora.

Music was organized and handled by Ashley Biser, T.J. Simmons, and Ian Smith, all friends of the couple.

Billy Fike and Randy Paugh, cousins of the bride, served as vidoegraphers. Tammy Tichnell, Debbie Bean, and Teresa Bittinger served as photographers.

Thank You

On February 8 my home was destroyed by fire. I lost everything I had except what I was wearing. I would like to thank the many people who came to help . I thank the American Red Cross, my neighbors, my friends and my family. Also, thank you to the area churches and First Peoples Community FCU.

I would like to thank everyone for their kindness and many prayers and gifts.

I really don't know what I would have done without your help.

Thank you very much,
Blair Alien Folk

Ask Sheila

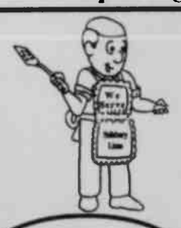
Decorating Dilemma?
Sheila offers helpful advice.

Dear Sheila:

My carpets are shot! They have bare spaces in the strangest places! I cannot afford to carpet the entire house right now, but I need a place where I can relax and not be looking at the ugly places my pets have created. Any ideas?

Ugly Spots

Dear Ugly:



ABSOLUTELY! Stop in and see some of our area rugs and how they can change the feel of a room. They are all over the floors and being used on a daily basis. They will actually make you feel BEAUTIFUL!

SPRING DANCE CONCERT SLATED AT FSU – The Frostburg State University Department of Theatre and Dance will present a spring dance concert on Friday, April 3, and Saturday, April 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center's Drama Theatre. The show will feature student choreography as well as a performance by a Broadway artist, Jeff Shade. Shade has performed on Broadway in plays such as Sweet Charity, served as dance captain for Chicago, and has toured with Crazy For You. Seniors Jessica Seminerio and Daniel Durr, pictured, will choreograph and dance in their final concert at FSU. Seminerio created a contemporary piece that explores the taboo love between two young adults from different worlds, while Durr's piece investigates the complex concepts of life and death through contemporary movement. For reservations and more information, persons may contact the University Theatre box office at 301-687-7462, Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. and again from 1:30 p.m. until 4 p.m. Tickets are $6 for students and $12 for general admission.

Garrett Gallery Hosting Exhibit By Kate Keely

The Art Gallery of Garrett College is currently hosting an exhibition of paintings by visiting artist and adjunct instructor of art Kate Keely. The artwork will be on display through April 17, with a reception set for the artist slated for Friday, April 3, from 7 to 9 p.m. The public is welcome.

Keely is originally from Hagerstown, where she grew up in a farming community surrounded by a variety of plants and animals, which she said has influenced her art. She attended Mary Baldwin College in Virginia and graduated with two bachelor of arts degrees, in fine art and biology.

Keely has had graduate level training in both painting and sculpture, and holds a master of fine arts degree in mixed media from Radford University in Virginia. She is currently employed as an instructor of art at Garrett College, Hagerstown Community College, and Shippensburg University in Pennsylvania.

The artist prefers to use both oil and acrylic paint for her canvases, and works with a bright colorful palette, according to Ron Skidmore, head of the GC art department.

The images represent a type of illusive naturalism, combined with a metaphorical impression of particular natural subjects such as tornadoes, birds, and animals," Skidmore said. "Her paintings are made with a unique painterly brushwork, full of movement, and intense contrasts in an expressionistic style."

Keely said the influence of her early rural life pervades the subject matter of much of her work.

"The expressive content of each painting is characterized by natural imagery to relate both personal experiences and poetic myth," she said. "Moreover, the form and content of each one of my images are also illuminated by a formal education in both art and biology. Using natural imagery as a motif, these images carry attributes such as strength, transition, and renewal, while exploring the themes of life, death, and resurrection."

For more information about this exhibition, persons may contact the Garrett College Art Department at 301-387-3024 or by e-mail: ron.skidmore@garrettcollege.com.

This exhibition is made possible in part by a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council and the Maryland State Arts Council. Gallery hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and on evenings and weekends during special events.

AS TIME GOES BY

by Abigail Trafford

C. 2009, Basic Books; $25.95; 275 pages

Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

The first few notes of the song begin, and his eyes meet hers from across the room. Shyly, they smile. It's their wedding day, and this is "their song." She leaves her guests and approaches her new husband. He takes her hand, and they dance.

Like any wedding, there are toasts and dancing children, a thrown bouquet and tearful moments, cutting the cake, and tender kisses between bride and groom.

But starry-eyed love isn't just for teenagers and 20-somethings. This is his second marriage. It's her third. And they're both in their 80s.

In the new book As Time Goes By, author Abigail Trafford examines love, loss, and loving again in the second half of life.

Once upon a time, when the average human lifespan was 50 years, people married young and stayed "'til death do you part." Now, at a time when we can live four decades past that old milestone, relationships in the second half of life can give us a second chance at love.

But it's not easy. Trafford calls later love "The Big Churn." The kids are gone and it's just the two of you again. Everything is old, and it's all new. You want to stay together, but need separate lives. Past roles have flip-flopped. It's like an amusement park ride that both scares and thrills you to death.

Learning to be together anew can be difficult, Trafford says, and old issues can surface with surprising ferocity. Studies show that older couples are more likely than younger couples to "pull the plug" on a marriage that's unfulfilling. At some point, mortality may play a role: One partner suddenly decides that it's not an option to live with the status quo in whatever life they have left.

But that's not necessarily the end of love, Trafford writes. People in their 50s, 60s, and beyond are re-creating "normal" with boomerang marriages, throwback romance, and serial spouses, triangle marriages, marriage-without-a-spouse, newly renewed unions, and fabulously single lives with many love affairs. Wow.

I read this book with rapt fascination for two reasons. One, because there is an amazing amount of food for thought in this book. Mixing advice and societal study, author Abigail Trafford includes interviews with real people, hard research and data, and stories that will sound all too familiar to anyone who's had a relationship.

Which brings me to the second reason I enjoyed As Time Goes By so much: If you are near or past 50, gay or straight, man or woman, your relationship past is in this book. Reading it will put a lot of things into perspective – not just for you, but also for your friends and children.

If you've ever been in love, if you are struck by the fact that the number of years you have left are fewer than the number of years you've lived, or if you're looking anew at an old relationship, you need this book. As Time Goes By is simply engaging.

Garrett Choral Soc. To Present "Light Eternal," Featuring Rutter's Requiem

The Garrett Choral Society will present a seasonal concert titled "Light Eternal," featuring John Rutter's Requiem, a seven-movement choral work, on April 4 at 7:30 p.m. and April 5 at 2 p.m. The concerts will be given at St. Paul's United Methodist Church, located at the corner of Third and Oak streets in Oakland.

Under the direction of Julie S. Turrentine, the Garrett Choral Society (GCS) involves singers from all parts of Garrett County.

In addition to the Requiem, which lasts about 35 minutes, the group will sing five choral pieces, two arranged by Rutter ("Lord, Make Me An Instrument Of Thy Peace" and "A Gaelic Blessing") and three by Mack Wilberg ("The Lord is My Shepherd," "Be Still, My Soul," and "Come, Let Us Anew").

"As I continue my journey as artistic director of the Garrett Choral Society, I always try to choose music that this fine ensemble needs to have in its repertoire, as well as music that the members will enjoy singing," said Turrentine. "The music of John Rutter is always very singable with some good challenges, and has great audience appeal. The anthems were inspired by the Mormon Tabernacle Choir, and the pairing of them with the Rutter Requiem makes for a lovely Palm Sunday weekend concert."

The Requiem will feature soloist Carolyn Deverse, soprano. The chorus is accompanied by Lynn Grimm. Muriel Franc is the assistant accompanist, and Moe Turrentine will provide percussion for the performance. Walt Copland is the audio technician, and Doris Gaskill is the ticket manager.

Tickets, which are $10 for adults and $5 for youth 18 and younger, are available from all members of the group, as well as at Jan Florist and Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland.

Rutter's Requiem

The Requiem by John Rutter is a musical setting of an adaptation of the Roman Catholic Requiem Mass, completed in 1985. Rutter wrote it in memory of his father, who had died the previous year and whose initials are found in the dedication. In the first six months after publication, it received over 500 orchestral performances in the United States alone.

"The Requiem exudes an aura of consolation, brought about through Rutter's own bereavement at the time, and is composed in a language which he describes as 'one that [his] father might have enjoyed listening to,'" wrote Tarik O'Regan, a music critic with Naxos.com.

The piece is a lyrical choral work with an orchestral accompaniment. The choral society is using synthesizers for this particular sound, along with percussion.

The first movement consists of the Introit from the Tridentine Requiem Mass (Requiem aeternam) and the Kyrie. The second movement is titled "Out of the Deep," and is based on Psalm 130, a writing commonly used at Anglican funerals. It contains a prominent cello solo written in C minor.

The third movement is the motet "Pie Jesu." It begins with a lyrical soprano solo (Deverse) singing with a light accompaniment, with only slight involvement of the chorus echoing the words "Dona eis requiem, Dona eis sempiternam requiem." ("Lord, I pray in thy mercy grant them rest; Lord our God, we pray thee, grant them everlasting rest.")

The fourth movement is the Sanctus (with Benedictus), and characteristically, it is a bright, lively, and exclamatory movement. A spokesperson said it recalls the passage in Old Testament scripture in Isaiah, Chapter 6, and the worship of the six-winged seraphim in the throne-room of God.

The fifth movement is the Agnus Dei, with the words "Lamb of God, that takest away the sins of the world, in thy mercy, grant them rest."

The sixth movement is Psalm 23, "The Lord is My Shepherd." Rutter originally wrote this piece in 1976 as a separate anthem.

The seventh movement, "Lux Aeterna," includes words from the 1662 Book of Common Prayer Burial Service ("I heard a voice from heaven...") ending with the prayer "Grant them rest eternal, Lord our God, we pray to thee: and light perpetual shine on them forever."

John Rutter

John Milford Rutter was born in London on Sept. 24, 1945, and is an English composer, choral conductor, editor, arranger, and record producer.

As a young man, he was a member of the choir at Clare College, Cambridge, and then became the director of music there, serving from 1975 to 1979. In 1974, Rutter visited the United States at the invitation of choral musician Melvin Olson and conducted the premiere of his cantata Gloria in Omaha, Neb., in the Witherspoon Hall of Joslyn Art Museum. In 1981 he founded his own choir, the Cambridge Singers, which he conducts and with which he has made many recordings of sacred choral repertoire (including his own works), particularly under his own label, Collegium Records. He still lives near Cambridge, but frequently conducts other choirs and orchestras around the world.

He was made an honorary Fellow of Westminster Choir College, Princeton, in 1980, and in 1988 a Fellow of the Guild of Church Musicians. The archbishop of Canterbury conferred a Lambeth Doctorate of Music upon him in 1996, in recognition of his contribution to church music. He continues to work as an arranger and editor.

On Easter Sunday this year, he will conduct a concert at Carnegie Hall, New York City, which will feature soprano Bridgid Eversole, daughter of John and Brenda Rathgeb, Oakland. A story about the performance will be published as the date nears.

PLAYS WITH ALL-STATE ORCHESTRA – Austin Michael Savage, 14, was selected to play in the Junior All-State Orchestra Concert, held at Governor Thomas Johnson High School in Frederick on March 7. The orchestra consisted of about 90 7th, 8th, and 9th grade students chosen from across the state of Maryland. Among the pieces performed by the youth were Simple Symphony, Op. 4, by Benjamin Britton, and the first movement of Organ Concerto in A minor by Johann Sebastian Bach. The orchestra was conducted by Anne Rupert, an award-winning teacher and musician from Fairfax, Va. The students received the music in advance, and then met for the first time two days before the concert to begin rehearsing the pieces together. The audience gave the young orchestra a standing ovation for the performance. Austin is the grandson of the late Junior Ray and Ada Florence Savage, who lived in Friendsville. He is a freshman at Centennial High School in Howard County. He plays the viola, having started on the instrument in the 3rd grade. In addition to the All-State Orchestra, he plays in the Howard County High School Gifted and Talented Orchestra, as well as his own high school's orchestra.

GLAF's 2009 Season To Begin With Dance Show

The Garrett Lakes Arts Festival (GLAF) has announced the kick-off concert for the 2009 GLAF season. The Dave Leonhardt Jazz Group and the Shelley Oliver Tap Dancers will be performing a jazz music and tap dancing extravaganza on Friday, April 17, at 7:30 p.m. in the Garrett College auditorium.

Tickets are $20 for adults, $5 for students, and free for youth 5 years and younger (but tickets are required). Individual tickets may be purchased by calling the GLAF office at 301-387-3082, or by going to the GLAF web site, located at www.artsandentertainment.org.

David Leonhardt, jazz pianist and composer, has 25 years of professional experience, including recordings, television, and radio, concerts, festivals, night clubs, and stage shows. He has appeared internationally throughout North and South America, Europe, the Middle East, and Far East.

Leonhardt recently arranged and recorded the #1 jazz CD "Under a Woodstock Moon" with saxophonist David Newman, and appeared with flutist Herbie Mann and bassist Ron Carter on the CD "Celebration." He performs with the Shelley Oliver Tap Dancers.

This ensemble of female rhythm tap dancers performs with "dynamic improvisation, synchronized ensemble dancing, and stunning solo work," a GLAF spokesperson said.

The Dave Leonhardt Jazz Group and the Shelley Oliver Tap Dancers will also conduct daytime performances for all fourth and fifth grade students in Garrett County on Thursday and Friday, April 16 and 17.

"The young people's show entertains, educates, and excites young audiences," the spokesperson said. The school performances are made in cooperation with the Garrett County Board of Education and GLAF.

Local painter Robert Yonke will be the guest artist in residence at the concert on Friday night. His paintings will be on display and for sale in the lobby outside the auditorium.

The sponsor partners for this event are Frank and Linda Lancelotta and Mettiki Coal LLC.

This project is partially supported by a grant from Pennsylvania Performing Arts on Tour, a program developed and funded by The Heinz Endowments; the William Penn Foundation; the Pennsylvania Council on the Arts, a state agency; and the Pew Charitable Trusts. It is administered by Mid Atlantic Arts Foundation.

GLAF season sponsors are First United Trust and Investments, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, and Wisp Resort. Large gifts and grants have been given by Audrey and Howard Naylor, the Garrett County Arts Council, the Maryland State Arts Council, National Endowment for the Arts, and Pennsylvania Performing Arts on Tour.

Ram Hurlers Open With Wins Over Keyser, Alco, Hampshire

Off to an impressive start to the 2009 high school baseball season is the varsity team of Southern High School, as the Rams defeated host Keyser, 13-7, on Saturday in their campaign opener, topped Allegany on Monday, 7-4, on the Campers' diamond, and rolled over host Hampshire yesterday, 11-4.

The Rams wasted no time taking control of their opener against Keyser at John Kruk field, scoring nine runs in the first three innings. The Golden Tornados cut Southern's lead to 9-6 after three complete innings, but the Rams put four more runs on the board in the fifth inning.

Southern pitcher Jeremy Sharpless, who took the mound in the third inning, struck out eight batters and gave up just one run over the final four innings.

Leading southern at the plate with three RBI was Kody Lewis, who rapped a double and three singles. Corey Helbig provided three more RBI via a double, and Reese Duncan provided a double in Southern's nine-hit performance.

Keyser was held to five hits, with Maverick Nelson smacking a double and a single. Thayer Smith finished with two singles and one RBI, while Corey Proietti hit a run-producing single.

The loss evened the Tornados' record at 1-1.

The score was tied at 4-4 going into the final inning at Allegany on Monday, but the Rams sealed their win by posting three runs in the top of the seventh.

The Rams held a 4-2 lead going into the bottom of the sixth, but that's when Alco's Derek Barb tied it up with a two-run single.

Southern got a double from Cody Parsons in the top of the seventh, and he scored the game-winning run on a hit by Seth Hinebaugh.

Hinebaugh advanced to second on a throwing error and then scored on a hit by Nathan King. A fielding error sent King to third, and he scored the final run of the game via a single by Bubba Scheffel.

The Rams led in hits by an 11-7 margin, with Corey Helbig contributing a pair of doubles and scoring twice. Hinebaugh, King, and Scheffel each had two hits and one RBI.

King earned the win on the mound, going the distance and striking out seven.

Cody Ellsworth hit a solo homer and a single for the Campers, while Sean Collette stroked a solo home run.

It was the season opener for the Campers.

The Rams took a 3-0 in the top of the first yesterday against Hampshire. The Trojans knotted the score at 3-3 in the bottom of the third, where the score stood until the top of the fifth, when Southern scored a single run and took the lead for good. The Rams broke it wide open with seven runs recorded in the top of the seventh.

The slugfest featured a total of 26 hits, 14 by the Rams and 12 by the home team, with three Southern pitchers sharing in the win.

No other details of the game were received by this morning.

Coach Dan Holler's Rams will be back in action next Tuesday when they travel to Fort Hill, and they will play at Petersburg next Wednesday.

Northern Softball Falls To Allegany, Hampshire; Record 0-2, 0-2 AMAC

The Northern High School softball team suffered two Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference losses this past week as it was crushed, 11-1, by host Allegany on Monday, and then fell, 13-6, to host Hampshire last night.

The Huskies had five hits, but were unable to score until the top of the fifth. Kaitlyn Fratz hit a double and a single, and Kara Savage had two singles.

Northern's starter Taryn Brenneman had four strikeouts in four innings

The Campers ended the first inning with four runs, and added another in the second. At the bottom of the third, they recorded two runs to make the score 7-0.

Northern held Allegany for two innings, gaining one run at the top of the fifth as the Huskies' only scoring hit. The Campers gained another four runs in the sixth, finishing with 14 hits.

The Northern junior varsity lost 19-11 to the Allegany jayvees, with Tabby Beasom recording a triple and a single for the Huskies. Teammates Whitney Miller had a double and single, and Brittany Miller and Kiersten Butler singled twice.

The Campers were led by Staphanie Dawson and Miranda Shank, each hitting two-run doubles.

In last night's action against Hampshire, Northern had two runs at the top of the second to tie the score 2-2, but then the Trojans came back with a seven-run third inning. The Huskies gained a run at the top of the third, but were held 3-9 until the fifth and sixth innings, where they added three.

Brenneman provided a double for Northern, and has 11 strikeouts, but allowed 11 hits in the loss.

Lakers Up Record By Winning Six of Seven Games This Week

The baseball team of Garrett College concluded its spring break trip to South Carolina late last week by recording a 7-1 win over Morris Community College, falling to St. Louis, 11-1, and topping Ulster CC, 7-1.

Only box scores for those contests were received, except that in the win over Ulster, Brett Martin hit a pair of doubles for one RBI for the Lakers, and Joel Berlanga provided two singles.

The Lakers then traveled to Winchester, Va., where they swept the Shenandoah University jayvees in two close contests, 3-2 and 5-3.

Then on Sunday, Garrett hosted Greater Allegheny in a twinbill, and won both of those contests as well, 4-3 and 6-5. A game with host Potomac State College that was scheduled for yesterday was rained out.

The results left the Lakers with an overall record of 14-9.

In the first game against Shenandoah, former Southern High standout Jason Ashby rapped a two-run homer in the top of the sixth to give the Lakers their first lead and ultimately the victory.

The home team took a 2-0 lead in the first inning. Garrett cut that advantage in half with a single run in the top of the fourth.

The Lakers took a 3-0 lead in the first inning of the second game and never trailed, as John Opencarne worked the first four innings and recorded nine strikeouts. Rogers pitched the final three frames.

Cordido hit three singles, while Ashby smacked a double and a single. Zach Nair provided a two-run single.

For Shenandoah, Chris Ferry hit a solo homer, a double, and a single to plate all three of his team's runs.

The Lakers won both games against Greater Allegheny on Sunday with walk-off runs, the first game going eight innings, and the second ending in seven innings.

A single by Laker Scott Wilson in the bottom of the eighth set up the winning run, as he was then knocked home via a hit by Amed Martinez.

Kevin Leitzel earned the win in relief, his first of the season, as he struck out three batters in two innings.

Former Northern Husky Corey Carr singled and scored the winning run after three walks in the second game, as Garrett Rogers forced the walk-off walk on a 3-2 pitch.

Rogers took over the mound in the sixth, facing two outs and the bases loaded, and forced a grounder for the third out. He then struck out the side in the seventh to keep the game tied at 3-3.

Martinez provided a solo homer in the fifth, that gave

Southern Blanks BW; Shuts Out Petersburg For 2-0 Season Start

Southern High School's softball team opened its 2009 season by blanking visiting Bishop Walsh, 13-0, on Tuesday in an Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference game. The Huskies then went on to shut out host Petersburg, 15-1, last night.

The Rams had 12 runs in the first three innings of Tuesday's game, recording four per inning. The final hit came at the bottom of the fifth, giving Southern eight hits to Bishop Walsh's zero.

Southern pitcher Alycia Horner finished with eight strikeouts and allowed three base runners with three walks. At bat, she provided a hit and scored four runs.

Alya Fulmer and Shayna Sweitzer each had three runs, with Fulmer getting two hits and Sweitzer, one. Lindsey Glotfelty had a double and scored two runs for the Rams.

Bishop Walsh's Erin McGee did all she could in the first three innings. Katie Taylor took over in the fourth and allowed just one hit from the Rams in the fifth.

Against Petersburg last night, Horner hurled a five-inning no-hitter, allowing just one hit with 15 strikeouts. Fulmer went 2-for-3 and Kelsey Graham and Kim Michaels had two hits and two runs scored for the Rams, who led 15-1 in hits.

Stough Named To Md. All-Academic Wrestling Squad

Dustin Stough, a standout wrestler for Northern High School for the past four seasons, was recently named to the Maryland All-Academic Wrestling Team by the Maryland State Wrestling Association.

The son of Northern coach Scott Stough and trainer Terri Stough, Dustin was one of 16 high school wrestlers named to the team, one for each weight division. He was the selection for the 160-pound division.

Stough, a senior, holds a 99% weighted grade point average at Northern and is currently ranked seventh in his class of 153.

On the mats, Stough has been a state finalist three times, finishing fourth twice and as the runner-up in the 160-pound division this year. His second-place finish this season was a major key to the Huskies' placing seventh among some 70 teams that were represented in the 1A/2A state tournament.

Stough has also competed with success in numerous other state, regional, and national wrestling events for a number of years.

State Road Crews To Begin Pot Hole "Fill-Up" Season

State road crews are gearing up to fill potholes that have resulted from winter weather, the Maryland Department of Transportation's Maryland State Highway Administration (SHA) announced yesterday.

"Potholes are 'road enemy number one' for car alignments and tires," said SHA administrator Neil J. Pedersen. "SHA crews patrol state highways to fill them as soon as possible, restoring a smooth ride."

A spokesperson added that SHA will make every effort to respond and fix potholes within 24 hours of a problem being reported.

Potholes develop when water from rain and snow seeps below the road surface, freezes, and expands. The ice below pushes the pavement upward while the traffic above further stresses the roadway. When the ice thaws, the pavement collapses into the hole and continuing traffic chips away at the pothole edges, making it even larger.

Unlike large sinkholes, which form when there are empty pockets in the soil and rock below the road's surface, potholes are easily repaired because they are shallow holes in the surface of the road.

Annually, SHA spends an estimated $2 million for pothole patching, repairing approximately 42,000 square yards statewide, which is equivalent to about eight football fields.

Crews maintain approximately 17,000 miles of state highways – the non-toll numbered routes in Maryland's 23 counties (including interstate, U.S., and Maryland routes), according to the spokesperson.

To report a pothole, persons may contact their local SHA maintenance shop. Further information is available on the SHA web site, marylandsroads.com.

In repairing potholes, SHA crews may conduct mobile operation. The administration is encouraging all motorists to "Choose Safety for Life and Think Orange" while in work [illegible] the speed limit and remaining alert at all times.

GCHD Explains Difference Between Bacterial and Viral Meningitis

by Cynthia Mankamyer, RN

Bacterial meningitis, specifically meningococcal meningitis, has recently claimed the life of a West Virginia University student. Another student, a high school sophomore from Harrison County, W.Va., was recently admitted to an area hospital with bacterial meningitis infection, though the specific type of bacteria is not known.

Meningitis is an infection of the fluid and lining of the brain and spinal cord and is usually caused by a virus or a bacterium. It is important to know whether a case of meningitis is viral or bacterial in origin because severity of illness and treatment differ.

Viral meningitis is generally less severe and goes away without specific treatment, but bacterial meningitis can be quite serious and may result in brain damage, loss of limbs, hearing loss, and death. One type of bacterial meningitis infection is called meningococcal meningitis.

Meningococcal meningitis is rare, but can occur in clusters or small outbreaks. Many healthy people carry the meningococcal bacteria in the lining of the nose or throat, but never get sick with the disease. Occasionally the bacteria are spread from one person to another by close personal contact or through kissing, coughing, and/or sneezing.

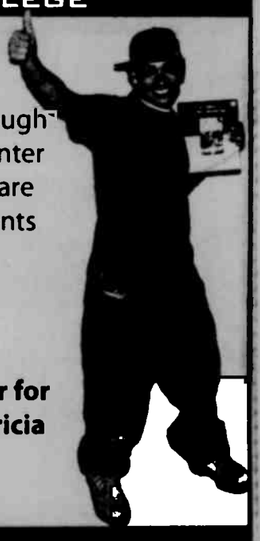
Fortunately, the bacteria that cause meningitis are not usually as contagious as the common cold or the flu and are not spread by casual contact or by simply breathing the air in a room with an infected person. Persons most at risk of becoming ill are those who have close contact with someone who has the infection, those with respiratory infections, or compromised immunity, or travelers to areas of the world where illness is more common. This infection is potentially very dangerous because it is often mistaken for a cold or the flu, and some people may not seek medical treatment in time.

Symptoms of meningococcal meningitis include high fever, severe headache, stiffness in the neck, shoulders and back, light sensitivity, nausea, vomiting, confusion, and a flat pink or purplish rash on arms and legs.

In newborns and small infants, the classic symptoms of fever, headache, and neck stiffness may be absent or hard to detect, and the infant may only appear abnormally inactive, be irritable, have vomiting, or be feeding poorly. Symptoms may occur within 2 to 10 days (usually 3 to 4 days) after exposure, and can begin suddenly.

It is very important that persons see a doctor immediately if they think they have meningitis. Those who have had close contact with a person sick with meningococcal meningitis – such as those in the same household, daycare, or who have direct contact with an infected person's saliva – should receive antibiotics to prevent them from getting the disease. Quick treatment with antibiotics may stop the infection from causing brain damage, disability, or death.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends MCV4, a meningococcal vaccine, for all children 11 to 12 years of age, or when they enter high school for those who have never received a dose. It is also recommended for others at risk such as college freshman living in dormitories, U.S. military personnel, persons with a damaged or absent spleen, and certain persons with immune deficiencies. Anyone medically qualified over the age of 2 years may receive meningitis vaccine if desired.



Concerned citizens should contact their physician or the Garrett County Health Department at 301-334-7770 or 301-895-5355 for more information on bacterial meningitis or to discuss the meningitis vaccine.

Kindergarteners Well Prepared In Md., Says Report

Children entering kindergarten in Maryland continue to improve their preparation for the rigors of the classroom, according to a new report by the Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE).

"Children Entering School Ready to Learn –School Readiness Information for School Year 2008-2009," a report by MSDE's Division of Early Childhood Development, revealed steady progress in all demographic subgroups. Maryland students entering kindergarten fully prepared for learning increased by 5 percent from 2008 to 2009, up to 73 percent. That is up 24 percentage points since the baseline year of 2001.

"All young children have the potential to be active learners, and a great start before they enter the kindergarten classroom sets the stage," said Nancy S. Grasmick, state superintendent of schools. "This has been a high priority for parents and the Maryland State Department of Education. We are pleased with the progress taking place."

The annual MSDE study reflects assessment information on kindergartners' readiness levels in social and personal areas, language and literacy, mathematical thinking, scientific thinking, social studies, the arts, physical development, and health.

Kindergarten readiness has improved significantly since all early-care programs were brought under MSDE in 2005. Since the Division of Early Childhood Development was established, the number of accredited child-care programs has grown significantly, and MSDE has established several quality initiatives to improve the early learning opportunities for all children.

Also significant has been the reduction in the achievement gap between students of different ethnicities. For example, African American children have made dramatic strides since the initial report in 2001, rising 32 percentage points overall and narrowing the gap with their peers from 19 points in 2001 to 9 points in 2009, according to the MSDE.

The MSDE study found improvement across demographic categories in the percentage of students ready for kindergarten work. For example:

- School readiness levels for English language learners have increased 25 points since 2001, including a 22-point increase in the language and literacy domain.
- The improvement in school readiness for low-income children – students receiving free or reduced price meals – has jumped 31 percentage points since 2001.
- The percent of special education students deemed fully ready for kindergarten improved 17 points since 2001 to 47 percent.

The study results, according to the MSDE, continue to highlight the importance of high-quality early learning opportunities. Children who spent time in early-care settings started school better prepared for learning than those who remained at home or in the homes of relatives, the research found.

Children enrolled in public school pre-K programs (75 percent fully ready for kindergarten), child care centers (77 percent), and non-public nursery schools (86 percent) the year prior to kindergarten exhibited stronger school readiness levels than those who were at home or in informal care settings the year prior to kindergarten.

Maryland's annual school readiness report is the result of legislative action to gauge the progress on school readiness skills of incoming kindergartners. Each year, more than 2,000 kindergarten teachers use an age-appropriate portfolio-based assessment to evaluate their students' performance on 30 indicators of learning in their classrooms during the first eight weeks of school. The assessment information in the report reflects scores for each of the seven domains of learning, such as literacy, math, and social skills, as well as the composite score of all domains.

The complete school readiness report will be available soon on the special MSDE web site, www.MdSchoolReadiness.org.

GAMES, GIVEAWAYS, AND HANDS-ON ACTIVITIES will be featured during the seventh annual Family Fun Festival, scheduled for Saturday, April 4, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Broad Ford Elementary School. The event is sponsored by the Kids First Committee, and numerous local agencies and organizations will be participating. See story. Pictured at last year's fun festival are Abigail and Elizabeth Maust getting fingerprinted by Garrett County correctional officers Jeff Slaubaugh and Josh Lipscomb.

Kids First Committee Slates Annual Family Fun Festival

The Kids First Committee is planning the seventh annual Family Fun Festival as a kick-off to the Month of the Young Child. The festival is scheduled for Saturday, April 4, at Broad Ford Elementary School from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The Month of the Young Child is celebrated in April across the country by hundreds of local organizations working to improve opportunities for all young children. Young children and their families depend on high-quality education and care, which help children get a great start and bring lasting benefits, according to Barbara Unger, Overlook Judy Center quality programs manager and Kids First Committee member.

"All young children need and deserve high-quality early learning experiences that will prepare them for life," Unger said. "The Month of the Young Child is an excellent time to recognize the importance of early learning and early literacy, and to celebrate the dedicated early care and education professionals involved in building better futures for Garrett County children."

At the festival, local agencies and organizations will provide hands-on activities, face painting, food, and a book giveaway for young children (birth to 7 years of age) and their families. Older siblings are welcome.

The Garrett County commissioners will be available to talk to parents about county government, and officers from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office will offer fingerprinting for all of the children attending.

There will be a light lunch, door prizes, games, and giveaways, Unger noted.

This is the seventh year that the Kids First Committee has sponsored the festival. More than 150 families attended last year's event, according to Unger.

She said the festival promotes healthy, family-oriented activities that assist parents/caregivers in helping their children learn and succeed in school. Information about the various services available for young children and their families will be available, and staff will be on hand to answer questions.

This year's festival collaborators are the Abilities Network/Project Act; APPLES for Children Inc.; Cornerstone Family Medicine; Garrett County Department of Social Services; Garrett College GED Program; Garrett County Board of Education; Garrett County Extension Office; Garrett County Early Childhood Professional Association; Garrett County Sheriff's Office; and Garrett County Community Action's Early Head Start, Fatherhood Initiative, Head Start, Overlook Judy Center Partnership, and Wrap- Around Child Care programs.

The other festival collaborators are the Garrett County Health Department's Asthma Coalition, Bike Helmet Safety, Dare to be You, Healthy Families Garrett County, nutrition, Pandora's Box, WIC (Women, Infants, and Children) programs; Garrett County Partnership for Children and Families Inc.'s Infants & Toddlers and Partners After School programs; HART for Animals Inc.; Maryland State Department of Education Office of Child Care; MOPS (Mothers of Preschoolers); Mtn. Laurel Medical Center; PAWS (Partners for Animal Welfare and Safety); Parents' Place; Parent Partners; Dennett Road Elementary School's Roadrunner Readers Program; Ruth Enlow Library; and St. Mark's Christian Early Learning Center.

Companies contributing to the festival include Peppers Inc. and U.S. Food Service.

The festival is free, and no reservations are required. For more information, persons may call the Overlook Judy Center Partnership at 301-334-4211.

Spring Cleanup Event Scheduled At NG State Park

New Germany State Park officials will hold their annual spring cleanup event on Saturday, April 11. Volunteers are to met at the Lakehouse at 9 a.m.

The event will conclude at noon with a pizza lunch, provided by the Friends of New Germany.

"Join local Scout groups and community volunteers in preparing the park for the summer season," said a spokesperson. "This is a great opportunity for students seeking service learning hours."

Volunteers are asked to call the park office at 301-895-5453 to register.

Grants Offered To Aid Homeschool Students/Families

Toby's Trust, a local, non-profit Christian organization, will be awarding two grants to Garrett County homeschooling families in 2009 for the purpose of purchasing homeschool curriculum materials for grades K-12 for the 2009-10 school year.

Applications are available at Pleasant Valley Baptist Church, Oakland; Emmaus Road Christian Bookstore, McHenry; and Accident and Grantsville branches of the Ruth Enlow Library. The deadline to apply for the grants is July 1.

Grant recipients will be selected based on need and demonstration of exceptional homeschool teaching quality. To qualify for consideration for a grant, families must:

- complete and submit a grant application by the deadline;
- demonstrate financial need;
- have proof that they have a child or children enrolled in homeschool for the 2009-10 school year in grades K-12;
- reside in Garrett County;
- be planning to purchase qualifying homeschool materials for the 2009-10 school year from a qualifying vendor for one or more children living in their household; and
- meet all eligibility requirements.

Grant money may be used to purchase student curriculum workbooks, teachers' manuals, reading books to be used as part of the curriculum, devotional books to be used as part of the curriculum, and curriculum aides specifically designed by the publisher to be used in conjunction with students' planned coursework (i.e., flash cards, tests, blacklines, science kits, etc.).

All materials purchased must be part of a legitimate homeschool curriculum by an approved publisher. All Garrett County homeschooling families who find it difficult to afford the costs of curriculum materials are encouraged to apply.

For more information, persons may call 240-321-1345 and leave a detailed message with a contact phone number and address.

CANNED FOOD DRIVE

The National Honor Society is conducting their annual canned food drive for the House of Hope, but with a twist for spring. Students are asked to think about what kinds of food students would like to eat over the summer and bring the non-perishable food items to the main lobby each morning before 8:25 a.m. The first period class that donates the most non-perishable items wins a donut and juice breakfast. The canned food drive starts Monday, March 30, and extends through Thursday, April 9. Spring cleaning the kitchen cabinets can help feed Garrett County's hungry.

NATIONAL RESOURCES CAREER CONFERENCE

For several years the Forest Conservancy District Board and Maryland Department of Natural Resources have partnered up to offer a free Natural Resources Career Conference (NRCC) for college bound students in grades 9-11. Students who attend the NRCC will have the opportunity to meet natural resource professionals in forestry, wildlife, fisheries, and soil and water conservation related disciplines. There is also an option of receiving college credit if the participants wish to pay the $90 Allegany College of Maryland tuition fee. Applications and more information can be obtained in the Guidance Office. Students are encouraged to apply.

The program is open to all high school students interested in attending one of the five academies. Juniors are encouraged to attend since the application process begins in the junior year of high school. Applications for Rep. WKHJ, 92.3 The Train To Host 10th Annual Easter Egg Hunt

The 10th annual Radio-FX Easter Egg Hunt, hosted by WKHJ and 92.3 The Train radio stations, is scheduled for Saturday, April 4, at 11 a.m. at Broadford Lake Park. The event is free to area children ages 2 to 10.

"Local businesses and organizations have graciously contributed so much in the past as our numbers for the egg hunt continue to grow," said Pam Trickett, WKHJ. "This year we plan to stuff over 3,200 plastic eggs. There will be six $50 savings bonds, two per age category donated by various local banks and businesses. The best part is watching the younger kids' smiling faces as they race to pick up their eggs."

According to Karen Ray, service learning coordinator at the Board of Education, the event will give school age children the chance to earn service learning hours, as eggs need to be stuffed on Friday, and then hidden on Saturday.

"The event grows each year for the three separate egg hunts, broken up by ages 2 to 4, 5 to 7, and 8 to 10 years old," said Lisa Skipper, WKHJ. "Easter baskets, prizes, candy, and even a visit form the Easter Bunny are just some of the highlights."

Trickett also expressed appreciation and thanks to Oakland's mayor and town council for the use of Broadford Park, to the Oakland Fire Department for the use of the fire hall, to Karen Ray, and to all the local businesses and service organizations that help to make this event successful.

Persons interested in helping, donating prizes, or earning service learning hours should contact RadioFX at 301-334-4272.

A rain date is planned for Saturday, April 11.

"We have received many positive comments and feedback at past prom events, and anticipate an increase in attendance due to the success we have built since partnering with GCASC." This year's prom theme is "A Night in Italy." The event will also feature live music from Johnny Moore. Dinner will be an Italian buffet. The GCASC will be responsible for the decorations, soliciting door prizes, and providing souvenirs for each attendee. The students will also attend the prom to socialize and dance with the senior citizens. Tickets are $12 per person and are available now at the Mary Browning Senior Center, Oakland; Grantsville Senior Center; Friendsville Nutrition Site; and Flowery Vale Fitness Center, Accident. No tickets will be sold at the door. This event is open to anyone age 55 and over. For more information, persons may call Clow at 301-334-9431, ext. 139. AN EARLY LESSON IN LISTENING

Do you know why approximately four parents in five hold their babies on their left sides? (Hint: the answer has nothing to do with the parent's ability to free up his or her dominant hand.) According to research conducted in England, the answer rests with the way in which an infant's brain processes words and sounds. When a baby is held on a parent's left side, sounds from the parent's mouth enter the baby's left ear and are processed on the right side of the brain, the part of the brain where the emotional aspects of language are recognized. Since all our early communication is emotional, parents instinctively carry their babies on the side that produces the best reaction.

Communication is a vital part of our world no matter what our age. And at AUDIBEL, we'll do all we can to assure that the isolation of a hearing impairment doesn't keep you on the outside looking in. We'll start with a comprehensive hearing test to determine the best course of action for your particular problem. If a hearing impairment is detected, we'll use all our knowledge and experience to match the correct instrument with your abilities in order to make the most of the hearing you do have.

P.S. The research mentioned above also applies to whispering "sweet nothings" into the left ear of an adult partner

Why We Need this Vitamin

Thiamine (Vitamin B1) is essential for numerous bodily processes. For example it is necessary for protein, red blood cell, glucose (sugar), immune and nervous system functions. It is also needed to produce another vitamin called Niacin. Thiamine can be found in beans, poultry, fortified cereals, fruits, and vegetables. The Recommended Dietary Allowance for thiamine is 1.3 mg for men and women ages 19-50, 1.7mg for men ages 51 and over, 1.5 mg for women ages 51 and over, and for pregnant women of all ages is 1.9 mg. Deficiencies are rare in the United States, however, certain people are at risk.

Older people and alcoholics may develop thiamine deficiency due to lack of dietary variety or a general decrease in appetite or food intake. Chronic alcohol ingestion also leads to the destruction of thiamine in the body. Children who take theophylline for asthma may need thiamine supplements, because it can lead to loss of thiamine. People taking the drug isoniazid for the treatment of tuberculosis should take thiamine supplements because isoniazid decreases the activity of the vitamin in the body.

Divine Destiny

As children we attempt to determine the unknown. What profession will we choose? Will we marry and have a family? Where will we live? As we grow there are many forks in the road, even basic decisions can be difficult. Yet, when we shape our lives with God at the center, the journey is easier.

God has designed a divine destiny for each of us, "He destined us in love to be His sons (and daughters)" (Ephesians 1:5). He also gave us free will...the freedom of choice. We have to choose our path.

If we design our lives with God's will in mind, we will reap the wisdom of His Word, the serenity borne of faith, and the strength for untold tomorrows. Worship each week and follow your divine destiny.

A Christian Perspective on Stewardship

"The Tragedy of the Commons" is a cautionary article written by the biologist Garrett Hardin in 1968. The tragedy referred to is the tendency for individuals to use more than their fair share of common resources when it will benefit them, even if doing so will deplete the common resource. Consider a pasture available for grazing by everyone in the community; this is the commons. It will often be in the interests of individuals to increase the size of their herds, thereby depleting community resources, and ultimately harming the common resource. What is positive for the individual may often be negative for the community. This problem applies to almost every environmental issue with which we are faced, from fossil fuels and global warming to the community dumpsite. It is tempting to appeal to peoples' conscience and say, "Use only your fair share," but this doesn't help much, since we simply don't know in most cases what constitutes a "fair share." The Biblical notion of stewardship might be helpful here, since humans are given dominion over the earth. However, dominion does not mean that we can do whatever we want with the earth, but rather that we are to exercise wise stewardship over it. Since the individual cannot solve this problem themselves, we must come together as a community, including the world community, to responsibly solve the tragedy for the commons.

Woe to those who join house to house, who add field to field, until there isno more room, and you are made to dwell alone in the midst of the land.

Still a jungle out there for ex-tarzan

Travis Fimmel

Q: Is Travis Fimmel of "The Beast" the same actor who was in the short-lived WB Network series about Tarzan? What else has he played in? –Angela Morris, Daytona Beach, Fla.

A: Yes, it's the same performer who's been starring with Patrick Swayze in the A&E Network show. The Australia native actually hasn't done much else, perhaps the most notable project being "Surfer, Dude," a Matthew McConaughey comedy that had only a limited theatrical release last fall and quickly went to the video market.

Q: Will "The Man From U.N.C.L.E." ever be shown again on television? Is it available on DVD? –Dale Perne, Toledo, Ohio

A: As we like to say, "ever" is a long time – but with that series being the classic it is, we'd expect some cable network will give it a regular run again sometime. (The last outlet to give it such treatment was American Life TV, on which the adventures were a Wednesday night staple for several years.)

The better news is that the complete series is available, packed in a cardboard "attache case," from Warner Home Video. It was first issued in 2007 as a direct-marketing product from Time Life Home Video; Warner then made it generally available last fall. And at the start of this month, Paramount Home Entertainment released the TV movie sequel "The Return of the Man From U.N.C.L.E.: The Fifteen Years Later Affair," which returned Robert Vaughn and David McCallum to the roles of Napoleon Solo and Illya Kuryakin.

Q: I always record my favorite programs so that I can go to bed early and watch them later in the week. I've heard that after the digital change, any station with a channel number higher than 20 won't be programmable, like Lifetime on 51 or TNT on 54. Please tell me this isn't true. –Carole Fujita, Federal Way, Wash.

A: OK, it isn't true. Depending on the individual setup of your cable input and recording device, you might have to reset the device when the digital switchover is complete in June, but – minus any specific quirks in your television system – we can't determine any reason you shouldn't be able to receive everything you're receiving now. Should that become the case, notify your cable or satellite provider.
